U.S. Orders Czech Diplomat To Leave

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Czechoslovakian diplomat has been ordered out of the United States in reprisal for the ouster of an American envoy from Prague.

The State Department said Friday that Jaroslav Skacil, third secretary of the Czech Embassy here, was told Wednesday that he is "no longer acceptable to the U.S. government."

Six days earlier, Robert W. Kent, Jr., 32, of Oakland, Calif., second secretary at the U.S. embassy in Prague was accused by the Czech government of espionage and was ordered to leave in the "shortest possible time."

The Czech news agency also accused Timothy J. Burke, 45, of Buffalo, N.Y., another second sectary at the U. S. Embassy, of "abuse" of diplomatic status, but apparently no move has been made to expel him.

The State Department categoricallydenied the espionage charge. It said the whole story took place as follows:

On Saturday Sept. 23, Burke, while on a family outing, "inadvertently" entered a military area near Prague and was stopped by Czech military officials and detained several hours.

The next day, Kent, en route with his family to the nearby city of Podebrady, drove along a public road in the same area and came to a sentry standing by a sign which said "military area-no entry."

Kent asked directions and the sentry waved him on. Less than a half a mile farther Kent came to a second sentry and asked if he could proceed. The sentry said yes but told him to wait.

State department officials said a truck then drove up blocking the way, and civilian photographers suddenly appeared and began photographing Kent's car. He was detained there about two and a half hours and then was released.

Five days later the Czech government accused him of abusing his diplomatic status for the purpose of espionage.

The State Department said Kent was at no time engaged in espionage activity. But in accordance with customary practice, the U.S. diplomat was returning home.

Asked whether the United States had placed any charges against Skacil, a State Department spokesman said, "No comment."

Two Mystery Deaths Probed At University

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (UPI) — Two male University of North Carolina students were found dead in their beds in the same dormitory Friday and authorities said the cause of their deaths was a mystery.

A janitor discovered the bodies of William Henry Harrison Johnson, Jr., 24, a graduate student from Statesville, N.C., and James Michael Barham, 21, of Burlington, N.C.

The two students both were clad in night clothes and were lying on their backs in bed.

There were no external signs of violence on the bodies, a university spokesman said.

Orange County Coroner George Canady organized a coroner's jury which viewed the bodies and examined the room in Cobb dormitory, but the jury returned a verdict of death "from causes unknown."

Canady ordered an autopsy performed.

The bodies were discovered shortly before noon by a janitor, Robert Holt.

Both Johnson and Barham were "self-help" students who worked at waiting on tables in Lenoir Hall. They had failed to report this morning and Holt was sent to investigate.

Hoffa Aide Is Indicted

DETROIT (UPI) —A federal grand jury Friday indicted an aide of James R. Hoffa on charges of taking illegal payments from a Grand Rapids, Mich., trucking firm which hired Teamsters' members.

A six-count indictment was levelled against Goerge Roxburgh, 49, business agent of Detroit Teamsters Local 299. The local is home base for Hoffa, president of the powerful International Teamsters Union.

Roxburgh, specifically, was charged with taking sums of money and a "retainer" of $200 a month from the Interstate Motor Freight System, of Grand Rapids. The firm had employed members of Local 299.

Roxburgh, if convicted on all six counts, could be sentenced to six years in prison and fined $60,000.

New Income Tax Form May Ease Filing Returns

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The government came out Friday with a new version of tax form 1040 that will make it easier to figure out income taxes. But the load on the pocketbooks will be the same.

In the new model displayed by Internal Revenue Commissioner Mortimer S. Caplin, form 1040 has been cut from four pages to two. An attempt also has been made to eliminate some of the government gobbledegook.

Caplin estimated that about 16.5 million taxpayers should be able to use the shortened 1040 form instead of the so-called "long form" they formerly filled out. Another 7.5 million who have been using the two-page 1040W also will shift to the new form.

Still stuck with the four-age long form are taxpayers who must list income from dividends, interest, pensions and annuities, rents and royalties, depreciation and retirement credits.

In effect the government has lopped off pages 3 and 4 from the old form which provided space for reporting all income other than wages, salaries and capital gains. Persons without this kind of income had been allowed to tear them off.

Unchanged is form 1040A, the short form used by about 20 million taxpayers. This return, slightly larger than a bank check, still may be used by people with less than $10,000 of income including no more than $200 in dividends, interest and wages on which taxes were not withheld.

Some of the language also is being simplified on the new forms. For example, the word "total" will be used nstead of "adjusted gross income."

Conference Described As Interesting

No Changes Seen In East-West Stand On Berlin

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy Friday night held an "interesting" two-hour meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko without any immediate sign whether they had eased the East-West deadlock on Berlin.

The "interesting" label was pinned on the White House meeting by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who sat in on the conference. He added that it was "more or less a continuation" of talks he held with Gromyko in New York last week.

Gromyko called the conference "useful." But he indicated strongly that there had been no change in Russia's determination to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany — a move that could endanger the Allied position in Berlin.

"I think this conversation was useful," Gromyko said. "It will be useful. We touched on several important matters concerning relations between the Soviet Union and the United States.

Discuss Treaty

As far as the position of the Soviet government was concerned, first of all there was the importance of the question of a peace treaty with Germany."

The President conferred in his White House study with Gromyko in a further attempt to find an acceptable basis for East-West negotiations — and to convince Russia of this country's determination to fight if necessary to defend its rights in Brelin.

Gromyko, who returns to Moscow, will relay the President's words to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev just before the opening of a big Communist party congress about 10 days hence. The Soviet envoy said at the White House that he did not plan to meet again with Kennedy.

In public at least, Gromyko presented an air of affability and good humor htroughout his Washington visit. Upon his arrival from New York in early afternoon, he declared that nuclear war over Berlin "must be averted."

Accompanied By Menshikov

Going into the White House and in exchanges with reporters after the meeting, he seemed to be in much the same spirits, smiling faintly but still business-like.

Gromyko, who was accompanied to the meeting by Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov, seemed to be in especially good spirits when he entered the executive mansion. Noting the 100 reporters lining the steps, he turned to those on the left and said with a laugh: "The left is better than the right."

The sometimes dour Soviet diplomat also appeared to be in good spirits when he arrived at Washington's Union Station. He had scarcely alighted when a reporter asked him to assess the possibility that the Berlin crisis might explode into nuclear war.

The Soviet foreign minister, not customarily given to off-the-cuff answers, first said he could not properly reply to such a question. He strode a few steps down the platform, then turned and said:

Old De Valera Party Loses In Ireland

DUBLIN, Ireland (UPI) — Eamon de Valera's old Fianna Fail party lost control of parliament Friday in the first general elections since the one-time rebel leader retired from the political arena three years ago.

The Fianna Fail, which governed Ireland for 23 of the past 29 years, also showed a slump in popularity in Wednesday's nationwide elections for a new Dail (lower house of parliament).

The setback for Premier Sean Lemass, De Valera's political heir, left Ireland without a clear-cut choice to form the next government. Party leaders scheduled weekend meetings to decide their alignments when the new Dail meets on Wednesday to elect a premier.

The results indicated an almost even division of seats between Fianna Fail and its opposition parties. Some observers predicted new elections before next spring.

Results showed this lineup:

Fianna Fail 70—or three short of the overall majority.

Fine Gael 47.

Labor 16.

United States Is Optimistic On Prospects

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) —The United States was reported highly optimistic Friday that it could reach agreement with the Soviet Union for the naming of an interim U. N. secretary-general.

U Thant, veteran Burmese delegate, was said to be acceptable to both countries, and available for the post provided they could agree on the terms of service.

One source in touch with U. S. thinking expressed "all the highest optimism" that a solution would bfound to fill the gaap left would be found to fill the gap left by Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold's death Sept. 18 in a plane crash in Northern Rhodesia.

A neutralist diplomat in a position to know about negotiations that have been going on here stated his belief that U. S.-Soviet agreement was 90 per cent complete.

Delegates generally said those negotiations had been suspended almost entirely during the day to see whether President Kennedy and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko would complete the agreement in their White House talks Friday.

With the avowed aim of getting "public reports back into focus," a U. S. delegation spokesman restated his government's recorded position on the whole matter in these five points:

"1. The new secretary - general should have a clear mandate to carry out the full functions of his office.

"2. The troika concept of dividing the world into three blocs is contrary to the spirit of the (U.N.) Charter and damages the integrity of the Secretariat.

"3. There should be no political representation in the Secretariat.

"4. The General Assembly has full authority to appoint an interim secretary-general.

"5. The new man should be appointed promptly."

He added: "The United States and the U.S.S.R. have not agreed either on appointing an interim secretary-general with full powers or on the man. There is no lack of qualified persons, but we have no candidate."

The spokesman said that as far as he knew the Soviet delegation was standing by its press-release proposal of last Sunday. It said the new chief of the Secretariat should not be subject to any veto but should "act in a spirit of concert" with three deputies, from the Soviet Union, the United States and Asia or Africa, who should be named with him.

Algerians Begin Final March To Independence

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle's minister for Algerian affairs started talks with officials Friday to organize what may be the final phase in Algeria's march toward independence.

Minister Louis Joxe drove from Algiers airport to the new administration headquarters at Rocher Noi, 33 miles east of Algiers.

His visit, the third in three weeks, coincided with new success in the local French campaign to cut short terrorism being waged both by Moslem Algerians and the extremist settler "secret army organization" (OAS).

The French army command announced completion of a two-month crackdown which it said has destroyed the Moslem rebel politico-military organization in key suburbs of Algiers and its immediate surroundings. The final coup was the army's capture of the Moslem chief of the organization in the district Tuesday night. The captured rebel chief was identified as Ahmed Bennai.

Police pushed on with the crackdown on the settler "secret army" underground in Algiers, following a series of arrests last week.

Informed sources said that Joxe in his secret talks was organizing the step-by-step process with which De Gaulle hopes to bring independence to Algeria with or without the collaboration of the Tunis-based rebel leaders.

President Invited To Visit Holy Land

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy was presented with the Grand Cross of the Order of the Holy Sepulchre Friday, along with an invitation to visit the holy places of Jerusalem.

Patriarch Benedictos I of Jerusalem, highest prelate of the Greek Orthodox Church ever to visit the United States, presented the decoration, his church's most select, and extended the invitation.

26 Die In Train Wreck At Hamburg

HAMBURG, Germany (UPI)—Hamburg police fixed the death toll at 26 Friday in this city's worst post-war train collision and said four more persons are in critical condition. Forty-five other persons were injured.

The disaster occurred Thursday night when an elevated train plowed into a parked work train. Two steel-bridge beams on the work train cut through the midsection of the front coach, knocking passengers and seats some 30 feet to the rear.

The collision occurred as the passenger train left downtown Hamburg for suburban stations and was crossing a 30-foot bridge spanning a canal leading to the city's overseas port.

Rayburn, Gravely Ill From Cancer, Visited By Vice President Johnson

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Close associates said Friday Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn, suffering from incurable cancer, may be returned to his home this weekend.

Rayburn, 79, is expected to go from Baylor Hospital in Dallas back to Bonham, Tex. Physicians already have said his condition is such that no surgery is contemplated.

Rayburn's spirits were reported better Friday and he was resting comfortably, still uninformed of the gravity of his condition, an associate said.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, long-time political ally of Rayburn, visited for an hour and a half in the House speaker's seventh-floor suite.

Johnson emerged solemn-faced and told reporters Rayburn's condition "is a great personal tragedy to Lady Bird (Mrs. Johnson) and myself and every other American."

The latest medical bulletin said in part: "Physicians advised that there is still no change in the general condition of Speaker Sam Rayburn. He seems somewhat better today than he did yesterday. He is still resting comfortably. His condition continues to be serious but not critical."

Doctors removed a lymph gland for tests and reported Friday that they found a metastatic malignancy. Metastatic means the malignancy has spread.

The lymph system roughly parallels the blood system and sometimes is a part of it. Lymph is a colorless fluid which helps nourish the body and rids it of infections.

President Kennedy sought to speak with Rayburn by telephone but was unable to do so because the speaker has been under sedation. However, Rayburn was removed from sedation during the night.

The President has been receiving frequent reports on Rayburn's condition.

Kennedy Thursday asked the nation to join in prayers for the speaker.

Physicians' opinions varied on how long Rayburn can battle the illness. One said two or three weeks seemed likely. Another said he might hold out several months.

A nonmedical aide to Rayburn said the end might come within several days.

Rayburn walked into the hospital last Monday after pains in his back failed to respond to treatment. He said he thought it was lumbago.

He left Washington a month before Congress adjourned, saying he needed rest at his home to help the pain.

Ford-Union Resume Talks To End Strike

DETROIT (AP) — Top negotiators for the strikebound Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers Union returned to the bargaining table Friday to assess chances for a quick end to the strike of 120,000 Ford workers.

Malcolm Denise, Ford vice president for industrial relations, and Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, led their respective teams.

Ford and the UAW had reached agreement on economic matters—such as wages and fringe benefits—before the strike began Tuesday. They became bogged down on the noneconomic issues—such as production standards—and on local issues involving Ford installations across the country.

Thirty-eight of Ford's 85 bargaining units reached agreement before the strike began, but they closed down too when the national strike began.

The UAW has insisted, as it did during the recent General Motors strike, that all local plant issues must be settled quickly along with the national contract terms.

Local bargainers for Ford and the UAW have been busy since the strike began trying to hammer out local agreements to clear the way for possible quick agreement on the national contract.

Reuther told newsmen Friday "Some of the plants are close to agreement, but some are not."

Denise said there had been "a few encouraging results in the last 24 hours." Asked if he thought a strike settlement could come this weekend, he replied, "I wouldn't say it is beyond the realm of possibility, but I am not predicting it."

One key unit which reached agreement Friday was the steel foundry at the Ford Rouge plant.

Allies Warn Reds Cease Border Shots

Situation Grows Tense As Patrols Are Strengthened

BERLIN (UPI)—The Western Allies demanded Friday the Russians halt the "dangerous and irresponsible" shooting by East German border police.

West Berlin police disclosed two more refugees died under Communist gunfire Thursday night while trying to swim to West Berlin.

Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, in a telegram of support to the East Germans, said a peace treaty will be signed "in the very near future," West Germany military officials and circles seeking revenge threaten an outbreak of war in the heart of Europe, he said.

While the border situation grew increasingly tense, Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan arrived in East Berlin with a promise of Russian support for the Communist regime "come what may." He repeated demands for a quick peace treaty and a "demilitarized free Berlin."

Tour Danger Area

Retired Gen. Lucius D. Clay, concerned by the outbreak of shooting across the border into West Berlin, toured the danger area Friday. He inspected the East-West wall and the apartment house area where East-West police exchanged 40 shots Wednesday night.

West Berlin police reported 300 to 400 East German army troops were pressed into service to strengthen the "Ulbricht Line" between the French and Soviet sectors. They aided the eviction of more border families and helped string a fourth row of barbed wire.

West Berlin police suggested the regular army was called out because so many Vopos (People's Police) had fled recently to West Berlin.

Held Responsible

The Western protest against Communist shooting was made on behalf of all three Western commandants by Maj. Gen. Sir Rohan Delacombe, the British commandant. He told Col. A. V. Solavyev, Berlin's Soviet commandant, the Allies held him responsible to see that no new incidents took place.

The Western protest was drawn up Thursday before the new shooting incident. It referred to the rooftop firing Wednesday night and protested the shots fired Thursday at a West Berlin policeman. Delacombe told the Russians the Communists deliberately opened fire on Western police and officials.

One of the refugees who died Thursday night was shot and sank while trying to swim the Spree River. The other drowned, apparently from exhaustion, as the Vopos filled the night with tracer bullets and criss-crossed the river with motorboats mounting powerful searchlights.

Reds Explode Most Powerful Nuclear Bomb

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Russia Friday exploded the 18th and perhaps most powerful nuclear bomb in its fallout-producing tests that started Sept. 1.

The explosion was disclosed early in the day by French atomic energy agency sources who described it as the biggest of the current Soviet test series.

It was confirmed Friday by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission. But the AEC said only that the blast had a yield of several million tons of TNT (megatons). The commission has used the same words in announcing several previous blasts.

Sweden's Uppsala seismological institution also recorded the blast and differed with the French in their estimate of its power.

All of the agencies — French, Swedish and American—located the explosion in the region of Russia's Arctic testing range.

Sources close to the French agency said the explosion was between one and one-half and two times as strong as the one of Oct. 4, which was measured at several megatons, a megaton is equal to one million tons of TNT.

Friday's blast was the 10th of the series to be measured at a megaton or more.

It was presumed that the explosion was set off in the atmosphere, like the previous 17 blasts. The United States is conducting its tests underground to prevent the spread of dangerous radioactive fallout.

United States Is Optimistic On Prospects

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) —The United States was reported highly optimistic Friday that it could reach agreement with the Soviet Union for the naming of an interim U. N. secretary-general.

U Thant, veteran Burmese delegate, was said to be acceptable to both countries, and available for the post provided they could agree on the terms of service.

One source in touch with U. S. thinking expressed "all the highest optimism" that a solution would bfound to fill the gaap left would be found to fill the gap left by Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold's death Sept. 18 in a plane crash in Northern Rhodesia.

A neutralist diplomat in a position to know about negotiations that have been going on here stated his belief that U. S.-Soviet agreement was 90 per cent complete.

Delegates generally said those negotiations had been suspended almost entirely during the day to see whether President Kennedy and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko would complete the agreement in their White House talks Friday.

With the avowed aim of getting "public reports back into focus," a U. S. delegation spokesman restated his government's recorded position on the whole matter in these five points:

"1. The new secretary - general should have a clear mandate to carry out the full functions of his office.

"2. The troika concept of dividing the world into three blocs is contrary to the spirit of the (U.N.) Charter and damages the integrity of the Secretariat.

"3. There should be no political representation in the Secretariat.

"4. The General Assembly has full authority to appoint an interim secretary-general.

"5. The new man should be appointed promptly."

He added: "The United States and the U.S.S.R. have not agreed either on appointing an interim secretary-general with full powers or on the man. There is no lack of qualified persons, but we have no candidate."

The spokesman said that as far as he knew the Soviet delegation was standing by its press-release proposal of last Sunday. It said the new chief of the Secretariat should not be subject to any veto but should "act in a spirit of concert" with three deputies, from the Soviet Union, the United States and Asia or Africa, who should be named with him.

Algerians Begin Final March To Independence

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle's minister for Algerian affairs started talks with officials Friday to organize what may be the final phase in Algeria's march toward independence.

Minister Louis Joxe drove from Algiers airport to the new administration headquarters at Rocher Noi, 33 miles east of Algiers.

His visit, the third in three weeks, coincided with new success in the local French campaign to cut short terrorism being waged both by Moslem Algerians and the extremist settler "secret army organization" (OAS).

The French army command announced completion of a two-month crackdown which it said has destroyed the Moslem rebel politico-military organization in key suburbs of Algiers and its immediate surroundings. The final coup was the army's capture of the Moslem chief of the organization in the district Tuesday night. The captured rebel chief was identified as Ahmed Bennai.

Police pushed on with the crackdown on the settler "secret army" underground in Algiers, following a series of arrests last week.

Informed sources said that Joxe in his secret talks was organizing the step-by-step process with which De Gaulle hopes to bring independence to Algeria with or without the collaboration of the Tunis-based rebel leaders.

President Invited To Visit Holy Land

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy was presented with the Grand Cross of the Order of the Holy Sepulchre Friday, along with an invitation to visit the holy places of Jerusalem.

Patriarch Benedictos I of Jerusalem, highest prelate of the Greek Orthodox Church ever to visit the United States, presented the decoration, his church's most select, and extended the invitation.

26 Die In Train Wreck At Hamburg

HAMBURG, Germany (UPI)—Hamburg police fixed the death toll at 26 Friday in this city's worst post-war train collision and said four more persons are in critical condition. Forty-five other persons were injured.

The disaster occurred Thursday night when an elevated train plowed into a parked work train. Two steel-bridge beams on the work train cut through the midsection of the front coach, knocking passengers and seats some 30 feet to the rear.

The collision occurred as the passenger train left downtown Hamburg for suburban stations and was crossing a 30-foot bridge spanning a canal leading to the city's overseas port.

Ford-Union Resume Talks To End Strike

DETROIT (AP) — Top negotiators for the strikebound Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers Union returned to the bargaining table Friday to assess chances for a quick end to the strike of 120,000 Ford workers.

Malcolm Denise, Ford vice president for industrial relations, and Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, led their respective teams.

Ford and the UAW had reached agreement on economic matters—such as wages and fringe benefits—before the strike began Tuesday. They became bogged down on the noneconomic issues—such as production standards—and on local issues involving Ford installations across the country.

Thirty-eight of Ford's 85 bargaining units reached agreement before the strike began, but they closed down too when the national strike began.

The UAW has insisted, as it did during the recent General Motors strike, that all local plant issues must be settled quickly along with the national contract terms.

Local bargainers for Ford and the UAW have been busy since the strike began trying to hammer out local agreements to clear the way for possible quick agreement on the national contract.

Reuther told newsmen Friday "Some of the plants are close to agreement, but some are not."

Denise said there had been "a few encouraging results in the last 24 hours." Asked if he thought a strike settlement could come this weekend, he replied, "I wouldn't say it is beyond the realm of possibility, but I am not predicting it."

One key unit which reached agreement Friday was the steel foundry at the Ford Rouge plant.

Rayburn, Gravely Ill From Cancer, Visited By Vice President Johnson

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Close associates said Friday Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn, suffering from incurable cancer, may be returned to his home this weekend.

Rayburn, 79, is expected to go from Baylor Hospital in Dallas back to Bonham, Tex. Physicians already have said his condition is such that no surgery is contemplated.

Rayburn's spirits were reported better Friday and he was resting comfortably, still uninformed of the gravity of his condition, an associate said.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, long-time political ally of Rayburn, visited for an hour and a half in the House speaker's seventh-floor suite.

Johnson emerged solemn-faced and told reporters Rayburn's condition "is a great personal tragedy to Lady Bird (Mrs. Johnson) and myself and every other American."

The latest medical bulletin said in part: "Physicians advised that there is still no change in the general condition of Speaker Sam Rayburn. He seems somewhat better today than he did yesterday. He is still resting comfortably. His condition continues to be serious but not critical."

Doctors removed a lymph gland for tests and reported Friday that they found a metastatic malignancy. Metastatic means the malignancy has spread.

The lymph system roughly parallels the blood system and sometimes is a part of it. Lymph is a colorless fluid which helps nourish the body and rids it of infections.

President Kennedy sought to speak with Rayburn by telephone but was unable to do so because the speaker has been under sedation. However, Rayburn was removed from sedation during the night.

The President has been receiving frequent reports on Rayburn's condition.

Kennedy Thursday asked the nation to join in prayers for the speaker.

Physicians' opinions varied on how long Rayburn can battle the illness. One said two or three weeks seemed likely. Another said he might hold out several months.

A nonmedical aide to Rayburn said the end might come within several days.

Rayburn walked into the hospital last Monday after pains in his back failed to respond to treatment. He said he thought it was lumbago.

He left Washington a month before Congress adjourned, saying he needed rest at his home to help the pain.

Situation Grows Tense As Patrols Are Strengthened

BERLIN (UPI)—The Western Allies demanded Friday the Russians halt the "dangerous and irresponsible" shooting by East German border police.

West Berlin police disclosed two more refugees died under Communist gunfire Thursday night while trying to swim to West Berlin.

Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, in a telegram of support to the East Germans, said a peace treaty will be signed "in the very near future." West Germany military officials and circles seeking revenge threaten an outbreak of war in the heart of Europe, he said.

While the border situation grew increasingly tense, Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan arrived in East Berlin with a promise of Russian support for the Communist regime "come what may." He repeated demands for a quick peace treaty and a "demilitarized free Berlin."

Tour Danger Area

Retired Gen. Lucius D. Clay, concerned by the outbreak of shooting across the border into West Berlin, toured the danger area Friday. He inspected the East-West wall and the apartment house area where East-West police exchanged 40 shots Wednesday night.

West Berlin police reported 300 to 400 East German army troops were pressed into service to strengthen the "Ulbricht Line" between the French and Soviet sectors. They aided the eviction of more border families and helped string a fourth row of barbed wire.

West Berlin police suggested the regular army was called out because so many Vopos (People's Police) had fled recently to West Berlin.

Held Responsible

The Western protest against Communist shooting was made on behalf of all three Western commandants by Maj. Gen. Sir Rohan Delacombe, the British commandant. He told Col. A. V. Solavyev, Berlin's Soviet commandant, the Allies held him responsible to see that no new incidents took place.

The Western protest was drawn up Thursday before the new shooting incident. It referred to the rooftop firing Wednesday night and protested the shots fired Thursday at a West Berlin policeman. Delacombe told the Russians the Communists deliberately opened fire on Western police and officials.

One of the refugees who died Thursday night was shot and sank while trying to swim the Spree River. The other drowned, apparently from exhaustion, as the Vopos filled the night with tracer bullets and criss-crossed the river with motorboats mounting powerful searchlights.

Reds Explode Most Powerful Nuclear Bomb

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Russia Friday exploded the 18th and perhaps most powerful nuclear bomb in its fallout-producing tests that started Sept. 1.

The explosion was disclosed early in the day by French atomic energy agency sources who described it as the biggest of the current Soviet test series.

It was confirmed Friday by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission. But the AEC said only that the blast had a yield of several million tons of TNT (megatons). The commission has used the same words in announcing several previous blasts.

Sweden's Uppsala seismological institution also recorded the blast and differed with the French in their estimate of its power.

All of the agencies — French, Swedish and American—located the explosion in the region of Russia's Arctic testing range.

Sources close to the French agency said the explosion was between one and one-half and two times as strong as the one of Oct. 4, which was measured at several megatons, a megaton is equal to one million tons of TNT.

Friday's blast was the 10th of the series to be measured at a megaton or more.

It was presumed that the explosion was set off in the atmosphere, like the previous 17 blasts. The United States is conducting its tests underground to prevent the spread of dangerous radioactive fallout.

Changes Proposed In Md. Auto Insurance Laws

BALTIMORE (AP) — A change in the Maryland insurance law which would extend the notice a company must give when it cancels a motorist's automobile policy will be sought when the Legislative Council meets to remodify the law.

Del. Richard T. Rombro, D-Balto 4th, said Friday he would attempt to include the change into a recodification of the state's insurance law when it comes before the Legislative Council for public hearing late this year.

The standard automobile insurance contract provides that a company must give the motorist a 10-day notice of cancellation.

Rombro said his plan would require the insurer to give the driver's insurance agent an additional 10-day notice to allow the agent time to find his client another policy.

He said the change would give drivers and other carriers of insurance more time to get a new policy if the one in effect is cancelled while they are on vacation or out of town on business. He said the extended notice also would apply to fire and casualty insurance.

Meanwhile, Hyman A. Pressman carried to court his fight to oust F. Douglass Sears as insurance commissioner.

Pressman opened his attack on Sears when the commissioner refused to hold hearings on automobile insurance rates and cancellation of policies.

Judge J. Gilbert Prendergast gave Sears until Oct. 26 to answer arguments by Pressman that Sears should be removed from his $10,000-a-year post because of conflict of interest.

Rival Princes Meet In Laos

BAN HIN HEUP, Laos (UPI)—Laos' Three rival princes failed Friday at a 4½-hour meeting on a war-ruined bridge 50 miles north of Vientiane to reach any agreement on a coalition government that could save Laos from continued civil war.

The three princes, shaded from a broiling sun by a pink and white candy-striped tent and soothed by a breeze from an electric fan powered by a portable generator, devoted three hours of their meeting to a champagne lunch at a table decorated with five purple orchids.

Informed sources said they bogged down on the same issues which deadlocked 39 sessions of the fruitless truce talks at the village of Ban Namone.

The three princes agreed to meet again Saturday on the rebel held side of the river.

Files For Governor

Conference Described As Interesting

"The danger must be averted, must be prevented."

During his talk with Gromyko, the President was flanked by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who conferred with the Russian three times during the U.N. General Assembly session in New York last week. Some progrss at these talks led to the Kennedy-Gromyko meeting.

Shortly before the White House conference got underway, the President received a letter from West German chancellor Konrad Adenauer urging that there be no weakening of the basic Western position on Berlin.

Adenauer was said to have told the President he thought Kennedy might like to have his views before conferring with Gromyko. The West German leader said he was certain the President shared his views on a strong Western stand.

The President and his aides wanted to explore every possibility of submitting the Berlin crisis to negotiation before it sparks an atomic war. But they also wanted to be sure Russia was fully aware of U.S. determination to fight if need be.

Possible Visit Reported

Several hours before the conference, a Yugoslav radio reported that First Deputy Premier Frol Kozlov, heir apparent to Khrushchev, might fly to Washington to prepare for a meeting between Khrushchev and Kennedy.

Quoting "unofficial sources in Moscow," the broadcast said Soviet authorities already had decided in principle on the trip but awaited the outcome of the Kennedy-Gromyko talk.

The State Department said it had no word of a Kozlov trip.

Khrushchev was expected to deliver a major speech to the 22nd Communist party congress in Moscow, opening Oct. 17, in which he might disclose his terms for negotiating the Berlin crisis.

The Soviet premier may want to have a good idea of the possibility for negotiations before the congress begins. For that reason, U.S. officials said the Kennedy-Gromyko conference could be decisive.

Crippled Jet Is Shot Down By Sidewinder

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (UPI)—A crippled Navy jet from which the pilot had ejected was deliberately shot down with Sidewinder missiles over the Atlantic Friday to keep it from crashing in a populated area.

The pilot of the F8U Jet photographic plane, Lt. Cmdr. Charles Price, bailed out when a fire broke out in the cockpit while he was flying over Fentress, Va.

He headed the disabled aircraft toward the Atlantic before ejecting himself from the craft. He parachuted into a wooded area.

However, officials feared the pilotless jet would veer back toward the Atlantic coast and sent other jets up to shoot it down.

A Navy spokesman said the plane was shot down by at least two other F8U Crusader jets armed with heat-seeking Sidewinder missiles.

The jets, based at the Oceana Naval Air Station near here, were alerted and completed their mission within 15 minutes.

Price, based at Cecil Field, Fla., received minor cuts and bruises when he descended to safety.

MARYLAND BRIEFS

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Legislative Council's new Committee on Civil Defense will hold its second meeting Oct. 20 to consider possible legislation to encourage construction of individual and community fallout shelters.

The meeting date was announced by State Sen. H. Winship Wheatley Jr., D-Prince Georges, committee chairman. He asked Maryland residents to submit recommendations for new laws or modification of present laws which woud encourage shelter construction.

He said letters should be sent to him or other committee members at City Hall, Baltimore.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gov. Tawes announced the appointment Friday of Chalmers Campbell McElvain as chairman of Maryland's United Nations Week observance.

McElvain, manager of the Baltimore division of Armco Steel Corp., urged the public to join in the observance because the United Nations "is facing not only a grave internal constitutional crisis, but is balanced on a tightrope drawn taut by the world's increasing political problems."

United Nations Week activities begin Oct. 22.

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Academy of Sciences has named Dr. Andre T. Jagendorf, associate professor of biology at Johns Hopkins University, as Mar- of 1961.

Dr. Jagendorf, 35, was cited for his work in plant physiology, biochemistry and photosynthesis. Gov. Tawes presented a plaque and a $500 cash award to Dr. Jagandorf Friday in Baltimore.

Rising Tide Of Protestant Self-Deprecation Brings Dissents From Churchmen

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

Protestantism has a flair for hunting out its own faults and foibles, and raising holy Ned about them—in public.

The theory is that frank recognition of shortcomings is the first step toward getting rid of them.

But here lately, the breast-beating and self-deprecation has been so rugged that it's too much even for some of the saltiest church stalwarts.

There are "altogether too many voices within the church itself which seek to blacken its name," says the Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, a foremost Lutheran, and no soft-pedaler of problems himself.

"There are voices within the church which cry that the church is mediocre, irrelevant, offering what nobody wants. They call it prosaic, prim, dull. From their descriptions, you might think the church is 'unstuck, falling to pieces,'" Dr. Fry says.

Quite to the contrary, he says, the church is in a period of unsurpassed potentialities, and retains its invincible eternal resources.

Dissents to the sharpshooting also has come from numerous other churchmen.

They say they're fed up with all the gloom and doom talk about a "post-Protestant era," about Protestantism being on the decline, and the churches having turned worldly.

The Rev. Dr. Truman P. Douglass, a United Church of Christ leader, says there are unmistakeable signs of new Protestant vitality aside from the superficial institutional and statistical growth.

He cites these factors:

An increased emphasis on Christian quality, rather than quantity; greater intellectual vigor and effort to apply Christianity to contemporary life; growing emphasis on responsibilities of the laity; the movement toward Protestant unity.

A recent declaration by the United Presbyterian Church says:

"While we would be the first to deplore the weaknesses of the organized church as today constituted, and while we are eager to see new expressions of faith and life, yet we ought not merely to wring our hands about the weaknesses of the church.

"Let us glory in the church of Christ, for he loved it and gave his life for it, and he still loves it. Let our witness be gracious, dynamic and persistent."

The Rev. J. Victor Benson, a United Lutheran educator and also a psychologist, says the self-examination has gone on to the "point of masochistic morbidity."

There is no profession which has laid itself open to the amount of self-examination to the extent as has the clergy," he said.

Instead of "forever sniping at organized religion," he says, the energy ought to go into "constructive programs of improvement. If we are mature enough to see our deficiencies, then we are mature enough to do something to correct them."

Says the Rev. R. A. W. Bruehl, a Western Springs, Ill., Methodist: "Let's stop kicking the church in the teeth, and get on with building the kingdom."

"I simply disagree that we are lost and hopeless as some would have us think," he says. "I still believe in the possibilities of man as he chooses to walk with Christ. I believe man can be morally responsible."

The Rev. Dr. Kenneth Scott Latourette, noted Christian historian, says, "We are living in one of the greatest days of the Christian church."

"Again and again we are told that we are now in the post-Christian era," he says. "Yet in at least four ways, Christianity is more potent in the affairs of men than ever before.

"First of all, Christianity is more widespread geographically than it or any other religion has ever been.

"In the second place, Christianity is more deeply rooted among more people than ever before.

"Third, Christians are coming together as never before.

"In the fourth place, the influence of Christ is extending far beyond the borders of the churches and is making itself felt more widely than in any previous age."

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

This is the best bubble he has ever blown, big and shiny and full of rainbow lights that shimmer gaily as he blows . . . and blows . . . and blows . . .

Inevitably, there will come the moment, when he will blow too hard and the bubble will burst. And then what was a thing of bewitching beauty will have vanished into air.

Some of the brightest-appearing things in life are no more stable than bubbles. They can shatter in an instant. But there are values that endure . . . the kind of values we learn in Church. The Church can help us achieve something solid and real, and the faith it teaches us is in no danger of disappearing today . . . tomorrow . . . or ever.

Rising Tide Of Protestant Self-Deprecation Brings Dissents From Churchmen

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

Protestantism has a flair for hunting out its own faults and foibles, and raising holy Ned about them—in public.

The theory is that frank recognition of shortcomings is the first step toward getting rid of them.

But here lately, the breast-beating and self-deprecation has been so rugged that it's too much even for some of the saltiest church stalwarts.

There are "altogether too many voices within the church itself which seek to blacken its name," says the Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, a foremost Lutheran, and no soft-pedaler of problems himself.

"There are voices within the church which cry that the church is mediocre, irrelevant, offering what nobody wants. They call it prosaic, prim, dull. From their descriptions, you might think the church is 'unstuck, falling to pieces,'" Dr. Fry says.

Quite to the contrary, he says, the church is in a period of unsurpassed potentialities, and retains its invincible eternal resources.

Dissents to the sharpshooting also has come from numerous other churchmen.

They say they're fed up with all the gloom and doom talk about a "post-Protestant era," about Protestantism being on the decline, and the churches having turned worldly.

The Rev. Dr. Truman P. Douglass, a United Church of Christ leader, says there are unmistakable signs of new Protestant vitality aside from the superficial institutional and statistical growth.

He cites these factors:

An increased emphasis on Christian quality, rather than quantity; greater intellectual vigor and effort to apply Christianity to contemporary life; growing emphasis on responsibilities of the laity; the movement toward Protestant unity.

A recent declaration by the United Presbyterian Church says:

"While we would be the first to deplore the weaknesses of the organized church as today constituted, and while we are eager to see new expressions of faith and life, yet we ought not merely to wring our hands about the weaknesses of the church.

"Let us glory in the church of Christ, for he loved it and gave his life for it, and he still loves it. Let our witness be gracious, dynamic and persistent."

The Rev. J. Victor Benson, a United Lutheran educator and also a psychologist, says the self-examination has gone on to the "point of masochistic morbidity."

There is no profession which has laid itself open to the amount of self-examination to the extent as has the clergy," he said.

Instead of "forever sniping at organized religion," he says, the energy ought to go into "constructive programs of improvement. If we are mature enough to see our deficiencies, then we are mature enough to do something to correct them."

Says the Rev. R. A. W. Bruehl, a Western Springs, Ill., Methodist: "Let's stop kicking the church in the teeth, and get on with building the kingdom."

"I simply disagree that we are lost and hopeless as some would have us think," he says. "I still believe in the possibilities of man as he chooses to walk with Christ. I believe man can be morally responsible."

The Rev. Dr. Kenneth Scott Latourette, noted Christian historian, says, "We are living in one of the greatest days of the Christian church."

"Again and again we are told that we are now in the post-Christian era," he says. "Yet in at least four ways, Christianity is more potent in the affairs of men than ever before.

"First of all, Christianity is more widespread geographically than it or any other religion has ever been.

"In the second place, Christianity is more deeply rooted among more people than ever before.

"Third, Christians are coming together as never before.

"In the fourth place, the influence of Christ is extending far beyond the borders of the churches and is making itself felt more widely than in any previous age."

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

This is the best bubble he has ever blown, big and shiny and full of rainbow lights that shimmer gaily as he blows . . . and blows . . . and blows . . .

Inevitably, there will come the moment, when he will blow too hard and the bubble will burst. And then what was a thing of bewitching beauty will have vanished into air.

Some of the brightest-appearing things in life are no more stable than bubbles. They can shatter in an instant. But there are values that endure . . . the kind of values we learn in Church. The Church can help us achieve something solid and real, and the faith it teaches us is in no danger of disappearing today . . . tomorrow . . . or ever.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

How To Change From A Stranger Into A Friend

Making new friends is easier than it may seem at first glance at your new surroundings. Everything and everyone about you appears completely strange in the beginning . . . and the strangest of all is YOU, floundering for that feeling of belonging.

A new school, a new place of employment, a different neighborhood or a different town — each is filled with friends just waiting to be met. The best, most natural way to introduce yourself is to drop your shyness long enough to meet them halfway. Even more than halfway . . . for they may not realize immediately that you ARE a stranger.

So, don't wait around for that engulfing wave of attention and acceptance. Start wading toward it, slowly. Let your eagerness to become acquainted show in your ready smile and pleasant, outgoing attitude . . . but don't let anxiety and loneliness rush and push you into snap impressions and quick alliances that may prove all wrong later on.

Should you ever be the first to speak up, to tell your name, to start a conversation? You certainly should. Just consider the common surroundings that you now share with your new schoolmates, neighbors or co-workers as an "automatic introduction," as people properly do when they are gathered under the same roof at a large party.

Don't be afraid to admit that you are new and that you know very few people. Remember, one acquaintance (just like a good turn) leads to another . . . and another.

There is a great host of good gambits that you can use to attract people into forming a favorable first impression of your friendliness and charm. You might try an honest compliment: "I've wanted to tell you ever since the day we moved next door how much we admire your beautiful garden." You might ask for some simple help or for information or directions. Borrowing that perennial cup of sugar may be a little old hat by now . . . but the intention is still sound. Being asked for advice or a small favor is an indirect kind of flattery that always appeals to folks who are normally friendly themselves.

You might offer a casual invitation to share a coffee break or to stop for a coke after class to someone you see constantly and would like to know better. Showing special interest like this encourages friendship to r i p e n. Whether or not it will ripen depends on mutual discoveries. They'll take plenty of time to develop, so allow for it rather than to hurry along an unfounded sense of intimacy and kinship.

To continue a friendship, to keep it and deepen it, the basic rule boils down to one word: Reciprocate. When friendly overtures or invitations are made to you, return them. That's the only clear signal a stranger can give to show that she is ready and willing to change into a friend.

Others are more likely to seek you out as a friend when they see you are neatly groomed and becomingly dressed. This is a vital point for career girls to observe when they step into a new job.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

How To Change From A Stranger Into A Friend

Making new friends is easier than it may seem at first glance at your new surroundings. Everything and everyone about you appears completely strange in the beginning . . . and the strangest of all is YOU, floundering for that feeling of belonging.

A new school, a new place of employment, a different neighborhood or a different town — each is filled with friends just waiting to be met. The best, most natural way to introduce yourself is to drop your shyness long enough to meet them halfway. Even more than halfway . . . for they may not realize immediately that you ARE a stranger.

So, don't wait around for that engulfing wave of attention and acceptance. Start wading toward it, slowly. Let your eagerness to become acquainted show in your ready smile and pleasant, outgoing attitude . . . but don't let anxiety and loneliness rush and push you into snap impressions and quick alliances that may prove all wrong later on.

Should you ever be the first to speak up, to tell your name, to start a conversation? You certainly should. Just consider the common surroundings that you now share with your new schoolmates, neighbors or co-workers as an "automatic introduction," as people properly do when they are gathered under the same roof at a large party.

Don't be afraid to admit that you are new and that you know very few people. Remember, one acquaintance (just like a good turn) leads to another . . . and another.

There is a great host of good gambits that you can use to attract people into forming a favorable first impression of your friendliness and charm. You might try an honest compliment: "I've wanted to tell you ever since the day we moved next door how much we admire your beautiful garden." You might ask for some simple help or for information or directions. Borrowing that perennial cup of sugar may be a little old hat by now . . . but the intention is still sound. Being asked for advice or a small favor is an indirect kind of flattery that always appeals to folks who are normally friendly themselves.

You might offer a casual invitation to share a coffee break or to stop for a coke after class to someone you see constantly and would like to know better. Showing special interest like this encourages friendship to ripen. Whether or not it will ripen depends on mutual discoveries. They'll take plenty of time to develop, so allow for it rather than to hurry along an unfounded sense of intimacy and kinship.

To continue a friendship, to keep it and deepen it, the basic rule boils down to one word: Reciprocate. When friendly overtures or invitations are made to you, return them. That's the only clear signal a stranger can give to show that she is ready and willing to change into a friend.

Others are more likely to seek you out as a friend when they see you are neatly groomed and becomingly dressed. This is a vital point for career girls to observe when they step into a new job.

Miners Hospital Seeks Higher Occupancy Rate

Increasing the percentage of occupancy of Miners Hospital in Frostburg is one way of making the institution stronger financially.

The board of directors has issued its first annual report since the hospital was taken over by a private corporation of citizens on July 1, 1960.

During the past fiscal year that ended July 1, 1961, the hospital had only a 50 percent occupancy rate during the year.

The 12 months showed that 1,710 patients were admitted, accounting for 12,539 patient days.

There were 2,021 accident cases handled; 318 babies delivered, 290 major operations and 408 minor operations performed.

The hospital has 65 beds and 60 employes and during the past year showed a net profit or net income of $8,599 after years of state subsidy.

In two years the state was making up the difference between income and operational cost, for instance, the hospital lost money. The subsidy in 1959-60 was $134,026 and the previous year, $91,223.

The hospital received considerable help in contributions from citizens and organizations.

The County United Fund Health and Welfare Service Branch contributed a resuscitator valued at $350; a cystoscope costing $472; a hemotocrit centrifuge, $187.50 and centrifuge readers, $29.50.

The Frostburg Ministerial Association and the Frostburg Rotary Club gave bedside floor lamps costing $250.

Added during January were miscellaneous surgical equipment and instruments, $500; adding machine, $350, and two narcotic safes costing $62.50 each.

The hospital's ladies auxiliary gave garbage disposals valued at $350 and air vents for isolettes, $110.

The hospital added two filing cabinets in March costing $90.

In April the auxiliary purchased a croupette for $170 and an oxygen analyzer for $215.

In May, the Frostburg Chapter of the Red Cross donated, in memory of the late Mrs. J. C. Cobey two recovery room beds, $750; miscellaneous instruments, $25; two oxygen regulators, $76; laryngoscope, $35; blood pressure apparatus, $40; two oxygen tank holders, $30.

Also added by the hospital during May were the following: Cleaning cart for first floor, $105; narcotic containers, first and second floors, $120; four new lavatories, first and second floors, $443; new men's toilet, second floor, $300; new storm door, north end of first floor, $90; plumbing for recovery room $250; padded seat covers, for first floor waiting room, $135; air conditioner for dining room, $365 (donated), and mixing valve for X-ray dark room, $275.

The Ladies Auxiliary also purchased a public address system valued at $430.

Total value of these contributions was $8,238, according to William S. Jenkins, chairman of the board and president of the hospital corporation.

Sacred Heart Hopes To Form Heart Team

If things go as hoped, a special team of nurses will be organized at Sacred Heart Hospital soon so as to assure quick, efficient, and professional treatment for victims of cardiac arrest — the sudden and unexpected cessation of functions of the heart.

Nurses at the institution have been oriented to the relatively new technique of closed-chest heart resuscitation, through the efforts of Dr. Earl R. Paul, local surgeon, and the Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association.

Knowledge of this method, its "do's and don'ts" and its accurate application is expected to be offered to rescue and emergency organizations and related industrial groups in the near future by physicians through the heart association.

Through the charitable work of the two-county Heart Association and County United Fund, Sacred Heart personnel have been provided with the knowledge and equipment needed for this closed-chest process, believed by many to be the replacement in most cases for the previous method of open-heart massage through surgery when a patient's heart ceases its role in blood circulation.

Three containers, or kits, of needed drugs and apparatus are to be ideally placed at the local hospital—one in each the operating room, recovery room and dispensary. These locations give a

Donated to the hospital have been a closed-chest defibrillator and an electric cardiograph. The defibrillator is used for the type of cardiac arrest that results in chaotic twitching of the heart's muscle mass. Correction of this can only be accomplished effectively by an electric counter shock, for which the defibrillator is used. This apparatus can provide an electrical shock of 440 volts (220 for infants).

The machine is equipped with electrodes which are handled by the person administering. The electrocardiogram comes into play to provide the best index to the resuscitator of the status of cardiac rhythm—hence, providing the resuscitator with the information he needs.

This equipment and the knowledge imparted to nurses at Sacred Heart provide the foundation for a planned system of teamwork at the local institution.

Those concerned with the project at Sacred Heart are equally concerned in establishing a similar operation at Memorial Hospital, as well as acquainting emergency squads on the outside of the part they can play in the first aid phase of closed-chest cardiac resuscitation.

The 12 months showed that 1,710 patients were admitted, accounting for 12,539 patient days.

There were 2,021 accident cases handled; 318 babies delivered, 290 major operations and 408 minor operations performed.

The hospital has 65 beds and 60 employes and during the past year showed a net profit or net income of $8,599 after years of state subsidy.

In two years the state was making up the difference between income and operational cost, for instance, the hospital lost money. The subsidy in 1959-60 was $134,026 and the previous year, $91,223.

The hospital received considerable help in contributions from citizens and organizations.

The County United Fund Health and Welfare Service Branch contributed a resuscitator valued at $350; a cystoscope costing $472; a hemotocrit centrifuge, $187.50 and centrifuge readers, $29.50.

The Frostburg Ministerial Association and the Frostburg Rotary Club gave bedside floor lamps costing $250.

Added during January were miscellaneous surgical equipment and instruments, $500; adding machine, $350, and two narcotic safes costing $62.50 each.

The hospital's ladies auxiliary gave garbage disposals valued at $350 and air vents for isolettes, $110.

The hospital added two filing cabinets in March costing $90.

In April the auxiliary purchased a croupette for $170 and an oxygen analyzer for $215.

In May, the Frostburg Chapter of the Red Cross donated, in memory of the late Mrs. J. C. Cobey two recovery room beds, $750; miscellaneous instruments, $25; two oxygen regulators, $76; laryngoscope, $35; blood pressure apparatus, $40; two oxygen tank holders, $30.

Also added by the hospital during May were the following: Cleaning cart for first floor, $105; narcotic containers, first and second floors, $120; four new lavatories, first and second floors, $443; new men's toilet, second floor, $300; new storm door, north end of first floor, $90; plumbing for recovery room $250; padded seat covers, for first floor waiting room, $135; air conditioner for dining room, $365 (donated), and mixing valve for X-ray dark room, $275.

The Ladies Auxiliary also purchased a public address system valued at $430.

Total value of these contributions was $8,238, according to William S. Jenkins, chairman of the board and president of the hospital corporation.

Sacred Heart Hopes To Form Heart Team

If things go as hoped, a special team of nurses will be organized at Sacred Heart Hospital soon so as to assure quick, efficient, and professional treatment for victims of cardiac arrest — the sudden and unexpected cessation of functions of the heart.

Nurses at the institution have new technique of closed-chest heart resuscitation, through the efforts of Dr. Earl R. Paul, local surgeon, and the Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association.

Knowledge of this method, its "do's and don'ts" and its accurate application is expected to be offered to rescue and emergency organizations and related industrial groups in the near future by physicians through the heart association.

Through the charitable work of the two-county Heart Association and County United Fund, Sacred Heart personnel have been provided with the knowledge and equipment needed for this closed-chest process, believed by many to be the replacement in most cases for the previous method of open-heart massage through surgery when a patient's heart ceases its role in blood circulation.

Three containers, or kits, of needed drugs and apparatus are to be ideally placed at the local hospital—one in each the operating room, recovery room and dispensary. These locations give a been oriented to the relatively

Donated to the hospital have been a closed-chest defibrillator and an electric cardiograph. The defibrillator is used for the type of cardiac arrest that results in chaotic twitching of the heart's muscle mass. Correction of this can only be accomplished effectively by an electric counter shock, for which the defibrillator is used. This apparatus can provide an electrical shock of 440 volts (220 for infants).

The machine is equipped with electrodes which are handled by the person administering. The electrocardiogram comes into play to provide the best index to the resuscitator of the status of cardiac rhythm—hence, providing the resuscitator with the information he needs.

This equipment and the knowledge imparted to nurses at Sacred Heart provide the foundation for a planned system of teamwork at the local institution.

Those concerned with the project at Sacred Heart are equally concerned in establishing a similar operation at Memorial Hospital, as well as acquainting emergency squads on the outside of the part they can play in the first aid phase of closed-chest cardiac resuscitation.

Hume Official Candidate For Governor Post

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — David Hume made his candidacy for governor official Friday by filing papers with the secretary of state for the Democratic primary next May 15.

The 45-year-old former state Democratic Party treasurer, who broke with the Tawes administration last year over slot machines and other issues, was accompanied to Annapolis by his wife and two sons.

He issued a brief statement calling for "a new era" in government "conceived in the hearts and minds of the citizens of Maryland." He refrained, however, from some of the more pointed criticisms he has been leveling at the administration. He announced his candidacy July 17.

Hume, a Washington attorney and resident of Charles County, became the fifth candidate to enter the primary in which Gov. Tawes may or may not be a candidate for renomination. The guessing game over whether the 67-year-old chief executive will seek a second term has become a popular pastime with politicians. Tawes has not said.

Filing earlier were George P. Mahoney, J. Tyson Lee, Morgan L. Amaimo and William Carl Lehnert. The deadline for entering the primary is March 5.

Hume said in posting his $290 filing fee with the secretary of state that he feels he is gaining strength and will depend on an appeal to the people rather than political organizations.

"My position is similar to Kennedy's at this stage of the campaign," he said. "Were the choice left to the bosses in the back room I would have no chance at all."

He said he hoped to form a ticket later "but only when I have established my strength as completely as possible."

"I feel it is a mistake and a departure from the democratic process to choose a ticket in order to build a candidate in some area where he might be weak," he said. "When I choose, there will be two major considerations — a demonstrated incorruptibility and a capacity to serve."

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Gov. Barron's committee on migratory labor will visit orchards, processing plants and migrant labor camps in the Eastern Panhandle commercial apple area next week.

The tour will start Monday morning at Romney and continue through Hampshire, Morgan, Jefferson and Berkeley counties, ending Tuesday night in Martinsburg.

Officials estimated that about 5,000 seasonal workers would be required in the area to handle the 5,700,000 bushel apple crop. Four thousand of the workers will be local men and women. The other thousand are being recruited by the state's Farm Placement Service in West Virginia and southern states.

East Side Firemen Answer Two Calls

East Side Fire Company yesterday afternoon was called to the intersection of Williams Street and Fort Hill Avenue when a car owned by A. Kendall, Hyndman, caught fire. Damage to the wiring of the motor and hood panel resulted.

The same company was called yesterday morning to the home of C. C. Sommerlatt, 207 Monroe Street, after a possible leak in a coal furnace allowed fumes to fill the house. Firemen ventilated the dwelling.

An additional allotment of state income taxes from 1960 returns and from delinquent returns for the years 1942-59 is being made to the counties and their municipalities.

The incorporated municipalities in the county were given a total of $23,822 to make the overall amount in Allegany County $55,899.

Union Favors Contract Offer By Gas System

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)— Union negotiators said Friday they would recommend membership acceptance of a management offer of a new two-year contract covering about 1,850 Columbia Gas System employes in four states.

The announcement came after meetings which have been under way since Aug. 11 between representatives of Columbia's Charleston group companies-principally the United Fuel Gas Co.—and of four locals of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union.

The largest number of affected workers is in West Virginia. Others are in Virginia, Maryland and Kentucky.

The old contract expired Oct. 1 and the proposed new pact would be effective from that date.

Piedmont Girl Receives Crown As Queen Silvia

ELKINS, W. Va. (UPI) — The crowning of Rebecca Bess of Piedmont, Mineral County, as Queen Silvia XXV highlighted activities at the first full day Friday of the 25th annual Mountain State Forest Festival.

Doing the coronation honors under sunny skies covering the Davis & Elkins College amphitheater in the middle of picturesque Monongahela National Forest was Gov. W. W. Barron.

The festival will continue through Sunday. A two-mile-long parade featuring 52 bands and 35 floats entered by various communities and civic groups is scheduled Saturday afternoon.

Louise E. Eror is seeking to build a 28 by 34-foot brick veneer dwelling on Lot 47 of Mineral Avenue in Southview Addition. It was referred since plans provide for two eight-foot side yards, while the zoning ordinance requires 10 - foot side yards in Residential A zones.

Hagerstown Cool Toward Offer By PE

HAGERSTOWN (AP)—An offer of the Potomac-Edison Co. to buy Hagerstown's municipal electric plant for $13.5 million was received coolly Friday by city officials.

Charles Lyon, Potomac-Edison vice president, said the offer was made in view of the "questionable prospects of the future of the city light plant and very serious problems facing the city . . ."

Whereas the city now collects no taxes on the plant, Potomac Edison estimated revenue—if the facility was privately owned — would be $267,000 annually.

The company said it also would build a 10-story office building in downtown Hagerstown if the offer is accepted.

Senior Citizens Plan Outing

The annual fall outing of the Senior Citizens Club will be held Thursday from noon until 5 p.m. at the Kiwanis Sunshine Camp.

Mrs. Eva Hogan, advisor to the club which is sponsored by the City Recreation Department, said members will meet at the Elks Home, where transportation to the camp will be furnished by members of the Jaycees. Participating Jayncees are Mrs. William McKee, Mrs. Chris Lockard, Mrs. Richard Welsh, Mrs. Gene Krampf and Mrs. Jack Murray.

The program will include group singing, table games, outdoor games and a nature hike over the camp premises.

A covered-dish supper will be provided by members of the Senior Citizens Club. The program will conclude with a campfire and marshmallow roast.

Mrs. Hogan is in charge of arrangements, assisted by Mrs. Maxine Zehrbach and Mrs. Ruth Koegel of the Sunshine Camp staff.

County 4-H'er On Top Poultry Team

James Heavner, Allegany County 4-H'er, was a member of the Maryland poultry judging team which took second place honors at the annual North Eastern Poultry Producers Council youth program held this week in Harrisburg, Pa.

Other members of the team were James King, Gaithersburg, Montgomery County, and William and Darlene Watkins, Ednor, Montgomery County.

Maryland 4-H egg grading team also captured first place in that contest. Forty 4-H poultry judges and 30 4-H egg judges representing ten states participated in the contests.

Local Youth Enlists In Navy

Franklin Norman Nimon, 20, son of Rev. and Mrs. Robert C. Nimon, 128 Virginia Avenue, has enlisted in the Navy, according to Torpedoman's Mate First Class Jack C. Davis, local Navy recruiter.

The youth enlisted for four years and was transferred to Great Lakes Naval Training Center for nine weeks of recruit training before being assigned to the fleet.

He is a 1961 graduate of Fort Hill High School.

Canal Is Being Cleared, Mowed

High grass, brush and debris is being cleared from the bed of the C & O Canal here by the National Parks Service.

A crew of about six men were observed yesterday working on the canal in the vicinity of Offutt Street.

Another park crew is mowing grass on the towpath of the canal.

The towpath is mowed along its entire length several times a year.

Police were asked to investigate yesterday after the crew operating the mowing rig found that the battery of the tractor had been stolen as it was parked overnight in the vicinity of Offutt Street.

Can't We Beat The Competition?

In Alabama, at least, the current "Buy American" sentiment is taking concrete form. That state's highway department has ruled that from now on all steel used in highway work must be American-made.

In other areas, too, pressures are felt for bolstering domestic products against increasing foreign competition. Textile and plastics industries are among those seeking changes in import quotas and tariff rates to protect their home markets.

Labor unions, although committed by their national leadership to a free-trade policy, are disturbed by its cost in jobs. The invasion of automobiles made by less costly labor abroad is not lost upon Reuther's auto workers, nor is the increasing flow of electronic components from Japan lost upon the electrical workers.

American industry has been able to offset some of this competition by investment in plants abroad, where cheaper labor enables it to compete for foreign markets. The result of this, of course, is that American plants abroad are competing with American plants at home for world trade.

Next year's Congressional session can expect increased pressure for tariff protection, and there will probably be more "Buy American" action, too. But another way to meet foreign competition is to unshackle our native ingenuity from outdated restrictions by unions and government.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Jolly Physician

Writes Dr. O. L. Kelley of Palm Beach, Florida:

"I am taking it for granted that you have the courage to read some of the answers to the so called 'philosophy' you are paid to perpetrate on the American public . . .

"It would be assumed that information you disseminate through a syndicate would be either checked out by the same syndicate or referred back to you by the local newspapers who distribute this misinformation."

Apparently the Doctor is irate which is, as he must know, bad for his vascular system, his liver and his adrenal gland. What bothers him is that I wrote a piece about a young man who sought to convert me.

It is time that I do a bit of preaching in these columns but no one needs to hear me out. But the minister of the Jehovah's Witness, as many have written me that he is, set forth, on my lawn, to tell me that all my forbearers, for many generations, were wrong which I found to be an indignity. Besides I feel that my religion is my private affair and that when I want to be converted to some other kind, I shall do it thoughtfully and considerately, listening to scholars of my choice and not to itinerant ministers who wander the roads imagining themselves to be prototypes of Paul on his way to Damascus.

Dr. Kelley writes me:

"If you care to be correctly informed, why don't you seek the source of real truth, the Holy Bible? If you are unable to find this information for yourself, the young man who called on you as a Christian brother and seeking to help you find this information will call again. I expect you will have to ask him, though since your attitude obviously was not a brotherly one . . . ."

Once when I lived in Shanghai, a Seventh Day Adventist missionary fell upon me and complained that I lived a licentious and lewd life because I broke the Sabbath (his and mine being Saturday). I heard him out for a while during which time he quoted from Daniel to me.

From my earliest childhood I studied the Bible and by the time I was 13 years old, as is customary among my people, I knew much of the Old Testament by heart in the language in which it was written. I do not know what translation Dr. Kelley uses, but I have read several, finding the Bible a very useful book for the study of a foreign language. Knowing what it is in the original, I can look at the translations which are never altogether exact but, on the whole, are good enough. So I told the Seventh Day Adventist that when he will be able to read Daniel in the original, we shall sit down and have a discussion.

It was a stupid, show-offy kind of reply but it silenced him, for he did not know how much I really knew but he did know how little he knew and he was taking no chances. Similarly, Dr. Kelley, M.D. can have no idea of how much of the Bible I have studied, except that I tell him my first teacher in this field used a stick to teach it and when a mistake was made, we got whacked good and hard as it is a sin, among my people, to mispronounce holy script.

And so even at my advanced age, I can, on occasion, recall a passage in ancient Hebrew and it is most delightful because it reminds me of my childhood and all the marvelous joys of a very religious and even bigoted household.

So when the young minister stepped upon my lawn to tell me how the world is going to hell because of the wickedness of man and the invention of the atom bomb, I could only think of the days of my childhood when we were told that we would go to heaven if we lived according to the Ten Commandments.

I do not gainsay any man's faith but I ask him to leave me alone with mine. If he comes on my lawn and asks me for food, I shall give him what he wants, but when he steps forward to tell me what to believe, I treat him as an invader who has assumed a right which is not his. I shall believe what I choose to believe.

I have lived in many countries, with peoples of many faiths and have long learned that there are many roads to God and that not one of them is paved with gold or with mother of pearl.

Kennedy and Khrushchev Believed Near Agreement On Berlin Crisis

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—It can now be revealed that the talks between President Kennedy, Foreign Minister Gromyko, and Secretary of State Rusk have reached a point where the Berlin crisis may soon be over. Both sides are very close together.

Gromyko basically has asked for two things:

1. Settlement of all World War II boundaries, which really means fiixng the Oder-Niesse line between East Germany and Poland. This present no problems for the United States.

2. Agreement that no nuclear arms shall go to West Germany.

This is understandable, and President Kennedy is willing to go along. The Russians have had a deep-seated worry about German rearmament—as have other European nations. Many West Germans themselves don't like the idea of nuclear arms on their soil, and even de Gaulle has banned them on French soil.

The United States in turn has wanted two main points:

1. Guarantees for the freedom and independence of West Berlin, with a part of the United Nations stationed there.

2. Guarantee of free access to West Berlin through East Germany.

The Soviet Union is agreeable to both, though some details have to be ironed out regarding East German control of access to Berlin.

The above terms follow closely along the lines both Premier Khrushchev and President Kennedy outlined to me in late August. I talked to each within four days of seeing the other and it was obvious that they were basically close together. The chief problems bothering them were the intervening German elections in mid-September, a certain amount of opposition fro mt'i Red Army, and worry over Kennedy's political opponents, especially the Goldwater right wing of the Republican Party.

In the interim, however, the world has been aroused by the resumption of nuclear testing, by political speeches on both sides, by the growth of John Birchism, and by a hardening of opinion in the United States that can be extremely dangerous when two countries are on the brink of war.

Some of this may have been necessary. The Rusisans are tough bargainers and frequently overplay their hand before they sit down at a conference table, just as Jimmy Hoffa, Walter Reuther and Dave McDonald always ask for more than they expect to get. Both the USA and the USSR in this case acted like Walter Reuther and the big auto companies before they sign a new contract. Neither wants a strike, but both sound as if they wouldn't yield a single inch to avoid one.

National sentiment in the USA, however, is a lot different from sentiment inside a labor union. The United Auto Workers will go bac kto work as if nothing had happened, as the Ford strike is settled. But free-thinking countries aren't the same way. People get impassioned and emotional and don't get over grudges against a potential enemy—the way a union can drop its list of grievances against an employer.

So once the Berlin crisis is over, both governments will have to exert some effective leadership to dispel the current acrimony. Premier Khrushchev told me he wanted to invite President Kennedy to Moscow and give him the greatest reception in history—after Berlin was settled. This would help dispel the war clouds. Even more important would be the adoption of 'a' year of peace" similar to the "geophysical year," whereby both sides, in honor of Dag Hammarskjold, worked at the problems of mutual understanding.

Shoddy Newscasting

Newton Minow, short of stature but long on courage, took another hefty swing at the radio-TV industry last week regarding news broadcasting.

"Too many stations slide along with the 'rip-an-read' news broadcast," Minow told the Radio and TV News Editors Association. "Some go even further in the wrong direction and offer up a 'shout-and-scream' sound effect newscast that is long on noise and short on content."

Quoting William Small of Louisville, Past President of the Radio and TV News Editors, Chairman Minow said: "Some stations lack the willingness to invest their money, because the rate of profit is lower than disc jockeying. Some lack the willingness to get decent manpower, and prefer trickery to talent in news coverage. And many lack the courage that journalism needs to be alive."

Merry-Go-Round

A Capitol guard admonished a youngster who wanted to board a "Senators only" elevator: "Noet yet, sonny. Maybe some day, but not yet." . . . When Gore Vidal, the playwright, dines with the Kennedys he refers to it as "dining with the royal family." . . . Henry Labouisse, ousted as foreign aid administrator, is slated to become Ambassador to Argentina . . . When Congresswoman Edith Green of Oregon flew SAS to Europe with a group of Congressmen, she was actually saving the taxpayers money. The tickets were paid for out of counterpart funds, Danish Kroner. These are blocked funds which can only be used abroad or on a foreign airline. Pan American and TWA protested, but Mrs. Green took the cheaper route anyway . . . Dr. Durward Hall, the Congressman from Springfield, Mo., describes the John Birch Society, whose founder described Dwight D. Eisenhower as a Communist, as a "fine thing." Says Congressman Hall: "Anything that comes out against Communism in this day is a good thing' — apparently even if it smears the ex-President of the United States . . . The D. C. National Guard has aroused internal criticism by granting discharges and hardship releases to high-ranking officers. Lower ranking guard members are out of luck.

Situation In South Vietnam Becoming Critical

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON — Within the policy-making circle, quiet but serious consideration is now being given to sending American troops to South Vietnam, in order to have a reserve locally available in case of intensified Communist aggression.

Little public attention has yet been given to the increasingly critical situation in Southeast Asia, because all attention has been absorbed by the Berlin crisis. Until recently, the same rule held for all the higher policy-makers of the U.S. government, except for the small group especially assigned to the Southeast Asian task force. But the hard pressure of events has forced a shift of focus.

The step being immediately considered is not as dramatic as it may sound in summary. Even if the decision is affirmative, the number of troops to be sent to South Vietnam will not be large. A couple of reinforced regimental combat teams, with ample transport back-up to make them highly mobile, would appear to meet the existing requirements.

Furthermore, even if sent, these additional American forces will not be destined for immediate combat. They will merely be used to strengthen the existing military aid training group in South Vietnam, unless and until the situation suddenly worsens. The idea, as already indicated, is only to provide a hard, fully ready, fully mobile reserve on the spot.

The need for such a reserve is now urgent because of the grave recent changes in the South Vietnamese situation which were recently first reported in this space. In brief, the North Vietnamese Communists have now gone furthur than mere infiltration of small guerrilla groups into South Vietnam.

Using the Laos corridor opened to them by the disordered Laotian situation, the Communists have built up in South Vietnam a substantial force of regularly armed troops, probably amounting to three or four regiments. They have as yet been used only for small engagements, and are hidden for the present in jungle areas. But these regular Communist regiments may be sent into action at any time.

The struggle against the guerrilla irregulars is meanwhile absorbing all the energy and resource of the South Vietnamese army. The power at the disposal of courageous President Ngo Dinh Diem is already spread pretty thin over the whole country. Thus the sudden commitment of even two or three regiments of Communist regulars might be enough to cause a gravely demoralizing local disaster, since Diem has no reserve to fend off an attack.

These are the reasons why President Diem has grimly and publicly warned, this week, that the war in his country had passed into a new phase of naked aggression. These are also the reasons, very evidently, why consideration now has to be given, and is being given, to forming the needed reserve in South Vietnam with a small number of crack American troops.

The choice is very ugly indeed.

The mere act of constituting such a reserve in South Vietnam might act as a deterrent, causing the Communists to draw back. But even the potential, conditional engagement of American combat units in Southeast Asia is not an attractive prospect, to put it mildly.

On the other hand, the ned for this kind of insurance is obvious and urgent, on the face of the known facts. The South Vietnamese army has long been engaged in a harsh, uphill fight against the Communist guerrillas alone. The sudden entry of a considerable force of Communist regulars, resulting in a dramatic local success for the Communists, could have irreparable affects on public confidence and army morale. After that, it might be a case of humpty-dumpty-off-the-wall.

President Kennedy has repeatedly said that he would not permit a Communist take-over in South Vietnam. The increasingly threatening situation there, as well as the worsening outlook in Laos, caused the last minute insertion of the stern paragraph on Southeast Asia into the President's speech to the U.N.

These are the best pointers to the trend of thought in the government. Nonetheless, a final decision may be deferred for a while, despite the risks of not taking out insurance at once. One reason the decision is extra-complex, and therefore extra-difficult, is the link between South Vietnam and the neighboring corridor-country, Laos. Beyond the South Vietnamese decision, in fact, there almost certainly lies a Laos decision, which looks even uglier.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

SHORTAGE — One of Washington's swankiest hotels has been disturbed for months over the absence of a most necessary item—the red carpet it rolls out for dignitaries.

Several months ago, President Kennedy attended a function at the hotel and, ever since, the carpet has been missing. The management searched high and low in his establishment for the missing rug and couldn't find it. But he was convinced that the loss had nothing to do with the presence of the President, so he finally notified police.

Some patient detective work on the part of the local police finally located the 16 by 24 ft. carpet in the attic of a workman. The rug had been rolled up after Kennedy departed and thrown into a van carrying the public address system used by the President in making a speech there.

The thief removed it from the van and stored it in his attic, never dreaming it would be traced back to him. Now, the hotel has its rug back and the thief has six months to serve in the local jail. And the Kennedy staff, who were questioned by the police, can breathe easily once more.

Actors And A Curtain

By John Crosby

"From the Second City" a small, frightfully intimate revue with only eight actors, no scenery and practically no music, which has been running for a year and a half in Chicago, opened the other day at the Royale Theater with a joke about a speech Andrei Gromyko made that afternoon at the United Nations.

I know its a long sentence, Mannie, but it's full of pith. In fact, that sentence just about sums up the modern theater—its promise, its failures, its tendencies. Lets take it step by step, shall we? Firstly, "small, intimate, only eight actors." Actually, the way things are going, eight is a lot of actors. "Beyond the Fringe," the biggest hit London has had in years, has only four, all men. "The Premise" in Greenwich Village has only four, one girl. Elaine May and Mike Nichols are only two, with an occasional kitchen chair. Yves Montand who opened Tuesday night is only one fellow and his scenery is a curtain.

As a member of an actors union (AFTRA), I think I'm entitled to point out that the unions have raised the actors' pay and benefit scale to a point where it's uneconomical to have actors so by gosh, the theater is getting along wihout them. None of the above attractions is staffed by actors in the old sense. "Beyond the Fringe," "Second City" and "The Premise" and May and Nichols (who graduated from "Second City") are all manned by performers who invent all or most of their own material. They are performers, personalities, troubadours, wits in their own right, not actors.

I hope you get all the implications, Mannie. Costs have gone up in the modern theater to the point where we're really stripping down to the essentials. First, no actors. At least no old-fashioned kind of actors who can simply mouth somebody else's words. Your modern performer has got to bring not only his own dress suit but his own words. That means no playwright. Not a single one of those attractions has an author in the old sense. None of them has a composer either.

None of them uses enough scenery to put in your hat, eliminating not only the scene designer but also (eventually) the stagehands whose dead featherbedding hands have stifled so much theater. The unions—playwrights, (of which I'm a member, too), actors and stagehands—have so protected their members that a whole new kind of theater is coming that eliminates their members altogether. ("The Premise" has no stagehands and no electricians.)

Now, about that joke about a speech Andrei Gromyko made that afternoon at the United Nations. That's the pithiest phrase in the lead because that shows really the way the wind is blowing. In the first place, it's topical. You can hardly get more topical than to make jokes about a speech that afternoon. The fresher the jokes the funnier they are. At "The Premise" Saturday night, they had a whole skit about Syria severing relations with Nasser which had taken place earlier in the day. As a matter of fact, one reason I was quite disappointed in "Second City" is that it was not more up to date throughout. They are still doing blackouts, for heaven's sake, about the Hollywood Ten, who are far back in history. Anyhow, they're all so rich now there's no point.

But jokes about something Gromyko said at the United Nations is very much the style. The new-style comics are very hip about politics and the United Nations. You never — well, hardly ever—hear a joke about girl and boy. Unless the girl is Jackie Kennedy and the boy is deGaulle.

A typical modern type pattern from "Second City": "We have noted with interest the great many things the Americans are doing in Laos, the many things the Red Chinese are doing in Laos, the great number of things the Russians are doing in Laos and the very few things the Laotians are doing in Laos."

The grimmer the subject the more jokes proliferate about it. At "The Premise" the other night they were improvising a skit about those fallout shelters we're supposed to be building. A fallout shelter salesman was making this pitch: "We can arrange time payments. Not too long!"

I'm terribly amused by — wake up in the middle of the night shrieking with laughter at the thought — the fact that all three intimate revues, "The Premise," "Second City" and Beyond The Fringe," have sketches built around the end of the world.

And that's the shape of things to come on the Old White Way, Mannie. No actors, no playwrights, no composers, no stagehands and ultimately — no audience.

Match Test Measures Pulmonary Function

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Can you blow out a match? If not, the air and breathing capacity of the lungs is not up to par. The match test was devised by Dr. Asher Marks and Dr. Jose Bocles of Miami as a simple measurement of pulmonary function.

The match test is done in a relatively draft free room with a well burning, penny, wooden safety match, held approximately 4 inches from the mouth. The individual takes a deep breath and tries to blow out the flame with the mouth held wide open. The latter is important because pursing the lips allows a smaller and more forceful jet of air to strike the flame.

The Miamians tried the test on 158 persons with a wide variety of heart and lung disorders. Sixty-one could not deliver enough air fast enough to extinguish the flame. Most of these individuals had emphysema, a chronic lung disorder in which the air sacs are over-stretched and filled with dead air.

These men and women have more air in their lungs than they need but are unable to blow it out because the respiratory tissues have lost their elasticity due mainly to age and years of bronchitis. Fresh air is prevented from entering the lungs because the stagnant air occupies most of the available space.

Victims of emphysema are short of breath because the air in the lungs lacks oxygen and they must breathe harder and faster, especially during exercise. Cough is usual because the majority were smokers.

The best medicines are bronchodilators that allow more air to enter. The types that come in nebulizers are most useful, especially when inhaled deep. Antibiotics help eliminate infection. The greatest relief follows exercise that increases the respiratory movements of the lungs to force out stagnant air.

Dr. Van Dellen will send leaflet on emphysema if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

SLEEPS AFTER SUPPER

W. C. O. writes: My husband works hard as a mechanic all day. When he comes home, he eats a large supper, and goes straight to bed. Isn't this habit a bad one?

REPLY

Not necessarily, as many people who sleep after eating live to be 90. Ask your husband how he feels and if he says fine and he looks well, why not conclude that he is healthy? On the other hand, a husband who goes to bed right after dinner is not much of a companion to his wife.

ARM-SHOULDER PAIN

C. B. writes: What is the treatment of post-coronary arm-shoulder syndrome?

REPLY

Physiotherapy—heat, massage, whirlpool baths, or ultra-sound wave treatments. We do not know why some people develop this painful condition of the hand and shoulder following recovery from a heart attack.

HEART AND BLOOD VESSELS

F. R. W. writes: What is cardiovascular disease?

REPLY

Diseases of the heart and blood vessels, including the arteries, veins, and capillaries. Cardio means heart and vascular refers to blood vessels. Hardening of the coronary arteries is an example.

CLOTTED VEIN

W. J. writes: What causes blood clots in hemorrhoids?

REPLY

Clots develop because the flow of blood through a protruding hemorrhoid becomes sluggish. In addition, the involved vein is easily injured and often irritated, causing infection of the outer wall.

BACK TO CHILDHOOD

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

There was a commotion at the water hole of the Century Golf Club recently. A player whose foul temper was matched only by his utter inability to master the intricacies of golf topped his drive, and his ball bounced lazily into the pond. Twice more he teed up; twice more his ball was lost in the water.

That did it. The infuriated player took his expensive golf bag, with all his matchced clubs in it, and flung it as far out into the pond as he could throw. Then he stamped off, muttering incoherently.

Five minutes later he stamped back. He waded gingerly into the pond, retrieved his bag, extracted his car keys from the zippered pocket, then pitched the bag back into the water.

An English lad was walking across a village common when he saw a rabbit. "Look, Mum, there goes a rabbit," he exclaimed. "Nonsense, boy" scoffed his mother. "It must have been your imagination." The lad pondered a bit, then demanded, "Mom, has imagination always got long white ears?"

Can't We Beat The Competition?

In Alabama, at least, the current "Buy American" sentiment is taking concrete form. That state's highway department has ruled that from now on all steel used in highway work must be American-made.

In other areas, too, pressures are felt for bolstering domestic products against increasing foreign competition. Textile and plastics industries are among those seeking changes in import quotas and tariff rates to protect their home markets.

Labor unions, although committed by their national leadership to a free-trade policy, are disturbed by its cost in jobs. The invasion of automobiles made by less costly labor abroad is not lost upon Reuther's auto workers, nor is the increasing flow of electronic components from Japan lost upon the electrical workers.

American industry has been able to offset some of this competition by investment in plants abroad, where cheaper labor enables it to compete for foreign markets. The result of this, of course, is that American plants abroad are competing with American plants at home for world trade.

Next year's Congressional session can expect increased pressure for tariff protection, and there will probably be more "Buy American" action, too. But another way to meet foreign competition is to unshackle our native ingenuity from outdated restrictions by unions and government.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Jolly Physician

Writes Dr. O. L. Kelley of Palm Beach, Florida:

"I am taking it for granted that you have the courage to read some of the answers to the so called 'philosophy' you are paid to perpetrate on the American public . . .

"It would be assumed that information you disseminate through a syndicate would be either checked out by the same syndicate or referred back to you by the local newspapers who distribute this misinformation."

Apparently the Doctor is irate which is, as he must know, bad for his vascular system, his liver and his adrenal gland. What bothers him is that I wrote a piece about a young man who sought to convert me.

It is time that I do a bit of preaching in these columns but no one needs to hear me out. But the minister of the Jehovah's Witness, as many have written me that he is, set forth, on my lawn, to tell me that all my forbearers, for many generations, were wrong which I found to be an indignity. Besides I feel that my religion is my private affair and that when I want to be converted to some other kind, I shall do it thoughtfully and considerately, listening to scholars of my choice and not to itinerant ministers who wander the roads imagining themselves to be prototypes of Paul on his way to Damascus.

Dr. Kelley writes me:

"If you care to be correctly informed, why don't you seek the source of real truth, the Holy Bible? If you are unable to find this information for yourself, the young man who called on you as a Christian brother and seeking to help you find this information will call again. I expect you will have to ask him, though since your attitude obviously was not a brotherly one . . . ."

Once when I lived in Shanghai, a Seventh Day Adventist missionary fell upon me and complained that I lived a licentious and lewd life because I broke the Sabbath (his and mine being Saturday). I heard him out for a while during which time he quoted from Daniel to me.

From my earliest childhood I studied the Bible and by the time I was 13 years old, as is customary among my people, I knew much of the Old Testament by heart in the language in which it was written. I do not know what translation Dr. Kelley uses, but I have read several, finding the Bible a very useful book for the study of a foreign language. Knowing what it is in the original, I can look at the translations which are never altogether exact but, on the whole, are good enough. So I told the Seventh Day Adventist that when he will be able to read Daniel in the original, we shall sit down and have a discussion.

It was a stupid, show-offy kind of reply but it silenced him, for he did not know how much I really knew but he did know how little he knew and he was taking no chances. Similarly, Dr. Kelley, M.D. can have no idea of how much of the Bible I have studied, except that I tell him my first teacher in this field used a stick to teach it and when a mistake was made, we got whacked good and hard as it is a sin, among my people, to mispronounce holy script.

And so even at my advanced age, I can, on occasion, recall a passage in ancient Hebrew and it is most delightful because it reminds me of my childhood and all the marvelous joys of a very religious and even bigoted household.

So when the young minister stepped upon my lawn to tell me how the world is going to hell because of the wickedness of man and the invention of the atom bomb, I could only think of the days of my childhood when we were told that we would go to heaven if we lived according to the Ten Commandments.

I do not gainsay any man's faith but I ask him to leave me alone with mine. If he comes on my lawn and asks me for food, I shall give him what he wants, but when he steps forward to tell me what to believe, I treat him as an invader who has assumed a right which is not his. I shall believe what I choose to believe.

I have lived in many countries, with peoples of many faiths and have long learned that there are many roads to God and that not one of them is paved with gold or with mother of pearl.

Kennedy and Khrushchev Believed Near Agreement On Berlin Crisis

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—It can now be revealed that the talks between President Kennedy, Foreign Minister Gromyko, and Secretary of State Rusk have reached a point where the Berlin crisis may soon be over. Both sides are very close together.

Gromyko basically has asked for two things:

1. Settlement of all World War II boundaries, which really means fiixng the Oder-Niesse line between East Germany and Poland. This present no problems for the United States.

2. Agreement that no nuclear arms shall go to West Germany.

This is understandable, and President Kennedy is willing to go along. The Russians have had a deep-seated worry about German rearmament—as have other European nations. Many West Germans themselves don't like the idea of nuclear arms on their soil, and even de Gaulle has banned them on French soil.

The United States in turn has wanted two main points:

1. Guarantees for the freedom and independence of West Berlin, with a part of the United Nations stationed there.

2. Guarantee of free access to West Berlin through East Germany.

The Soviet Union is agreeable to both, though some details have to be ironed out regarding East German control of access to Berlin.

The above terms follow closely along the lines both Premier Khrushchev and President Kennedy outlined to me in late August. I talked to each within four days of seeing the other and it was obvious that they were basically close together. The chief problems bothering them were the intervening German elections in mid-September, a certain amount of opposition fro mt the Red Army, and worry over Kennedy's political opponents, especially the Goldwater right wing of the Republican Party.

In the interim, however, the world has been aroused by the resumption of nuclear testing, by political speeches on both sides, by the growth of John Birchism, and by a hardening of opinion in the United States that can be extremely dangerous when two countries are on the brink of war.

Some of this may have been necessary. The Rusisans are tough bargainers and frequently overplay their hand before they sit down at a conference table, just as Jimmy Hoffa, Walter Reuther and Dave McDonald always ask for more than they expect to get. Both the USA and the USSR in this case acted like Walter Reuther and the big auto companies before they sign a new contract. Neither wants a strike, but both sound as if they wouldn't yield a single inch to avoid one.

National sentiment in the USA, however, is a lot different from sentiment inside a labor union. The United Auto Workers will go bac kto work as if nothing had happened, as the Ford strike is settled. But free-thinking countries aren't the same way. People get impassioned and emotional and don't get over grudges against a potential enemy—the way a union can drop its list of grievances against an employer.

So once the Berlin crisis is over, both governments will have to exert some effective leadership to dispel the current acrimony. Premier Khrushchev told me he wanted to invite President Kennedy to Moscow and give him the greatest reception in history—after Berlin was settled. This would help dispel the war clouds. Even more important would be the adoption of 'a' year of peace" similar to the "geophysical year," whereby both sides, in honor of Dag Hammarskjold, worked at the problems of mutual understanding.

Shoddy Newscasting

Newton Minow, short of stature but long on courage, took another hefty swing at the radio-TV industry last week regarding news broadcasting.

"Too many stations slide along with the 'rip-an-read' news broadcast," Minow told the Radio and TV News Editors Association. "Some go even further in the wrong direction and offer up a 'shout-and-scream' sound effect newscast that is long on noise and short on content."

Quoting William Small of Louisville, Past President of the Radio and TV News Editors, Chairman Minow said: "Some stations lack the willingness to invest their money, because the rate of profit is lower than disc jockeying. Some lack the willingness to get decent manpower, and prefer trickery to talent in news coverage. And many lack the courage that journalism needs to be alive."

Merry-Go-Round

A Capitol guard admonished a youngster who wanted to board a "Senators only" elevator: "Noet yet, sonny. Maybe some day, but not yet." . . . When Gore Vidal, the playwright, dines with the Kennedys he refers to it as "dining with the royal family." . . . Henry Labouisse, ousted as foreign aid administrator, is slated to become Ambassador to Argentina . . . When Congresswoman Edith Green of Oregon flew SAS to Europe with a group of Congressmen, she was actually saving the taxpayers money. The tickets were paid for out of counterpart funds, Danish Kroner. These are blocked funds which can only be used abroad or on a foreign airline. Pan American and TWA protested, but Mrs. Green took the cheaper route anyway . . . Dr. Durward Hall, the Congressman from Springfield, Mo., describes the John Birch Society, whose founder described Dwight D. Eisenhower as a Communist, as a "fine thing." Says Congressman Hall: "Anything that comes out against Communism in this day is a good thing' — apparently even if it smears the ex-President of the United States . . . The D. C. National Guard has aroused internal criticism by granting discharges and hardship releases to high-ranking officers. Lower ranking guard members are out of luck.

Situation In South Vietnam Becoming Critical

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON — Within the policy-making circle, quiet but serious consideration is now being given to sending American troops to South Vietnam, in order to have a reserve locally available in case of intensified Communist aggression.

Little public attention has yet been given to the increasingly critical situation in Southeast Asia, because all attention has been absorbed by the Berlin crisis. Until recently, the same rule held for all the higher policy-makers of the U.S. government, except for the small group especially assigned to the Southeast Asian task force. But the hard pressure of events has forced a shift of focus.

The step being immediately considered is not as dramatic as it may sound in summary. Even if the decision is affirmative, the number of troops to be sent to South Vietnam will not be large. A couple of reinforced regimental combat teams, with ample transport back-up to make them highly mobile, would appear to meet the existing requirements.

Furthermore, even if sent, these additional American forces will not be destined for immediate combat. They will merely be used to strengthen the existing military aid training group in South Vietnam, unless and until the situation suddenly worsens. The idea, as already indicated, is only to provide a hard, fully ready, fully mobile reserve on the spot.

The need for such a reserve is now urgent because of the grave recent changes in the South Vietnamese situation which were recently first reported in this space. In brief, the North Vietnamese Communists have now gone furthur than mere infiltration of small guerrilla groups into South Vietnam.

Using the Laos corridor opened to them by the disordered Laotian situation, the Communists have built up in South Vietnam a substantial force of regularly armed troops, probably amounting to three or four regiments. They have as yet been used only for small engagements, and are hidden for the present in jungle areas. But these regular Communist regiments may be sent into action at any time.

The struggle against the guerrilla irregulars is meanwhile absorbing all the energy and resource of the South Vietnamese army. The power at the disposal of courageous President Ngo Dinh Diem is already spread pretty thin over the whole country. Thus the sudden commitment of even two or three regiments of Communist regulars might be enough to cause a gravely demoralizing local disaster, since Diem has no reserve to fend off an attack.

These are the reasons why President Diem has grimly and publicly warned, this week, that the war in his country had passed into a new phase of naked aggression. These are also the reasons, very evidently, why consideration now has to be given, and is being given, to forming the needed reserve in South Vietnam with a small number of crack American troops.

The choice is very ugly indeed.

The mere act of constituting such a reserve in South Vietnam might act as a deterrent, causing the Communists to draw back. But even the potential, conditional engagement of American combat units in Southeast Asia is not an attractive prospect, to put it mildly.

On the other hand, the ned for this kind of insurance is obvious and urgent, on the face of the known facts. The South Vietnamese army has long been engaged in a harsh, uphill fight against the Communist guerrillas alone. The sudden entry of a considerable force of Communist regulars, resulting in a dramatic local success for the Communists, could have irreparable affects on public confidence and army morale. After that, it might be a case of humpty-dumpty-off-the-wall.

President Kennedy has repeatedly said that he would not permit a Communist take-over in South Vietnam. The increasingly threatening situation there, as well as the worsening outlook in Laos, caused the last minute insertion of the stern paragraph on Southeast Asia into the President's speech to the U.N.

These are the best pointers to the trend of thought in the government. Nonetheless, a final decision may be deferred for a while, despite the risks of not taking out insurance at once. One reason the decision is extra-complex, and therefore extra-difficult, is the link between South Vietnam and the neighboring corridor-country, Laos. Beyond the South Vietnamese decision, in fact, there almost certainly lies a Laos decision, which looks even uglier.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

SHORTAGE — One of Washington's swankiest hotels has been disturbed for months over the absence of a most necessary item—the red carpet it rolls out for dignitaries.

Several months ago, President Kennedy attended a function at the hotel and, ever since, the carpet has been missing. The management searched high and low in his establishment for the missing rug and couldn't find it. But he was convinced that the loss had nothing to do with the presence of the President, so he finally notified police.

Some patient detective work on the part of the local police finally located the 16 by 24 ft. carpet in the attic of a workman. The rug had been rolled up after Kennedy departed and thrown into a van carrying the public address system used by the President in making a speech there.

The thief removed it from the van and stored it in his attic, never dreaming it would be traced back to him. Now, the hotel has its rug back and the thief has six months to serve in the local jail. And the Kennedy staff, who were questioned by the police, can breathe easily once more.

Match Test Measures Pulmonary Function

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Can you blow out a match? If not, the air and breathing capacity of the lungs is not up to par. The match test was devised by Dr. Asher Marks and Dr. Jose Bocles of Miami as a simple measurement of pulmonary function.

The match test is done in a relatively draft free room with a well burning, penny, wooden safety match, held approximately 4 inches from the mouth. The individual takes a deep breath and tries to blow out the flame with the mouth held wide open. The latter is important because pursing the lips allows a smaller and more forceful jet of air to strike the flame.

The Miamians tried the test on 158 persons with a wide variety of heart and lung disorders. Sixty-one could not deliver enough air fast enough to extinguish the flame. Most of these individuals had emphysema, a chronic lung disorder in which the air sacs are over-stretched and filled with dead air.

These men and women have more air in their lungs than they need but are unable to blow it out because the respiratory tissues have lost their elasticity due mainly to age and years of bronchitis. Fresh air is prevented from entering the lungs because the stagnant air occupies most of the available space.

Victims of emphysema are short of breath because the air in the lungs lacks oxygen and they must breathe harder and faster, especially during exercise. Cough is usual because the majority were smokers.

The best medicines are bronchodilators that allow more air to enter. The types that come in nebulizers are most useful, especially when inhaled deep. Antibiotics help eliminate infection. The greatest relief follows exercise that increases the respiratory movements of the lungs to force out stagnant air.

Dr. Van Dellen will send leaflet on emphysema if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

SLEEPS AFTER SUPPER

W. C. O. writes: My husband works hard as a mechanic all day. When he comes home, he eats a large supper, and goes straight to bed. Isn't this habit a bad one?

REPLY

Not necessarily, as many people who sleep after eating live to be 90. Ask your husband how he feels and if he says fine and he looks well, why not conclude that he is healthy? On the other hand, a husband who goes to bed right after dinner is not much of a companion to his wife.

ARM-SHOULDER PAIN

C. B. writes: What is the treatment of post-coronary arm-shoulder syndrome?

REPLY

Physiotherapy—heat, massage, whirlpool baths, or ultra-sound wave treatments. We do not know why some people develop this painful condition of the hand and shoulder following recovery from a heart attack.

HEART AND BLOOD VESSELS

F. R. W. writes: What is cardiovascular disease?

REPLY

Diseases of the heart and blood vessels, including the arteries, veins, and capillaries. Cardio means heart and vascular refers to blood vessels. Hardening of the coronary arteries is an example.

CLOTTED VEIN

Clots develop because the flow of blood through a protruding hemorrhoid becomes sluggish. In addition, the involved vein is easily injured and often irritated, causing infection of the outer wall.

Actors And A Curtain

By John Crosby

"From the Second City" a small, frightfully intimate revue with only eight actors, no scenery and practically no music, which has been running for a year and a half in Chicago, opened the other day at the Royale Theater with a joke about a speech Andrei Gromyko made that afternoon at the United Nations.

I know its a long sentence, Mannie, but it's full of pith. In fact, that sentence just about sums up the modern theater—its promise, its failures, its tendencies. Lets take it step by step, shall we? Firstly, "small, intimate, only eight actors." Actually, the way things are going, eight is a lot of actors. "Beyond the Fringe," the biggest hit London has had in years, has only four, all men. "The Premise" in Greenwich Village has only four, one girl. Elaine May and Mike Nichols are only two, with an occasional kitchen chair. Yves Montand who opened Tuesday night is only one fellow and his scenery is a curtain.

As a member of an actors union (AFTRA), I think I'm entitled to point out that the unions have raised the actors' pay and benefit scale to a point where it's uneconomical to have actors so by gosh, the theater is getting along wihout them. None of the above attractions is staffed by actors in the old sense. "Beyond the Fringe," "Second City" and "The Premise" and May and Nichols (who graduated from "Second City") are all manned by performers who invent all or most of their own material. They are performers, personalities, troubadours, wits in their own right, not actors.

I hope you get all the implications, Mannie. Costs have gone up in the modern theater to the point where we're really stripping down to the essentials. First, no actors. At least no old-fashioned kind of actors who can simply mouth somebody else's words. Your modern performer has got to bring not only his own dress suit but his own words. That means no playwright. Not a single one of those attractions has an author in the old sense. None of them has a composer either.

None of them uses enough scenery to put in your hat, eliminating not only the scene designer but also (eventually) the stagehands whose dead featherbedding hands have stifled so much theater. The unions—playwrights, (of which I'm a member, too), actors and stagehands—have so protected their members that a whole new kind of theater is coming that eliminates their members altogether. ("The Premise" has no stagehands and no electricians.)

Now, about that joke about a speech Andrei Gromyko made that afternoon at the United Nations. That's the pithiest phrase in the lead because that shows really the way the wind is blowing. In the first place, it's topical. You can hardly get more topical than to make jokes about a speech that afternoon. The fresher the jokes the funnier they are. At "The Premise" Saturday night, they had a whole skit about Syria severing relations with Nasser which had taken place earlier in the day. As a matter of fact, one reason I was quite disappointed in "Second City" is that it was not more up to date throughout. They are still doing blackouts, for heaven's sake, about the Hollywood Ten, who are far back in history. Anyhow, they're all so rich now there's no point.

But jokes about something Gromyko said at the United Nations is very much the style. The new-style comics are very hip about politics and the United Nations. You never — well, hardly ever—hear a joke about girl and boy. Unless the girl is Jackie Kennedy and the boy is deGaulle.

A typical modern type pattern from "Second City": "We have noted with interest the great many things the Americans are doing in Laos, the many things the Red Chinese are doing in Laos, the great number of things the Russians are doing in Laos and the very few things the Laotians are doing in Laos."

The grimmer the subject the more jokes proliferate about it. At "The Premise" the other night they were improvising a skit about those fallout shelters we're supposed to be building. A fallout shelter salesman was making this pitch: "We can arrange time payments. Not too long!"

I'm terribly amused by — wake up in the middle of the night shrieking with laughter at the thought — the fact that all three intimate revues, "The Premise," "Second City" and Beyond The Fringe," have sketches built around the end of the world.

And that's the shape of things to come on the Old White Way, Mannie. No actors, no playwrights, no composers, no stagehands and ultimately — no audience.

Midland Plans Revision Of Town Charter

Council To Erect Yule Decorations

MIDLAND—John J. Mathias, town attorney, reported to the mayor and council at a recent meeting that progress is being made on his revision of the town's charter and ordinances.

Mr. Mathias said he has contacted the Maryland Municipal League for samples or suggestions about the type of charter best suited for a town the size of Midland, so that he can make a comparison with what is being done elsewhere, before completing the revision.

Mayor Lionel D. Baker reports that the council agreed to purchase a new winter uniform for the town bailiff, Charles McGowan. The new uniform will include coat, trousers, shirts, ties, hat, raincoat and overcoat.

It was also reported at the meeting that a new snow plow, ordered from Galion, Ohio has arrived. Donald Cook, street commissioner, said the plow is to be installed on one of the town's heavy garbage trucks for use as needed in clearing snow from the streets.

Edward L. Ewald of Frostburg and Ervin D. Lewis of Lonaconing, area officials of the Potomac Edison Company, were guests at the council meeting. Mr. Ewald spoke on the expansion of the street lighting system at National, and suggested the importance of the expansion to the town of Midland.

Mayor Baker said council agreed to sponsor the erection of street decorations and lights for the Christmas season and that a large, decorated Christmas tree will be placed at the East End of town, opposite the Cessnick property. Commissioners William Kroll and John Blair were appointed by the mayor to supervise the Christmas project.

Several complaints were heard about motorists speeding on Paradise Street. Mayor Baker instructed the bailiff to patrol the area and take all license numbers of cars exceeding the speed limit or driving recklessly. He observed that many small children travel this street on their way to and from school, and careless driving creates a hazardous condition.

Valley Cheerleaders Stage Friday Dance

LONACONING—The Cheerleaders held a dance on Friday night at Valley High School gym. The soccer team and its coach, John C Meyers, were honored.

The French and Latin clubs sponsored their dance September 29 at Valley High School gym with a large attendance of club members and guests.

Soroptimists Attend Conference

KEYSER — Eight local women will represent the Soroptimist Club of Keyser at a district meeting of Soroptimists today at the Women's Club in Hagerstown.

Attending from here are Mesdames Betty Harman, president; Hazel Moore, Ruth Siever, Laura Grayson, Linda Ludwig, Elsye Wells, Louise Leatherman, and Hope Wenner.

Guest speaker for the occasion will be Miss Elizabeth Moorehead, Ashville, N. C., governor of Soroptimist International.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a normal boy of 17 who would like to take out a girl. I'm not sweet on any special chick but there are several cute ones at school I'd like to ask for a date. The problem is my mother.

She says a boy of 17 (I'll be 18 in December) should not be thinking about girls, and if she catches me talking to a girl on the phone or sitting in a girl's house after school, she'll knock my block off.

Mom checks on me whenever I say I'm going over to a guy's house. She calls me up there to ask me some dumb question. When I tell her I'm going to the library after school I find her sitting there "accidentally." The guys all know about this and the ribbing is murder.

Can you give me some help with my problem? —TAILED

DEAR TAILED: It's your mother who has the real problem. A boy almost 18 who wants to date should be allowed to do so. Mothers who are too possessive sometimes need professional help. Show her this column and if she has any questions she'd like to ask me I'd be happy to oblige.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why would a man profess his undying devotion to a woman, promise her marriage "when he is financially able" and at the same time buy her terribly expensive gifts, see her only on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, never introduce her to his business associates or friends, and ask her not to phone him at home because his mother is very nervous and the telephone bothers her.

I worship this man and because of him I have cut myself off from all other male contacts for the past three years. These questions plague me. Can you provide answers. —BLIND LOVE

DEAR BLIND: I can't provide answers, but I can hazard a guess or two.

This man is very much married and his "mother" who can't stand to hear the telephone ring is really his wife. Or — he is a mama's boy and is actually afraid to let his mother know he's interested in a woman.

In either case, the relationship doesn't stand the chance of a snowflake in New Orleans. Knock it off.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I run a high-class rooming house for working girls. I don't rent to just anybody.

A certain young woman who is 24 moved in about six months ago. She came from a small town and looked like Elsie Dinsmore—no make-up, hair the color God gave her and she carried her belongings in a suitcase with leather straps around it.

She got herself an office job the second day in town and two months later she went blonde, learned to paint up and took on a second job modeling. I see her leave with a hatbox around dinner time and often she doesn't come home until it's light outside.

It's unhealthy for a young girl to work so many hours. I think she should give up one job or the other. Should I write to her mother and tell her what kind of hours her daughter is keeping? I always take the mother's addresses in case of emergency. —MOTHER MOLLY

DEAR MOLLY: This is no emergency. A girl 24 knows how many hours she wants to work. If you feel she's getting into deep water, talk to HER.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WANTING TO DO RIGHT: It's lovely of you to want to give this girl the shirt off your back, but why leave your diamond cufflinks in it? See a lawyer before you make a move.

CONFIDENTIAL TO PRISONER OF DECENCY: Sorry, you'll have to write your own letter of farewell. This is out of my line.

To learn the booby-traps of teen-age drinking, write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-age Drinking," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope

Moorefield Lions Plan For Halloween

Dr. E. E. Church Talks On Scouting

MOOREFIELD — The Moorefield Lions Club will coordinate the annual Hallowe'en parade again this year. It will be held Friday night, October 27 at 6:30, according to C. A. Ludwick Jr. chairman. The parade will form at the high school and end at the graded school at the annual PTA festival. Ludwick said details on prizes would be announced later.

C. F. Bishoff, president of the group, announced that the Lions International district governor is to be a guest of the club Monday, October 16, and that the meeting will be a joint session with the Wardensville Lions Club. Walter Sweiger Jr. Wilsonburg, is the Lions district governor.

Dr. E. E. Church, president of Potomac State College, spoke to the civic group on behalf of "Scouting" in this area. Dr. Church said that the three troops in Hardy County had 70 members at Moorefield, Durgon and Mathias and that scouting is the answer to the juvenile problem. Dr. Church appealed to the Lions to assist in the leadership program for the Scouts. He said he is not appealing for money, although that is a necessary part of the support for youth groups, but that adult leadership is badly needed to assist scoutmasters with the troops. Dr. Church said that no other youth program in America contributes to the character of boys between the ages of 11 and 18 as the Scouting program.

The Moorefield Lions agreed to assume the responsibility for raising funds for the county as a part of the Potomac Council. Dr. Church was accompanied by Harry Fisher, Keyser, scout executive for the Potomac Council.

It was announced that the Lions in Moorefield will not hold an annual Chicken Barbeque this year but would serve fried chicken dinners and deliver the dinners to the homes in the community with all tickets to be pre-sold.

The committee for house-to-house delivery of mail reported that a chart of the town and surrounding built-up area had been submitted to the Postmaster, that the Town Council had been asked to allocate numbers for the blocks in the community and that a petition was prepared for signatures from those citizens and firms requesting house-to-house delivery. The Postal committee is W. C. Harper, R. E. Fisher and W. C. H. Poole.

Midland Plans Revision Of Town Charter

Council To Erect Yule Decorations

MIDLAND—John J. Mathias, town attorney, reported to the mayor and council at a recent meeting that progress is being made on his revision of the town's charter and ordinances.

Mr. Mathias said he has contacted the Maryland Municipal League for samples or suggestions about the type of charter best suited for a town the size of Midland, so that he can make a comparison with what is being done elsewhere, before completing the revision.

Mayor Lionel D. Baker reports that the council agreed to purchase a new winter uniform for the town bailiff, Charles McGowan. The new uniform will include coat, trousers, shirts, ties, hat, raincoat and overcoat.

It was also reported at the meeting that a new snow plow, ordered from Galion, Ohio has arrived. Donald Cook, street commissioner, said the plow is to be installed on one of the town's heavy garbage trucks for use as needed in clearing snow from the streets.

Edward L. Ewald of Frostburg and Ervin D. Lewis of Lonaconing, area officials of the Potomac Edison Company, were guests at the council meeting. Mr. Ewald spoke on the expansion of the street lighting system at National, and suggested the importance of the expansion to the town of Midland.

Mayor Baker said council agreed to sponsor the erection of street decorations and lights for the Christmas season and that a large, decorated Christmas tree will be placed at the East End of town, opposite the Cessnick property. Commissioners William Kroll and John Blair were appointed by the mayor to supervise the Christmas project.

Several complaints were heard about motorists speeding on Paradise Street. Mayor Baker instructed the bailiff to patrol the area and take all license numbers of cars exceeding the speed limit or driving recklessly. He observed that many small children travel this street on their way to and from school, and careless driving creates a hazardous condition.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a normal boy of 17 who would like to take out a girl. I'm not sweet on any special chick but there are several cute ones at school I'd like to ask for a date. The problem is my mother.

She says a boy of 17 (I'll be 18 in December) should not be thinking about girls, and if she catches me talking to a girl on the phone or sitting in a girl's house after school, she'll knock my block off.

Mom checks on me whenever I say I'm going over to a guy's house. She calls me up there to ask me some dumb question. When I tell her I'm going to the library after school I find her sitting there "accidentally." The guys all know about this and the ribbing is murder.

Can you give me some help with my problem? —TAILED

DEAR TAILED: It's your mother who has the real problem. A boy almost 18 who wants to date should be allowed to do so. Mothers who are too possessive sometimes need professional help. Show her this column and if she has any questions she'd like to ask me I'd be happy to oblige.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why would a man profess his undying devotion to a woman, promise her marriage "when he is financially able" and at the same time buy her terribly expensive gifts, see her only on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, never introduce her to his business associates or friends, and ask her not to phone him at home because his mother is very nervous and the telephone bothers her.

I worship this man and because of him I have cut myself off from all other male contacts for the past three years. These questions plague me. Can you provide answers. —BLIND LOVE

DEAR BLIND: I can't provide answers, but I can hazard a guess or two.

This man is very much married and his "mother" who can't stand to hear the telephone ring is really his wife. Or — he is a mama's boy and is actually afraid to let his mother know he's interested in a woman.

In either case, the relationship doesn't stand the chance of a snowflake in New Orleans. Knock it off.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I run a high-class rooming house for working girls. I don't rent to just anybody.

A certain young woman who is 24 moved in about six months ago. She came from a small town and looked like Elsie Dinsmore—no make-up, hair the color God gave her and she carried her belongings in a suitcase with leather straps around it.

She got herself an office job the second day in town and two months later she went blonde, learned to paint up and took on a second job modeling. I see her leave with a hatbox around dinner time and often she doesn't come home until it's light outside.

It's unhealthy for a young girl to work so many hours. I think she should give up one job or the other. Should I write to her mother and tell her what kind of hours her daughter is keeping? I always take the mother's addresses in case of emergency. —MOTHER MOLLY

DEAR MOLLY: This is no emergency. A girl 24 knows how many hours she wants to work. If you feel she's getting into deep water, talk to HER.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WANTING TO DO RIGHT: It's lovely of you to want to give this girl the shirt off your back, but why leave your diamond cufflinks in it? See a lawyer before you make a move.

CONFIDENTIAL TO PRISONER OF DECENCY: Sorry, you'll have to write your own letter of farewell. This is out of my line.

To learn the booby-traps of teen-age drinking, write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-age Drinking," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Moorefield Lions Plan For Halloween

Dr. E. E. Church Talks On Scouting

MOOREFIELD — The Moorefield Lions Club will coordinate the annual Hallowe'en parade again this year. It will be held Friday night, October 27 at 6:30, according to C. A. Ludwick Jr. chairman. The parade will form at the high school and end at the graded school at the annual PTA festival. Ludwick said details on prizes would be announced later.

C. F. Bishoff, president of the group, announced that the Lions International district governor is to be a guest of the club Monday, October 16, and that the meeting will be a joint session with the Wardensville Lions Club. Walter Sweiger Jr. Wilsonburg, is the Lions district governor.

Dr. E. E. Church, president of Potomac State College, spoke to the civic group on behalf of "Scouting" in this area. Dr. Church said that the three troops in Hardy County had 70 members at Moorefield, Durgon and Mathias and that scouting is the answer to the juvenile problem. Dr. Church appealed to the Lions to assist in the leadership program for the Scouts. He said he is not appealing for money, although that is a necessary part of the support for youth groups, but that adult leadership is badly needed to assist scoutmasters with the troops. Dr. Church said that no other youth program in America contributes to the character of boys between the ages of 11 and 18 as the Scouting program.

The Moorefield Lions agreed to assume the responsibility for raising funds for the county as a part of the Potomac Council. Dr. Church was accompanied by Harry Fisher, Keyser, scout executive for the Potomac Council.

It was announced that the Lions in Moorefield will not hold an annual Chicken Barbeque this year but would serve fried chicken dinners and deliver the dinners to the homes in the community with all tickets to be pre-sold.

The committee for house-to-house delivery of mail reported that a chart of the town and surrounding built-up area had been submitted to the Postmaster, that the Town Council had been asked to allocate numbers for the blocks in the community and that a petition was prepared for signatures from those citizens and firms requesting house-to-house delivery. The Postal committee is W. C. Harper, R. E. Fisher and W. C. H. Poole.

Series To Resume Today At Cincinnati's Chummy Crosley Field

Bob Purkey, Stafford To Hurl In Game

Bright Sunshine Forecast For Tilt; Yankees Favored

By JACK HAND

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati's Bob Purkey, a 32-year-old right-hander with a wide variety of pitches, will oppose young Bill Stafford of the New York Yankees in Saturday's third World Series game as the clubs switch to chummy Crosley Field all even with one victory each.

The Yanks still were 2-1 series favorites over the scrabby Reds.

The Reds drew a royal welcome from some 1,500 fans Thursday night when they flew home after beating the Yanks in the second game 6-2. The Yanks rode a train and did not arrive until midmorning.

Bright, warm sunshine greeted the two teams in their workouts in the Cincinnati park. The temperature eased into the 80s and there was promise of more of the same Saturday and Sunday. The clubs will play the next three games at Crosley Field. If more are necessary, they will return to New York after another off day for travel Tuesday.

Uses Same Lineup

Fred Hutchinson, manager of the Reds, was so pleased with his club's performance Thursday that he said he would use the same lineup in the third game. That meant Elio Chacon, the speedy Venezuelan who dashed home with the tie-breaking run on a passed ball, would be at second base although Don Blasingame's injured hand was much improved.

Hutchinson also stuck with John Edwards, his rookie catcher who came through with two key blows in Thursday's victory. Darrell Johnson, the veteran who is supposed to be the No. 1 receiver on the club, still was bothered by a pulled muscle in his side.

The tidy Cincinnati park, freshly painted and groomed for its first series game since 1940, presented a sharp contrast to spacious Yankee Stadium. Crosley Field can take care of only a few more than 30,000, compared with the stadium with its 70,000 capacity.

Mantle Question Mark

Mickey Mantle remained a questionable starter because of soreness from minor surgery on an abscess on his right hip. Mantle missed the first two games but worked out with the club in the warm sunshine Friday.

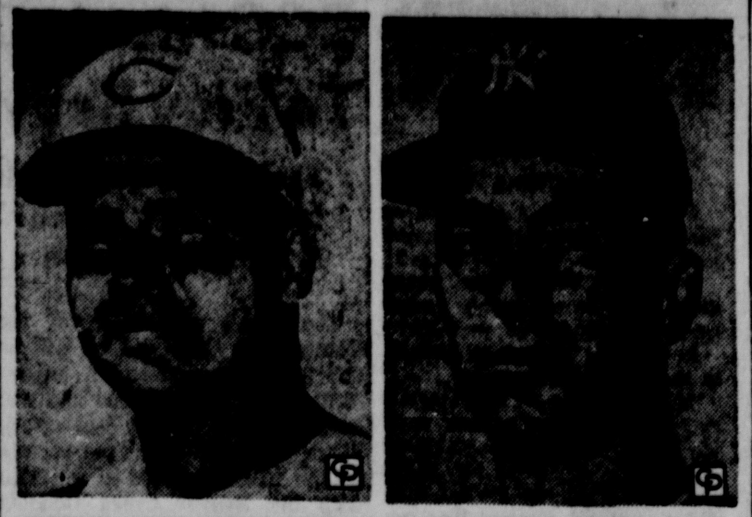
If Mantle can't play Manager Ralph Houk said he would use the same lineup as Thursday, with the exception of the pitcher. John Blanchard would be in right field.

After watching Mantle put on a batting show, both right and left-handed, Houk said, "Well I still am not ready to say he'll play but it looks less doubtful now."

While compiling a 16-12 record in the regular season, Purkey allowed 27 home runs. However, he shifted his main reliance to a knuckler in late season and didn't give up a single homer in his last seven starts since Aug. 25.

Stafford, 23, had a 14-9 record for the Yanks and pitched three shutouts. This is his first full season in the majors, although he came up from Richmond last season and pitched good ball.

The Yanks were somewhat concerned about Whitey Ford, who developed a stiff neck. Ford, the first game shutout winner, is due to face Jim O'Toole in another southpaw duel in Sunday's fourth game.



MOUND OPPONENTS TODAY — Bob Purkey (16-12) of the Cincinnati Reds (left) and Bill Stafford (14-9) of the New York Yankees (right) will be the mound opponents in today's third game of the 1961 World Series at Crosley Field in Cincinnati. The teams will clash for the first time on the National Leaguers' field after splitting the first two games at Yankee Stadium.

Never Quit Motto Gets Huntington Man Series Ducats

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Never say die. That's the motto of 70-year-old Lee Frazier, retired Huntington fireman.

Like a lot of other rabid Cincinnati Reds' fans here Frazier wrote for World Series tickets and was told this weekend's games are sellouts. But unlike a lot of others, Frazier, father of Huntington Police Chief Herman A. Frazier, didn't give up.

Frazier wrote the club again—the fact that this was National Letter Writing Week had nothing to do with it—explaining how he and his son had followed the Reds' ups and downs during the season and how they should be given the chance to see at least one game.

The letter paid off. Frazier got a telephone call Thursday from a club official who promised to forward two tickets upon receipt of $15.40. Frazier wired the money late Thursday and the two prized tickets for Saturday's third game of the series arrived Friday.

Mantle May Play Today

Looks Sharp In Batting Practice

CINCINNATI (AP) — The prospects of slugger Mickey Mantle playing some of the World Series games in Cincinnati looked brighter after the New York Yankees practiced Friday.

At start of practice Manager Ralph Houk had a dismal view of Mantle's chances in any of the three games at Crosley Field, the Cincinnati Reds home park.

"Personally, I don't think he's going to play tomorrow," he said. "Let's come down to cases—if you cut your hip open, how do you expect to play.

But of 13 tries, Mantle drove four to the right field bleachers, one over the center field wall and another over the screen.

Then Mickey batted right-handed — something he hadn't been able to do since the operation. He didn't look so well, athough banging one over the left field wall, and another to the screen. The rest were less solid.

The performance made Houk brighter, however, although he said, "I'm still not ready to say he will play tomorrow.

"Of course, I'll have to wait to see whether he's sore after this."

Roger Maris, Yankee home run king, in a series slump with no hits in seven official tries, still seemed to have trouble in Friday's batting practice. He drove out a lot of liners, but couldn't get one out of the snug Redleg park.

Celebrities To Play In Pro-Am

Hesperia Open To Begin Today

HESPERIA, Calif. (UPI) —The annual Golf and Fun Fest at the Hesperia Country Club starts Saturday with an 18-hole pro-amateur preliminary to a $12,500 36-hole open.

The pro-am event which will be played Sunday has drawn a raft of celebrities from the entertainment world and other fields.

Hollywood is represented by: Burt (Elmer Gantry) Lancaster, Hoagy (Stardust) Carmichael, Jack (Maverick) Kelly, Jim (ex-Maverick) Garner, Phil (Drummer) Harris, Jim (Magoo) Backus Bob (Topper) Sterling, and Johnny Weismuller, the oldest Tarzan in captivity.

Baseball is represented by Albie Pearson, the crooning outfielder from the Los Angeles; and football by outpaw Frankie Albert, the former San Francisco Forty Niner quarterback and coach.

They will team with such pro stars as: Jack Fleck, winner of last weekend's Bakersfield Open; Bob Rosburg, runner-up to Fleck at Bakersfield after a sudden-death playoff; the veteran Lloyd Mangrum from nearby Apple Valley; Phil Rodgers, the young ex-Marine from San Diego; long-hitting George Bayer, the former University of Washington tackle; and three bright youngsters turned out by coach Stan Wood at the University of Southern California — Al Geiberger, Tommy Jacobs, and Bob McCallister.

Navy Triumphs Over Miami, 17-6

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Halfback Jim Stewart raced 83 yards to a second-period touchdown and a fired-up Navy never surrendered its lead as the Middies whipped Miami's two-touchdown favorites, Friday night.

Stewart accepted a swing pass from Ron Kelmick at the line of scrimmage and, behind beautiful downfield blocking, sped to the score.

Thereafter, fierce Navy defenders held Miami's running and passing attack under control except for a third period drive that netted six points.

Clay Is Ready For Miteff Tonight

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Cassius Clay proclaimed himself at peak condition Friday for his ninth and in all probability hardest fight as a professional heavyweight against Argentinian Alex Miteff Saturday night.

The brash young Olympic champion, unbeaten in his eight previous fights, wasn't quite his usual cocky self as he came up to the bout with the hard-hitting, body-punching Miteff.

There seemed little doubt that Miteff offered Clay the severest test of his budding career.

Miteff has had 35 professional fights since 1956, winning 24 of them and scoring 14 knockouts.

Pile-driving fullback Chuck Bradfield scored all his team's points last night as he led the Keyser High Golden Tornado to a 19-0 triumph over the LaSalle High Explorers in a Potomac Valley Conference game at Fort Hill Stadium.

Bradfield plunged over from the one for the first score in the opening period, cracked over from the six in the third period and then climaxed his night's work with a five-yard smash into the end zone for the third six-pointer in the final frame.

The triumph was the fourth for Keyser in five games this year and put the Golden Tornado eleven back on the winning side of the ledger after losing last week to Allegany. Keyser now has a 2-0 mark in the conference.

LaSalle dropped its second straight decision and third in five games this season and the Explorers were unable to get concentrated offense going against the bigger Keyser line. It marked the opening game in the PVC for LaSalle. The lineups:

Record Number Of Bowmen Seen For Deer Season

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The Game and Inland Fish Commission said Friday it expects a record number of bowmen to turn out for Maryland's bow and arrow deer hunting season, which opens Oct. 16.

There were 5,395 of the special bow and arrow licenses issued last year and the commission said this number would probably be topped.

The deer season opens, for bowmen on Oct. 16 in all except four counties.

The western tier of Garrett, Allegany and Washington permit hunting by bow and arrow from Oct. 27 through Nov. 14.

Montgomery County has no open season for deer.

The special season will extend through Nov. 14 in all counties except St. Mary's, Dorchester, Wicomico, Somerset and Worcester, where it ends Nov. 10.

There is a limit of one deer per hunter.

Outfield Slope Seen Troublesome For Yankee Team

CINCINNATI (AP) — The New York Yankees may be heading for trouble in cozy Crosley Field with its strange, sharp slope up to the outfield fence.

As the ace Cincinnati Redleg outfielder, Frank Robinson, says: "This is the only ball park in the world where a ball goes by you twice—once on the way up the slope, and then bounding back after you have climbed half way up."

The slope, only a gentle rise in right field, is a challenging six foot incline in left field.

"No difficulty watsoever," said Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick. "It's just a warning slope so outfielders won't crash into the fence. It's really not as difficult as the wind in left field in Yankee Stadium."

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia University's soccer team played to its second tie in as many starts Friday, deadlocking Wesleyan 3-3 in a double overtime.

Howard Hensley led the WVU scoring with two goals. Jay Morris made the third tally. Dick Teaf was the strong man for Wesleyan, scoring all three of its goals.

Maryland Extends ACC Win String

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — The University of Maryland soccer team extended its Atlantic Coast Conference winning streak Friday with a 3-0 victory over Virginia.

Maryland, second last fall in the NCAA championship playoffs, has never lost a soccer game to an ACC opponent.

Four sophomores were in the Terrapin lineup in the team's 1961 opener Friday, and tw of them did all the scoring. Center fulltwo goals—one in the first quarter and the other in the fourth, and Nick Limar added one in the third period.

Carlos Martin, All America center forward in 1959 who has been shifted to inside right this year, set up the first goal. He took the opening kickoff, dribbled down field to the Virginia goal and passed to Tertemiz who booted it in.

A freak play in the final 15 seconds resulted in the winning touchdown last night as the Romney High Pioneers scored their sixth straight triumph with a 19-13 win over Beall High's Mountaineers before a large crowd at Frostburg.

The win was the third without defeat in the Potomac Valley Conference for Romney while Beall's defending champions dropped their second straight decision and first in the conference.

The winning touchdown came on the first play from scrimmage after Beall's kickoff in the last 30 seconds of the game. Quarterback Dick Miller faded to pass, tossed a lateral to Carey Mezzatesta who threw a 35-yard pass to end Frank Cosner who caught the ball on the Beall 15.

Cosner, thinking he was in the end zone, ran back upfield and threw the ball over his shoulder. An alert Marvin Graham, Romney tackle, grabbed the ball on the five and ran into the end zone for the winning score as the game ended.

Romney opened the scoring in the first period by scoring when Miller plunged over from the two. A 45-yard pass from Miller to Cosner set up the touchdown.

In the second period Romney scored again when the Pioneers pounced on the ball when the Beall center moved it as he prepared to snap to the quarterback. Romney marched 20 yards to the three where Sam Graham plunged over.

Beall came back with an 85 yard march sparked by the Harper brothers, Robert and Wayne. Beall moved to the Romney 40 where Jim Goebel cracked off tackle and raced for the score.

An intercepted pass set up Beall's second touchdown late in the fourth period when Goebel snared the ball and Beall marched to the Romney 25. With less than a minute to play Wayne Harper ran wide to score from the three to tie the score 13-13, but on the ensuing kickoff Romney came back to score to win the game. The lineups:

Series To Resume Today At Cincinnati's Chummy Crosley Field

Bob Purkey, Stafford To Hurl In Game

By JACK HAND

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati's Bob Purkey, a 32-year-old right-hander with a wide variety of pitches, will oppose young Bill Stafford of the New York Yankees in Saturday's third World Series game as the clubs switch to chummy Crosley Field all even with one victory each.

The Yanks still were 2-1 series favorites over the scrabby Reds.

The Reds drew a royal welcome from some 1,500 fans Thursday night when they flew home after beating the Yanks in the second game 6-2. The Yanks rode a train and did not arrive until midmorning.

Bright, warm sunshine greeted the two teams in their workouts in the Cincinnati park. The temperature eased into the 80s and there was promise of more of the same Saturday and Sunday. The clubs will play the next three games at Crosley Field. If more are necessary, they will return to New York after another off day for travel Tuesday.

Uses Same Lineup

Fred Hutchinson, manager of the Reds, was so pleased with his club's performance Thursday that he said he would use the same lineup in the third game. That meant Elio Chacon, the speedy Venezuelan who dashed home with the tie-breaking run on a passed ball, would be at second base although Don Blasingame's injured hand was much improved.

Hutchinson also stuck with John Edwards, his rookie catcher who came through with two key blows in Thursday's victory. Darrell Johnson, the veteran who is supposed to be the No. 1 receiver on the club, still was bothered by a pulled muscle in his side.

The tidy Cincinnati park, freshly painted and groomed for its first series game since 1940, presented a sharp contrast to spacious Yankee Stadium. Crosley Field can take care of only a few more than 30,000, compared with the stadium with its 70,000 capacity.

Mantle Question Mark

Mickey Mantle remained a questionable starter because of soreness from minor surgery on an abscess on his right hip. Mantle missed the first two games but worked out with the club in the warm sunshine Friday.

If Mantle can't play Manager Ralph Houk said he would use the same lineup as Thursday, with the exception of the pitcher. John Blanchard would be in right field.

After watching Mantle put on a batting show, both right and left-handed, Houk said, "Well I still am not ready to say he'll play but it looks less doubtful now."

While compiling a 16-12 record in the regular season, Purkey allowed 27 home runs. However, he shifted his main reliance to a knuckler in late season and didn't give up a single homer in his last seven starts since Aug. 25.

Stafford, 23, had a 14-9 record for the Yanks and pitched three shutouts. This is his first full season in the majors, although he came up from Richmond last season and pitched good ball.

The Yanks were somewhat concerned about Whitey Ford, who developed a stiff neck. Ford, the first game shutout winner, is due to face Jim O'Toole in another southpaw duel in Sunday's fourth game.

MOUND OPPONENTS TODAY — Bob Purkey (16-12) of the Cincinnati Reds (left) and Bill Stafford (14-9) of the New York Yankees (right) will be the mound opponents in today's third game of the 1961 World Series at Crosley Field in Cincinnati. The teams will clash for the first time on the National Leaguers' field after splitting the first two games at Yankee Stadium.

Never Quit Motto Gets Huntington Man Series Ducats

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Never say die. That's the motto of 70-year-old Lee Frazier, retired Huntington fireman.

Like a lot of other rabid Cincinnati Reds' fans here Frazier wrote for World Series tickets and was told this weekend's games are sellouts. But unlike a lot of others, Frazier, father of Huntington Police Chief Herman A. Frazier, didn't give up.

Frazier wrote the club again—the fact that this was National Letter Writing Week had nothing to do with it—explaining how he and his son had followed the Reds' ups and downs during the season and how they should be given the chance to see at least one game.

The letter paid off. Frazier got a telephone call Thursday from a club official who promised to forward two tickets upon receipt of $15.40. Frazier wired the money late Thursday and the two prized tickets for Saturday's third game of the series arrived Friday.

Added To Roster

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The St. Louis Cardinals Friday announced that Dick Lage, a 6-4, 225 pound end, will be added to the roster Saturday in time for the home opener against the New York Giants Sunday.

Mantle May Play Today

Looks Sharp In Batting Practice

CINCINNATI (AP) — The prospects of slugger Mickey Mantle playing some of the World Series games in Cincinnati looked brighter after the New York Yankees practiced Friday.

At start of practice Manager Ralph Houk had a dismal view of Mantle's chances in any of the three games at Crosley Field, the Cincinnati Reds home park.

"Personally, I don't think he's going to play tomorrow," he said. "Let's come down to cases—if you cut your hip open, how do you expect to play.

But of 13 tries, Mantle drove four to the right field bleachers, one over the center field wall and another over the screen.

Then Mickey batted right-handed — something he hadn't been able to do since the operation. He didn't look so well, although banging one over the left field wall, and another to the screen. The rest were less solid.

The performance made Houk brighter, however, although he said, "I'm still not ready to say he will play tomorrow.

"Of course, I'll have to wait to see whether he's sore after this."

Roger Maris, Yankee home run king, in a series slump with no hits in seven official tries, still seemed to have trouble in Friday's batting practice. He drove out a lot of liners, but couldn't get one out of the snug Redleg park.

Celebrities To Play In Pro-Am

Hesperia Open To Begin Today

HESPERIA, Calif. (UPI) —The annual Golf and Fun Fest at the Hesperia Country Club starts Saturday with an 18-hole pro-amateur preliminary to a $12,500 36-hole open.

The pro-am event which will be played Sunday has drawn a raft of celebrities from the entertainment world and other fields.

Hollywood is represented by: Burt (Elmer Gantry) Lancaster, Hoagy (Stardust) Carmichael, Jack (Maverick) Kelly, Jim (ex-Maverick) Garner, Phil (Drummer) Harris, Jim (Magoo) Backus Bob (Topper) Sterling, and Johnny Weismuller, the oldest Tarzan in captivity.

Baseball is represented by Albie Pearson, the crooning outfielder from the Los Angeles; and football by outhpaw Frankie Albert, the former San Francisco Forty Niner quarterback and coach.

They will team with such pro stars as: Jack Fleck, winner of last weekend's Bakersfield Open; Bob Rosburg, runner-up to Fleck at Bakersfield after a sudden-death playoff; the veteran Lloyd Mangrum from nearby Apple Valley; Phil Rodgers, the young ex-Marine from San Diego; long-hitting George Bayer, the former University of Washington tackle; and three bright youngsters turned out by coach Stan Wood at the University of Southern California — Al Geiberger, Tommy Jacobs, and Bob McCallister.

Navy Triumphs Over Miami, 17-6

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Halfback Jim Stewart raced 83 yards to a second-period touchdown and a fired-up Navy never surrendered its lead as the Middies whipped Miami's two-touchdown favorites, Friday night.

Stewart accepted a swing pass from Ron Kelmick at the line of scrimmage and, behind beautiful downfield blocking, sped to the score.

Thereafter, fierce Navy defenders held Miami's running and passing attack under control except for a third period drive that netted six points.

Clay Is Ready For Miteff Tonight

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Cassius Clay proclaimed himself at peak condition Friday for his ninth and in all probability hardest fight as a professional heavyweight against Argentinian Alex Miteff Saturday night.

The brash young Olympic champion, unbeaten in his eight previous fights, wasn't quite his usual cocky self as he came up to the bout with the hard-hitting, body-punching Miteff.

There seemed little doubt that Miteff offered Clay the severest test of his budding career.

Miteff has had 35 professional fights since 1956, winning 24 of them and scoring 14 knockouts.

Pile-driving fullback Chuck Bradfield scored all his team's points last night as he led the Keyser High Golden Tornado to a 19-0 triumph over the LaSalle High Explorers in a Potomac Valley Conference game at Fort Hill Stadium.

Bradfield plunged over from the one for the first score in the opening period, cracked over from the six in the third period and then climaxed his night's work with a five-yard smash into the end zone for the third six-pointer in the final frame.

The triumph was the fourth for Keyser in five games this year and put the Golden Tornado eleven back on the winning side of the ledger after losing last week to Allegany. Keyser now has a 2-0 mark in the conference.

LaSalle dropped its second straight decision and third in five games this season and the Explorers were unable to get concentrated offense going against the bigger Keyser line. It marked the opening game in the PVC for LaSalle. The lineups:

Record Number Of Bowmen Seen For Deer Season

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The Game and Inland Fish Commission said Friday it expects a record number of bowmen to turn put for Maryland's bow and arrow deer hunting season, which opens Oct. 16.

There were 5,395 of the special bow and arrow licenses issued last year and the commission said this number would probably be topped.

The deer season opens, for bowmen on Oct. 16 in all except four counties.

The western tier of Garrett, Allegany and Washington permit hunting by bow and arrow from Oct. 27 through Nov. 14.

Montgomery County has no open season for deer.

The special season will extend through Nov. 14 in all counties except St. Mary's, Dorchester, Wicomico, Somerset and Worcester, where it ends Nov. 10.

There is a limit of one deer per hunter.

Outfield Slope Seen Troublesome For Yankee Team

CINCINNATI (AP) — The New York Yankees may be heading for trouble in cozy Crosley Field with its strange, sharp slope up to the outfield fence.

As the ace Cincinnati Redleg outfielder, Frank Robinson, says: "This is the only ball park in the world where a ball goes by you twice—once on the way up the slope, and then bounding back after you have climbed half way up."

The slope, only a gentle rise in right field, is a challenging six foot incline in left field.

"No difficulty watsoever," said Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick. "It's just a warning slope so outfielders won't crash into the fence. It's really not as difficult as the wind in left field in Yankee Stadium."

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia University's soccer team played to its second tie in as many starts Friday, deadlocking Wesleyan 3-3 in a double overtime.

Howard Hensley led the WVU scoring with two goals. Jay Morris made the third tally. Dick Teaf was the strong man for Wesleyan, scoring all three of its goals.

Maryland Extends ACC Win String

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — The University of Maryland soccer team extended its Atlantic Coast Conference winning streak Friday with a 3-0 victory over Virginia.

Maryland, second last fall in the NCAA championship playoffs, has never lost a soccer game to an ACC opponent.

Four sophomores were in the Terrapin lineup in the team's 1961 opener Friday, and two of them did all the scoring. Center full-two goals—one in the first quarter and the other in the fourth, and Nick Limar added one in the third period.

Carlos Martin, All America center forward in 1959 who has been shifted to inside right this year, set up the first goal. He took the opening kickoff, dribbled down field to the Virginia goal and passed to Tertemiz who booted it in.

A freak play in the final 15 seconds resulted in the winning touchdown last night as the Romney High Pioneers scored their sixth straight triumph with a 19-13 win over Beall High's Mountaineers before a large crowd at Frostburg.

The win was the third without defeat in the Potomac Valley Conference for Romney while Beall's defending champions dropped their second straight decision and first in the conference.

The winning touchdown came on the first play from scrimmage after Beall's kickoff in the last 30 seconds of the game. Quarterback Dick Miller faded to pass, tossed a lateral to Carey Mezzatesta who threw a 35-yard pass to end Frank Cosner who caught the ball on the Beall 15.

Cosner, thinking he was in the end zone, ran back upfield and threw the ball over his shoulder. An alert Marvin Graham, Romney tackle, grabbed the ball on the five and ran into the end zone for the winning score as the game ended.

Romney opened the scoring in the first period by scoring when Miller plunged over from the two. A 45-yard pass from Miller to Cosner set up the touchdown.

In the second period Romney scored again when the Pioneers pounced on the ball when the Beall center moved it as he prepared to snap to the quarterback. Romney marched 20 yards to the three where Sam Graham plunged over.

Beall came back with an 85 yard march sparked by the Harper brothers, Robert and Wayne. Beall moved to the Romney 40 where Jim Goebel cracked off tackle and raced for the score.

An intercepted pass set up Beall's second touchdown late in the fourth period when Goebel snared the ball and Beall marched to the Romney 25. With less than a minute to play Wayne Harper ran wide to score from the three to tie the score 13-13, but on the ensuing kickoff Romney came back to score to win the game. The lineups:

Allegany To Host South Hagerstown High's Rebels Here Tonight

Visitors Have Never Beaten Alco Eleven

South, Frederick Top CVAL; Franklin To Visit Moorefield

Allegany High's Campers, fresh from their upset win over Keyser High last week, will strive to even their record for the season tonight when they play host to the South High Rebels of Hagerstown in an important Cumberland Valley Athletic League engagement at 8 o'clock at Fort Hill Stadium.

South's Rebels are currently pacing the CVAL, tied with Frederick High's Cadets with 2-0 and are riding a three-game winning streak after losing their opener to Waynesboro, Pa.

Coached by Doug Cochran, South has defeated Howard County High, 14-6, Westminster, 26-14, and Martinsburg, 14-7, after losing to Waynesboro, 32-6.

The Rebels are sparked by Phil Petry who runs from the tailback slot in the South single-wing formation and quarterbacks their T-formation plays.

Petry Tosses Ball

Petry has thrown six touchdown passes this year with Dwight Guyton at end as his favorite receiver. Guyton has tallied three of the touchdowns via the air lanes for the Rebels. Lee Woodring, 145-pound scatback, is the chief running threat for South.

Coach Ed Schwarz's Allegany gridders bowed to Bishop Guilfoyle High of Altoona, Pa., 13-12 and to North Hagerstown's Hubs, 18-13, before righting themselves last week with a thrilling 19-13 triumph over Keyser.

Jimmy Walker and Mike Harvey are the running threats for Allegany while quarterback Fred Shank does the passing with ends Jeff Norris and Chuck Davis as his main targets.

A victory tonight by Allegany will put them in a second-place tie with South High behind Frederick's Cadets in the CVAL standings and will even the Campers' record at 2-2 for the year.

This will be the fifth game of the series between the two teams with Allegany holding four straight victories over the Rebels, including a thrilling 29-27 decision last year when the Campers finished the season unbeaten.

Franklin At Moorefield

In a Potomac Valley Conference game scheduled this afternoon, Franklin High's Panthers will travel to Moorefield to meet the Yellowjackets. Franklin (1-3-0) will be out to snap Moorefield's seven-game winning skein over the Panthers. The Jackets (2-1-1) have won 15 of the last 16 games with Franklin. The game will be Moorefield's Homecoming Day attraction and will start at 1:45 (EST).

Other games today will find West Virginia School for Deaf at Harpers Ferry; Westminster at Waynesboro and Boonsboro meeting Hancock at South Hagerstown High's stadium tonight.

On the college front today Frostburg State's Bobcats, playing their first year on the gridiron will visit the D.C. Teachers at Washington striving to win their first game. Potomac State (1-2-0) will visit Shepherd College in a WVIAC contest.

Packers Picked To Defeat Baltimore In Sunday Tilt

Forty-Niners Plan Surprises For Rams; Cardinals Favored

By NORMAN MILLER
United Press International

Having sprung the "quarterback shuttle" with such excellent results last weekend, coach Red Hickey of the San Francisco Forty-niners now plans to use it as a weapon of surprise against the rest of the National Football League.

When asked if he planned to alternate his three quarterbacks on every play Sunday against the Los Angeles Rams, Hickey replied, "Let 'em guess."

The Forty-niners, one of nine teams in the NFL tied for the division leads with 2-1 records, were favored by 8 points to beat the Rams at San Francisco.

In two other games involving top teams, the Green Bay Packers were picked by 7 at home against the Baltimore Colts, while the St. Louis Cardinals, who have become known as the "incredible cripples," were picked by 2 points at home over the New York Giants.

Biggest Favorites

The Cleveland Browns were the biggest favorites on the weekend program, picked by 14 at home over the Washington Redskins; the Detroit Lions were the choice by 7 at home over the Chicago Bears; the Philadelphia Eagles were 6 at home over the Pittsburgh Steelers, and the Minnesota Vikings were 4 over the Dallas Cowboys at Minneapolis-St. Paul.

Hickey, in guiding the Forty-Niners to a 49-0 rout against the Lions last Sunday, directly the "shotgun" offense personally by shuttling quarterbacks John Brodie, Bill Kilmer and Bob Waters into the game with instructions for each play.

Opposing NFL coaches feel the novel idea has a great deal of merit. It works primarily because Hickey has three quarterbacks he can rely upon to execute their specific roles in the "shotgun" attack.

Comments Elroy Hirsch, general manager of the Rams: "I've been predicting since last winter that the Forty-niners would be the toughest team in the league this year. They had the best draft setup in the history of pro football."

San Francisco's only doubtful starter for Sunday's rame is guard Bruce Bosley, hobbled by an ankle injury. If he cannot play, his job will be filled by Mike Magac playing his last game before entering the Army.

Has Sprained Ankle

Rams quarterback Zeke Bratkowski's starting status also was uncertain because of a sprained ankle. If he is not ready, Frank Ryan will take over. Coach Bob Waterfield also considered the idea of shifting Jon Arnett or Eddie Meador to quarterback behind Ryan, if necessary.

The Cardinals have been described as "close to manpower bankruptcy" because of their injuries. They already have lost three of their best running backs, and for their home-opener against the Giants, they have a few more injuries. End Hugh McInnis and rookie punt return specialist Pat Fischer definitely are out. Fullback Frank Mestnik and defensive end Joe Robb also are limping.

Old Charlie Conerly should start as quarterback for the Giants, but if the offense does not click, Y.A. Tittle will take over promptly. Tittle was injured when the Cards beat the Giants, 21-10, in the season opener. But he came off the bench and led the Giants to their next two wins.

Ray Berry, Baltimore's all-NFL offensive end, is ready to go full-time again following his knee operation, and the winning link-up with Johnny Unitas is restored. This could be a battle of field goals between Green Bay's Paul Fornung and Baltimore's Steve Myhra. Each has kicked six. This is the Colts' first road game.

The Redskins, without a victory in three games, are in the best physical shape of the season thus far. But coach Bill McPeak frets that "the Browns are the solidest team in the Eastern Division," and chances for an upset appear slim. Cleveland also is in good shape.

Coach George Wilson says his Lions "are really mad at themselves" for last week's beating by San Francisco. In preparing for the Bears, Wilson says his men have been working harder than at any time this season. Gil Mains, defensive lineman, is out of action. For the Bears, fullback Rick Casares may see some action, although coach George Halas says the Lions should be "brutally tough."

The Eagles let down last week against St. Louis and lost. This weekend they faced another charged-up team in the Steelers, who are looking for their first win. Rudy Bukich will start at quarterback for Pittsburgh in place of Bobby Layne, who has a sore right side and a sore shoulder.

George Shaw, a second-string quarterback throughout his pro career, finally appears to have won a first-string job with the Vikings after what coach Norman Van Brocklin described as "one of his greatest games" last weekend against the Colts.

Touch Football Teams Sought By Rec Department

Several other teams have indicated interest in joining the league and rec department officials have extended the deadline for entries until Wednesday, October 11, at 8 p.m. when the league will meet again.

Five teams joined the Adult Touch Football League and play will begin on Sunday with two games carded, although rec officials stated at least one more team is being sought for the circuit.

Little Things May Create Football Shockers Today

College Elite Face Tough Foes Throughout Nation

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The little things — an injured halfback, an underrated opponent, a sudden letdown—all lurk in the shadows around college football's elite Saturday and may cause a few shockers before the day is ended.

The injured halfback belongs to Iowa's Hawkeyes, ranked first in the current Associated Press poll. The player is Larry Ferguson, who won't face Southern California in a game that will be televised nationally (ABC-TV, 4 p.m. EST).

Coach Jerry Burns plans to use fullback Joe Williams as part-time performer in the halfback spot, as well as his regular post, and also will call on sophomore Paul Krause.

Second-ranked Mississippi, 2-0, plays tough, little Florida State, a team that has allowed only a touchdown and a field goal in two games while winning one and tying Florida. Ole Miss, under quarterback Doug Elmore, has only given two field goals both against Kentucky, and is going for its 18th straight non-losing game.

Tech Faces LSU

Georgia Tech, (No. 3), suddenly back in the upper strata it once inhabited regularly, will send its high-powered offense, guided by Stan Gann, against Louisiana State (1-1) in a Southeastern Conference night game. Tech also is defensively tough, having allowed only one touchdown, and last week beat Rice, 24-0. Rice knocked off LSU the week before 16-3.

Alabama (No. 4) and Vanderbilt fight it out for the early SEC lead in another conference night game, with 'Bama a slight favorite. Both are 2-0 over-all.

The rest of the top ten except idle Baylor, (No 10), play intersectional games. Stanford, another surprise with a 2-0 mark, and UCLA (1-1) of the Big Five invade the Big Ten strongholds of sixth-ranked Michigan State and eighth-ranked Ohio State, respectively. The Buckeyes will try to snap back from a surprising 7-7 tie with Texas Christian last week.

Offense-minded Texas (No. 5) plays Washington State, which boasts end Hugh Campbell, the nation's leading pass catcher last year, but has lost both its starts this season. Syracuse, ranked seventh and now the highest-rated team in the East, plays Maryland in its most important test so far.

Battle Of Razzle-Dazzle

Army, 2-0, goes against ninth-ranked Michigan's powerful Wolverines at Ann Arbor, Mich., in a battle of razzle-dazzle T-formation attacks.

There is other heavy conference activity, too, plus top games matching Notre Dame and Purdue, California-Missouri, Oregon-Minnesota and Pittsburgh at Washington.

The Ivy League has a full slate of four games, topped by Princeton's visit to Columbia. In the Southern Conference Virginia Tech will try to extend West Virginia's overall non-winning string to 19 in a row.

Duke, the Atlantic Coast Conference leader with a 2-0 record plays Wake Forest as part of a three-game league program. Northwestern at Illinois and Wisconsin-Indiana are the only Big Ten games.

Colorado takes on winless Kansas in the Big Eight and Iowa State meets Oklahoma in another top conference tilt. Texas Christian, successful outside the Southwest Conference, plays a night game against member Arkansas at Little Rock while Utah State and Wyoming battle for the lead in the Skyline Conference.

Final Beagle Trial Sunday

The fourth and final of the current series of point trials held by the Allegany Beagle Club will be run at the Barton Dairy Farm grounds on Sunday.

Drawings for the 15-inch class will be held at 8 o'clock while the 13-inch class drawings will be made at 1 p.m.

William Risch, Davidsville, Pa., will be the trial judge, assisted by members of the local club.

Meals will be served at the club house during the beagle trial runs.

Cumberland Vets Capture Softball Tourney Title

Top Greenpoint Inn Tossers, 4-2, At Penn Avenue

The Cumberland Veterans of Foreign Wars captured the second annual Western Maryland Softball Tournament championship last night by defeating Greenpoint Inn's Old Exports, 4-2, in the finale of the double elimination tourney at Penn Avenue field before approximately 75 fans.

The Vets thus added the top honors in the tournament to their Rocking Chair Softball League crown by winning their sixth game in tourney play.

The victors broke a 2-2 deadlock in the sixth inning on a pair of base hits and three costly throwing errors by the Old Exports.

Ronnie Cage opened the frame with a single and after George Stevenson flied out, Manager Cecil Grimes singled to right as a pinch-hitter.

The rightfielder overthrew third trying to get Cage and when the Vets catcher headed home the leftfielder picked up the ball and threw it over the catcher's head as Cage scored. Grimes, meanwhile, went to third and the Inners' first baseman grabbed the ball and threw wildly to third permitting the manager to come home with the second run of the inning.

Floyd "Pete" Elliott notched his sixth tournament victory for the Vets with a neat effort, scattering five singles as he struck out one and walked three batters.

Vern Lowery absorbed the loss as he was touched for nine hits and a walk while whiffing three.

Jimmy Eckard and George McGregor paced the Vets at the plate with two hits apiece.

Tournament awards were presented to the champions, the runner-up Greenpoint team, third place Hyndman Vets and fourth-place Bennett's Transfer. The results:

NEW TOURNAMENT CHAMPIONS — The Cumberland Veterans of Foreign Wars won the second annual Western Maryland Softball Tournament championship last night by defeating Greenpoint Inn, 4-2. The triumph carried the Rocking Chair titlists through with a 6-1 record in tourney play. The Vets succeeded the Sports Shoppe which won the title last year. Left to right the new champs are (first row) Ray Ryan, Mike McKay, Eddie McKay Jr.; (second row) Ronnie Cage, Pete Elliott, Ted Durbin, Jimmy Eckard; (third row) Manager Cecil Grimes, Charles Day, Mil Dean, Ronnie Clay, Sam Brady; (fourth row) Glen Watson, Phil Reuschel, John Eckard, Vern Penner, Ivan Johnson, George Stevenson and George McGregor.

Petersburg ripped off three quick touchdowns in the first half then withstood a strong Ridgeley challenge through the air to whip the Blackhawks yesterday, 20-13, in a Potomac Valley Conference contest at Petersburg.

The victory evened the Vikings' record at 2-2-1 for the season while Ridgeley bowed for the fourth time in five starts.

Petersburg drove 64 yards from the opening kickoff for its first score. Steve Bruce caught a 24-yard pass from quarterback Dave Shaffer for the touchdown and Leroy Ketterman booted the extra point.

The Hawks lost the ball on downs on their own 47 shortly afterwards and Petersburg promptly scored again when Shaffer circled left end for the six-pointer from 24 yards out. Ketterman's kick made it 14-0 in the first quarter.

The Vikings last score came after Shaffer intercepted a Ridgeley pass on the Viking 35 and Petersburg marched 65 yards for the touchdown. Joe Deneault plunged over from the one to cap the scoring.

Ridgeley took to the air in the second half to score twice, completing 12 of 22 passes for 188 yards for the day.

Allegany To Host South Hagerstown High's Rebels Here Tonight

Visitors Have Never Beaten Alco Eleven

South, Frederick Top CVAL; Franklin To Visit Moorefield

Allegany High's Campers, fresh from their upset win over Keyser High last week, will strive to even their record for the season tonight when they play host to the South High Rebels of Hagerstown in an important Cumberland Valley Athletic League engagement at 8 o'clock at Fort Hill Stadium.

South's Rebels are currently pacing the CVAL, tied with Frederick High's Cadets with 2-0 and are riding a three-game winning streak after losing their opener to Waynesboro, Pa.

Coached by Doug Cochran, South has defeated Howard County High, 14-6, Westminster, 26-14, and Martinsburg, 14-7, after losing to Waynesboro, 32-6.

The Rebels are sparked by Phil Petry who runs from the tailback slot in the South single-wing formation and quarterbacks their T-formation plays.

Petry Tosses Ball

Petry has thrown six touchdown passes this year with Dwight Guyton at end as his favorite receiver. Guyton has tallied three of the touchdowns via the air lanes for the Rebels. Lee Woodring, 145-pound scatback, is the chief running threat for South.

Coach Ed Schwarz's Allegany gridders bowed to Bishop Guilfoyle High of Altoona, Pa., 13-12 and to North Hagerstown's Hubs, 18-13, before righting themselves last week with a thrilling 19-13 triumph over Keyser.

Jimmy Walker and Mike Harvey are the running threats for Allegany while quarterback Fred Shank does the passing with ends Jeff Norris and Chuck Davis as his main targets.

A victory tonight by Allegany will put them in a second-place tie with South High behind Frederick's Cadets in the CVAL standings and will even the Campers' record at 2-2 for the year.

This will be the fifth game of the series between the two teams with Allegany holding four straight victories over the Rebels, including a thrilling 29-27 decision last year when the Campers finished the season unbeaten.

Franklin At Moorefield

In a Potomac Valley Conference game scheduled this afternoon, Franklin High's Panthers will travel to Moorefield to meet the Yellowjackets. Franklin (1-3-0) will be out to snap Moorefield's seven-game winning skein over the Panthers. The Jackets (2-1-1) have won 15 of the last 16 games with Franklin. The game will be Moorefield's Homecoming Day attraction and will start at 1:45 (EST).

Other games today will find West Virginia School for Deaf at Harpers Ferry; Westminster at Waynesboro and Boonsboro meeting Hancock at South Hagerstown High's stadium tonight.

On the college front today Frostburg State's Bobcats, playing their first year on the gridiron will visit the D.C. Teachers at Washington striving to win their first game. Potomac State (1-2-0) will visit Shepherd College in a WVIAC contest.

Packers Picked To Defeat Baltimore In Sunday Tilt

Forty-Niners Plan Surprises For Rams; Cardinals Favored

By NORMAN MILLER
United Press International

Having sprung the "quarterback shuttle" with such excellent results last weekend, coach Red Hickey of the San Francisco Forty-niners now plans to use it as a weapon of surprise against the rest of the National Football League.

When asked if he planned to alternate his three quarterbacks on every play Sunday against the Los Angeles Rams, Hickey replied, "Let 'em guess."

The Forty-niners, one of nine teams in the NFL tied for the division leads with 2-1 records, were favored by 8 points to beat the Rams at San Francisco.

In two other games involving top teams, the Green Bay Packers were picked by 7 at home against the Baltimore Colts, while the St. Louis Cardinals, who have become known as the "incredible cripples," were picked by 2 points at home over the New York Giants.

Biggest Favorites

The Cleveland Browns were the biggest favorites on the weekend program, picked by 14 at home over the Washington Redskins; the Detroit Lions were the choice by 7 at home over the Chicago Bears; the Philadelphia Eagles were 6 at home over the Pittsburgh Steelers, and the Minnesota Vikings were 4 over the Dallas Cowboys at Minneapolis-St. Paul.

Hickey, in guiding the Forty-Niners to a 49-0 rout against the Lions last Sunday, directly the "shotgun" offense personally by shuttling quarterbacks John Brodie, Bill Kilmer and Bob Waters into the game with instructions for each play.

Opposing NFL coaches feel the novel idea has a great deal of merit. It works primarily because Hickey has three quarterbacks he can rely upon to execute their specific roles in the "shotgun" attack.

Comments Elroy Hirsch, general manager of the Rams: "I've been predicting since last winter that the Forty-niners would be the toughest team in the league this year. They had the best draft setup in the history of pro football."

San Francisco's only doubtful starter for Sunday's rame is guard Bruce Bosley, hobbled by an ankle injury. If he cannot play, his job will be filled by Mike Magac playing his last game before entering the Army.

Has Sprained Ankle

Rams quarterback Zeke Bratkowski's starting status also was uncertain because of a sprained ankle. If he is not ready, Frank Ryan will take over. Coach Bob Waterfield also considered the idea of shifting Jon Arnett or Eddie Meador to quarterback behind Ryan, if necessary.

The Cardinals have been described as "close to manpower bankruptcy" because of their injuries. They already have lost three of their best running backs, and for their home-opener against the Giants, they have a few more injuries. End Hugh McInnis and rookie punt return specialist Pat Fischer definitely are out. Fullback Frank Mestnik and defensive end Joe Robb also are limping.

Old Charlie Conerly should start at quarterback for the Giants, but if the offense does not click, Y.A. Tittle will take over promptly. Tittle was injured when the Cards beat the Giants, 21-10, in the season opener. But he came off the bench and led the Giants to their next two wins.

Ray Berry, Baltimore's all-NFL offensive end, is ready to go full-time again following his knee operation, and the winning link-up with Johnny Unitas is restored. This could be a battle of field goals between Green Bay's Paul Fornung and Baltimore's Steve Myhra. Each has kicked six. This is the Colts' first road game.

The Redskins, without a victory in three games, are in the best physical shape of the season thus far. But coach Bill McPeak frets that "the Browns are the solidest team in the Eastern Division," and chances for an upset appear slim. Cleveland also is in good shape.

Coach George Wilson says his Lions "are really mad at themselves" for last week's beating by San Francisco. In preparing for the Bears, Wilson says his men have been working harder than at any time this season. Gil Mains, defensive lineman, is out of action. For the Bears, fullback Rick Casares may see some action, although coach George Halas says the Lions should be "brutally tough."

The Eagles let down last week against St. Louis and lost. This weekend they faced another charged-up team in the Steelers, who are looking for their first win. Rudy Bukich will start at quarterback for Pittsburgh in place of Bobby Layne, who has a sore right side and a sore shoulder.

George Shaw, a second-string quarterback throughout his pro career, finally appears to have won a first-string job with the Vikings after what coach Norman Van Brocklin described as "one of his greatest games" last weekend against the Colts.

Touch Football Teams Sought By Rec Department

Three teams entered the High School Touch Football League at an organizational meeting Thursday night at City Hall. They are the Allegany Hi-Y, Cresaptown Cuffy's and the Cumberland Columbian Squires.

Several other teams have indicated interest in joining the league and rec department officials have extended the deadline for entries until Wednesday, October 11, at 8 p.m. when the league will meet again.

Five teams joined the Adult Touch Football League and play will begin on Sunday with two games carded, although rec officials stated at least one more team is being sought for the circuit.

Games slated at Post Field on Sunday are Wilson's Hardware vs. Redmen at 2 o'clock and W. T. Grant vs. Old Exports at 3 p.m.

Little Things May Create Football Shockers Today

College Elite Face Tough Foes Throughout Nation

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The little things — an injured halfback, an underrated opponent, a sudden letdown—all lurk in the shadows around college football's elite Saturday and may cause a few shockers before the day is ended.

The injured halfback belongs to Iowa's Hawkeyes, ranked first in the current Associated Press poll. The player is Larry Ferguson, who won't face Southern California in a game that will be televised nationally (ABC-TV, 4 p.m. EST).

Coach Jerry Burns plans to use fullback Joe Williams as part-time performer in the halfback spot, as well as his regular post, and also will call on sophomore Paul Krause.

Second-ranked Mississippi, 2-0, plays tough, little Florida State, a team that has allowed only a touchdown and a field goal in two games while winning one and tying Florida. Ole Miss, under quarterback Doug Elmore, has only given two field goals both against Kentucky, and is going for its 18th straight non-losing game.

Tech Faces LSU

Georgia Tech, (No. 3), suddenly back in the upper strata it once inhabited regularly, will send its high-powered offense, guided by Stan Gann, against Louisiana State (1-1) in a Southeastern Conference night game. Tech also is defensively tough, having allowed only one touchdown, and last week beat Rice, 24-0. Rice knocked off LSU the week before 16-3.

Alabama (No. 4) and Vanderbilt fight it out for the early SEC lead in another conference night game, with 'Bama a slight favorite. Both are 2-0 over-all.

The rest of the top ten except idle Baylor (No 10), play intersectional games. Stanford, another surprise with a 2-0 mark, and UCLA (1-1) of the Big Five invade the Big Ten strongholds of sixth-ranked Michigan State and eighth-ranked Ohio State, respectively. The Buckeyes will try to snap back from a surprising 7-7 tie with Texas Christian last week.

Offense-minded Texas (No. 5) plays Washington State, which boasts end Hugh Campbell, the nation's leading pass catcher last year, but has lost both its starts this season. Syracuse, ranked seventh and now the highest-rated team in the East, plays Maryland in its most important test so far.

Battle Of Razzle-Dazzle

Army, 2-0, goes against ninth-ranked Michigan's powerful Wolverines at Ann Arbor, Mich., in a battle of razzle-dazzle T-formation attacks.

There is other heavy conference activity, too, plus top games matching Notre Dame and Purdue, California-Missouri, Oregon-Minnesota and Pittsburgh at Washington.

The Ivy League has a full slate of four games, topped by Princeton's visit to Columbia. In the Southern Conference Virginia Tech will try to extend West Virginia's overall non-winning string to 19 in a row.

Duke, the Atlantic Coast Conference leader with a 2-0 record plays Wake Forest as part of a three-game league program. Northwestern at Illinois and Wisconsin-Indiana are the only Big Ten games.

Colorado takes on winless Kansas in the Big Eight and Iowa State meets Oklahoma in another top conference tilt. Texas Christian, successful outside the Southwest Conference, plays a night game against member Arkansas at Little Rock while Utah State and Wyoming battle for the lead in the Skyline Conference.

Final Beagle Trial Sunday

The fourth and final of the current series of point trials held by the Allegany Beagle Club will be run at the Barton Dairy Farm grounds on Sunday.

Drawings for the 15-inch class will be held at 8 o'clock while the 13-inch class drawings will be made at 1 p.m.

William Risch, Davidsville, Pa., will be the trial judge, assisted by members of the local club.

Meals will be served at the club house during the beagle trial runs.

Top Greenpoint Inn Tossers, 4-2, At Penn Avenue

The Cumberland Veterans of Foreign Wars captured the second annual Western Maryland Softball Tournament championship last night by defeating Greenpoint Inn's Old Exports, 4-2, in the finale of the double elimination tourney at Penn Avenue field before approximately 75 fans.

The Vets thus added the top honors in the tournament to their Rocking Chair Softball League crown by winning their sixth game in tourney play.

The victors broke a 2-2 deadlock in the sixth inning on a pair of base hits and three costly throwing errors by the Old Exports.

Ronnie Cage opened the frame with a single and after George Stevenson flied out, Manager Cecil Grimes singled to right as a pinch-hitter.

The rightfielder overthrew third trying to get Cage and when the Vets catcher headed home the leftfielder picked up the ball and threw it over the catcher's head as Cage scored. Grimes, meanwhile, went to third and the Inners' first baseman grabbed the ball and threw wildly to third permitting the manager to come home with the second run of the inning.

Floyd "Pete" Elliott notched his sixth tournament victory for the Vets with a neat effort, scattering five singles as he struck out one and walked three batters.

Vern Lowery absorbed the loss as he was touched for nine hits and a walk while whiffing three.

Jimmy Eckard and George McGregor paced the Vets at the plate with two hits apiece.

Tournament awards were presented to the champions, the runner-up Greenpoint team, third place Hyndman Vets and fourth-place Bennett's Transfer. The results:

Greenpoint Inn	000	101	0—2	5	4
Cumberland VFW	100	102	x—4	9	3

Vern Lowery and Junior Eversole. Pete Elliott and Ronnie Cage.

NEW TOURNAMENT CHAMPIONS — The Cumberland Veterans of Foreign Wars won the second annual Western Maryland Softball Tournament championship last night by defeating Greenpoint Inn, 4-2. The triumph carried the Rocking Chair titlists through with a 6-1 record in tourney play. The Vets succeeded the Sports Shoppe which won the title last year. Left to right the new champs are (first row) Ray Ryan, Mike McKay, Eddie McKay Jr.; (second row) Ronnie Cage, Pete Elliott, Ted Durbin, Jimmy Eckard; (third row) Manager Cecil Grimes, Charles Day, Mil Dean, Ronnie Clay, Sam Brady; (fourth row) Glen Watson, Phil Reuschel, John Eckard, Vern Penner, Ivan Johnson, George Stevenson and George McGregor.

Late Rally Gives Market Third Straight Advance

NEW YORK (AP — The stock market was rescued from dull irregularity Friday by a late rally which gave the list its third straight daily advance. Trading was moderately active.

A report that some progress was being made in talks aimed at ending the strike at Ford Motor Co. accompanied the upward trend. This came on top of news that sales of the 1962 car models in late September improved sharply over the pace earlier in the month.

Both General Motors and Ford touched new highs, Ford rising 1½ to 109⅛ while GM gained ¼ at 50⅝.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average rose .24 to 708.25.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced .80 to 258.60, topping Thursday's historic high. The industrial component was up .40, rails declined .50 and utilities rose 1.40 to another new high for the year.

Of 1,282 issues traded, 583 advanced and 440 declined. New highs for the year totaled 54 and new lows 15.

Volume was 3.47 million shares compared with 3.92 million Thursday.

Nine of the 15 most active stocks advanced, 5 declined and 1 was unchanged.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were irregular. Volume was 1.45 million shares compared with 1.56 million Thursday.

Corporate bonds continued to advance. U.S. government bonds declined.

Volume came to $5.66 million par value, down from $6.35 million Thursday.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Grain futures closed mixed Friday on the Chicago Board of Trade as most contracts rallied from their low points late in the session.

Earlier selling dropped all corn and oats deliveries and most soybean and meal contracts to new low ground for the season.

Wheat finished unchanged to up ⅝, corn off ⅛ to up ⅝, oats unchanged to off ⅞, rye off ¾ to up ½ and Soybeans off ¼ to ⅞.

Wheat bounced a cent or more from early low points around noontime. Reports from Egypt bought 1,270,000 bushels of white wheat and Colombia 370,000 bushels of hard wheat was a rallying influence. Commission houses led the early selling.

Corn futures met mixed trading. Export houses took most of the commission house offerings. December fell under liquidation with the harvest believed ready to expand. Britain bought 1,400,000 bushels of corn.

Oats ran into further liquidating sales. Demand appeared to steady the market after prices had fallen about a cent.

Nearby rye remained weak, but deferred months turned higher.

Soybeans were active, with hedge sales dominating the market. Commission houses bought. Increased country movement of beans and lower oil and meal prices prompted selling.

Outside markets were mostly lower.

Late Rally Gives Market Third Straight Advance

NEW YORK (AP — The stock market was rescued from dull irregularity Friday by a late rally which gave the list its third straight daily advance. Trading was moderately active.

A report that some progress was being made in talks aimed at ending the strike at Ford Motor Co. accompanied the upward trend. This came on top of news that sales of the 1962 car models late September improved sharply over the pace earlier in the month.

Both General Motors and Ford touched new highs, Ford rising 1½ to 109⅛ while GM gained ¼ at 50⅝.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average rose .24 to 708.25.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced .80 to 258.60, topping Thursday's historic high. The industrial component was up .40, rails declined .50 and utilities rose 1.40 to another new high for the year.

Of 1,282 issues traded, 583 advanced and 440 declined. New highs for the year totaled 54 and new lows 15.

Volume was 3.47 million shares compared with 3.92 million Thursday.

Nine of the 15 most active stocks advanced, 5 declined and 1 was unchanged.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were irregular. Volume was 1.45 million shares compared with 1.56 million Thursday.

Corporate bonds continued to advance. U.S. government bonds declined.

Volume came to $5.66 million par value, down from $6.35 million Thursday.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Grain futures closed mixed Friday on the Chicago Board of Trade as most contracts rallied from their low points late in the session.

Earlier selling dropped all corn and oats deliveries and most soybean and meal contracts to new low ground for the season.

Wheat finished unchanged to up ⅝, corn off ⅛ to up ⅝, oats unchanged to off ⅞, rye off ¾ to up ½ and Soybeans off ¼ to ⅞.

Wheat bounced a cent or more from early low points around noontime. Reports from Egypt bought 1,270,000 bushels of white wheat and Colombia 370,000 bushels of hard wheat was a rallying influence. Commission houses led the early selling.

Corn futures met mixed trading. Export houses took most of the commission house offerings. December fell under liquidation with the harvest believed ready to expand. Britain bought 1,400,000 bushels of corn.

Oats ran into further liquidating sales. Demand appeared to steady the market after prices had fallen about a cent.

Nearby rye remained weak, but deferred months turned higher.

Soybeans were active, with hedge sales dominating the market. Commission houses bought. Increased country movement of beans and lower oil and meal prices prompted selling.

Outside markets were mostly lower.

Cards of Thanks

We want to express our deepest appreciation for the many acts of kindness expressed during the illness and death of our mother and grandmother, Mrs. Agathe Felice. We are especially grateful to those who served as pallbearers, sent floral tributes and messages of condolence, and donated cars for the funeral.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Robert W. Fleek, who passed away 14 years ago, October 7, 1947.

The road into the sunset,
Is the one we all must tread,
And though it brings us sorrow
When a loved one goes ahead,
But we will meet again some day.

Cards of Thanks

We want to express our deepest appreciation for the many acts of kindness expressed during the illness and death of our mother and grandmother, Mrs. Agathe Felice. We are especially grateful to those who served as pallbearers, sent floral tributes and messages of condolence, and donated cars for the funeral.

HER SONS and DAUGHTER and GRANDCHILDREN

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Robert W. Fleek, who passed away 14 years ago, October 7, 1947.

The road into the sunset,
Is the one we all must tread,
And though it brings us sorrow
When a loved one goes ahead.
But we will meet again some day.

Sadly missed by

County Closes Unnamed Alley

A resolution was adopted yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to close an unnamed alley in Cresaptown near the school.

The alley is ten-feet wide and 200 feet long. The property owners whose land abuts on the alley have endorsed the proposal. The matter was advertised and there have been no objections filed.

Matthew J. Mullaney, attorney for the petitioners, told the board that the alley has never been used and is grown up with weeds and brush. It is in the block bounded by Fourth and Fifth streets, Jeanette Avenue and Main Street and is in the Cellulose City Addition to Cresaptown.

County Closes Unnamed Alley

A resolution was adopted yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to close an unnamed alley in Cresaptown near the school.

The alley is ten-feet wide and 200 feet long. The property owners whose land abuts on the alley have endorsed the proposal. The matter was advertised and there have been no objections filed.

Matthew J. Mullaney, attorney for the petitioners, told the board that the alley has never been used and is grown up with weeds and brush. It is in the block bounded by Fourth and Fifth streets, Jeanette Avenue and Main Street and is in the Cellulose City Addition to Cresaptown.

Girl Dies, 6 Hurt As Car Hits Pole

Barbara Kidwell Succumbs After Lonaconing Crash

One girl was fatally injured and six others were hurt last night when the car they were passengers in went out of control and struck a utility pole near Lonaconing.

Barbara Kidwell, 17, Westernport, was taken to Miners Hospital in Frostburg, but died at midnight.

Taken to the hospital were Marilyn Miller, 17, of Barton, who was identified as the driver of the car; Dolores Upperman, 17, and Brenda Upperman, 18, both of Bloomington; Christa D. Green, 11, Barton; Jeanette Miller, 12, Barton, and Jean Stowell, 16, of Franklin.

It was reported the girls were headed toward Westernport from Lonaconing, when the Miller girl attempted to pass a car one mile south of Lonaconing. The vehicle apparently went out of control and struck a pole.

After the auto struck the pole, a high tension wire fell across the vehicle and the Potomac Edison Company was called to the scene to remove the damaged wire.

Tfc. Robert Dishong investigated the accident, assisted by Trooper T. E. McConnell.

Fire Company Sets Activities For Next Week

Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Company will conduct several activities next week in conjunction with Fire Prevention Week which will be observed October 15-21.

Tomorrow the fire company members will attend church in a body and on Monday, open house will be held starting at 7 p.m. Refreshments will be served and children will be given rides on the fire truck.

On Tuesday, members of the company will distribute stickers to those families who have someone ill or an invalid in their homes. Persons interested on obtaining a sticker for their homes should contact the fire hall.

Several members of the fire company will visit Northeast School Wednesday at 10 a.m. and address the student body on fire prevention. The company also will announce the winner of the essay contest, "What Fire Prevention Means To Me," which is being conducted among the students.

At 10 a.m. Thursday, members of the company will conduct a demonstration on the methods of fighting the various types of fire. That afternoon a class of students from Northeast School will be taken on a guided tour of Central Fire Station in Cumberland.

A movie on fire prevention will be shown at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the fire hall. It will be open to the public, company officials said. The week's activities will conclude with a dance Saturday night at the fire hall, and a dry powder fire extinguisher will be given as a door prize.

Officials of the company said anyone desiring to have his home inspected for fire hazards should contact the fire hall and a fireman will inspect the residence at the convenience of the property owner.

State Police Would Add 40

BALTIMORE (AP)—A $6.8 million budget submitted Friday by state Police includes a request for 40 additional troopers and 19 new civilian employes.

Col. Carey B. Jarman, superintendent of State Police, said the 40 new troopers will "just barely keep us abreast of the problem" of expanding duties as Maryland's population and highway network continue to increase.

"We think, in fact, that 40 new troopers is on the conservative side," Jarman said.

The department has added about 40 troopers to its uniformed force each of the past three years. Jarman said the request for fiscal 1963 takes into account the opening of the 31-mile Baltimore Beltway and anticipates the opening of the Northeast Expressway.

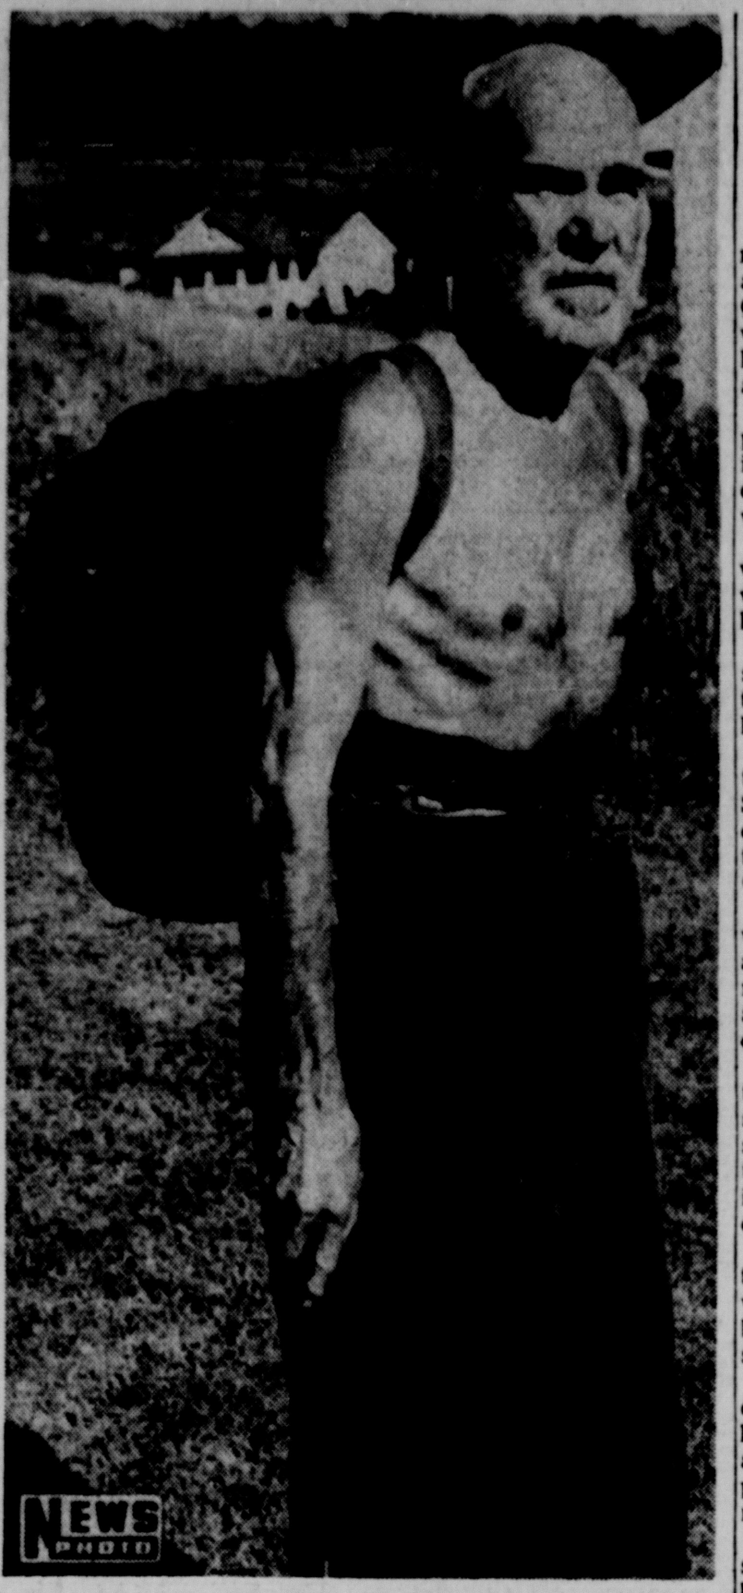
County Man, 69, Trudges Length Of C&O Canal, Calls It 'Wonderful Trip'



Hiker Frank G. Berry

Frank G. Berry May Be Oldest To Make Hike

By C. WESLEY BLACKBURN
News Staff Writer

A 69-year-old Flintstone area man this week completed a hike along the historic Chesapeake and Ohio Canal. He said yesterday it was a "wonderful" trip and that he "wouldn't have missed it for anything."

He is Frank G. Berry, a retired papermaker, and he believes he is the oldest man ever to hike over the towpath of the waterway with a heavy pack on his back.

Mr. Berry plans early next week to shave off the heavy beard which he started 10 days before hitting the trail.

The beard, he said, was needed, since "mosquitos can't bite through a quarter of an inch of hair."

Mr. Berry began the 165-mile trek of the canal on Baltimore Street on September 13, and ended his leisurely hike in Washington Monday.

Carried 40-Pound Pack

Twelve days on the trail, he walked six hours a day carrying a 40-pound pack which included a rain sheet, a sleeping bag, a stove and a small supply of concentrated food and coffee.

He said the only unpleasant time on the trail was during a severe storm in the Paw Paw section on the second night, and the final day, when he walked into the night through the rain to complete the trip.

Once a day, he stopped on the towpath to prepare a full meal, washed down with black coffee, both prepared on the tiny GI stove he carries in his pack.

He said his favorite refreshment on the trail, enjoyed each time he came to a town, consisted of a "strengthening" mixture of two parts of fresh milk and one of root beer.

Sleeping under the stars, he said, was no problem, as he has been camping and hiking most of the summer.

Potomac "Most Beautiful"

Mr. Berry said the Potomac River, along which the canal runs, is the most beautiful stream he has ever seen and that he did not think "even the Missouri is as pretty."

He said he enjoyed his stops in each community along the way, and that high spots of the tour were the sight of Great Falls, Antietam battlefield and the excursion boat which travels a reconstructed stretch of the canal at Washington.

He acknowledged the assistance of Edwin M. Dale, superintendent of the C & O Canal National Historical Park project, who issued a permit, provided maps and information and arranged for park rangers to keep a check on his progress.

Trained Six Weeks

Mr. Berry said he trained for six weeks for the canal hike, starting with four miles a day and ended up trudging 10 miles a day with full pack as the time neared for the long-planned trip.

He said residents along the way reported he was the oldest man ever to make the complete trip on foot with a loaded pack.

He is a native of Flintstone and retired in Akron in 1957 after 50 years of work in the papermaking trade.

Mr. Berry learned the trade at the Luke mill of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, where he worked from 1907 to 1920. Most of the rest of his working career was spent, he said, helping set up new paper mills throughout the country.

He makes his home in Gilpintown during summers and spends most winters in Akron. He said he couldn't leave this area in the summer, as it is "like heaven."

Man Given Jail Term In Pay Fraud

Ralph E. Woolard Gets Six Months

Ralph E. Woolard, 309 Bond Street, yesterday was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction for failing to make restitution in an unemployment fraud case.

Woolard was found guilty on June 20, 1960 of making false statements to obtain $340 in unemployment benefits and was ordered to make resitution to the state.

At that hearing Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt suspended Woolard's six-month sentence on condition he make restitution of $5 a week until the full amount had been paid.

At yesterday's hearing before Magistrate Weatherholt, Deputy State's Attorney Donald W. Mason said Woolard had made restitution of only $50. From the period of his conviction until December 1960, Woolard repaid only $5, according to Mr. Mason.

Mr. Mason said Woolard was returned to court in December 1960 and his probation was continued on condition he start making restitution. However, Woolard paid only an additional $45 from that time until last June.

Md. Education Group Elects R. D. Weigle

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Maryland Association of Boards of Education Friday elected Dr. Richard D. Weigle, president of the Anne Arundel Board of Education, to serve as its president for the next year.

Dr. Weigle, who is also president of St. John's College here, has served the organization as first vice president for the past year.

Mrs. Frances E. Dodson of Charles County was elected first vice president; Peter A. Wimbrow, Worcester County, second vice president; Mrs. Jason T. Pate, Harford County, secretary, and Mrs. Marie Farring, Baltimore, treasurer.

Paul D. Cooper, superintendent of the Worcester County schools, addressed the closing session of the association. He spoke for Edward G. Stapleton, former superintendent of schools for Baltimore County, who was unable to attend because of an illness in the family.

Cooper told board members they should confine their role to "policy-making" and leave administration of the school system to the superintendents.

He urged them to "look more thoroughly into proposals" and make certain they are for the betterment of the school program. He said board members have "one role as a citizen critic and a completely different role as a board member."

"Act in the interests of all the children," Cooper said.

He said the school board should devote itself to giving considerable attention to the curriculum and the quality of instruction in the schools.

Gov. Tawes earlier told the meeting that despite a growing trend toward more federal and state support for public schools' primary authority over school operations should remain in local communities.

"Most Marylanders, in my opinion, believe that public education fares best when the authority for operating the schools is left in the hands of local officials like yourselves," he said.

"We are skeptical, we are fearful, of too much centralization."

Bread Cost Is Increased

The cost of bread has been increased on an average of two cents a loaf by most markets in this section.

Bakery officials said the prices of bread, rolls and sweet goods have been increased a cent and a half to the grocer and the increase has been passed on to the customer.

The major supermarkets that stock their own brands of bread said no increase is anticipated in their prices, but the situation can be changed with almost no notice.

The bakers said the increase in prices is caused by a number of things, the principal one being the increased cost of flour. Higher labor cost is reported to be another factor in the increase.

Church School Will Install

Church school officers and teachers will be installed at Centre Street Methodist Church tomorrow at the 11 a.m. service.

Rev. Carlton M. Harris, pastor, will conduct the special installation and dedication service which marks the beginning of the church school year. His sermon topic will be "I Have Learned."

Officers to be installed are Mrs. Ernest Lindsay, general superintendent and acting junior department superintendent; Raymond Boor, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Donnell Mahew, literature secretary; Lester Heinrich, adult superintendent; Mrs. John Nicklin, senior superintendent; Mrs. Charles Nuzum, junior high superintendent; Mrs. Robert Spriggs, primary superintendent; Mrs. Russell H. Hilleary Jr., kindergarten; Mrs. Doyle Andrews, nursery division superintendent; Miss Patricia Beal, superintendent of three-year-olds; Mrs. Earl Price, two-year-olds, Mrs. Harry R. Beckman, baby and toddler nursery, and Mrs. S. A. McCullough, nursery home visitor.

Approximately 65 other workers and teachers also will be installed Sunday.

Tawes Attacked For Statement On Negro Policy

Restaurant Issue Brings Criticism

BALTIMORE (AP) — A former Republican governor, a State Department spokesman, a Democratic state legislator and a self-appointed watchdog of politicians all took exception Friday to the latest word from Gov. Tawes on discrimination against Negroes in Maryland restaurants.

The Democratic governor said Thursday "it would be much better if they (Negroes) would stop at places with an open door policy."

He was commenting on refusal of a restaurant on U.S. 40 to serve an envoy from Nigeria last Tuesday.

"These incidents will continue to happen from time to time," Gov. Tawes said.

"If I were in the governor's position, I would not make such a statement," declared Theodore R. McKeldin, the Republican predecessor of Tawes and a highly probable GOP candidate next year.

"Terrible Reflection"

"It is a terrible reflection on this state. I believe the governor should use every ounce of his power to correct this situation by moral suasion, and if that is not successful then we ought to have prompt legislative action."

McKeldin said if he were governor, he would "lead a fight for such legislation, as I have in the past."

A bill to require all restaurants and hotels in Maryland to serve everyone failed at the 1961 session of the Legislature early this year.

Del. Alexander Stark, D-Balto 6th, who had been prominent in seeking passage of the bill, had this to say about the Tawes statement:

"I would not expect that the governor would furnish a box lunch to each diplomat when he reaches the Maryland border."

And Hyman A. Pressman, a Baltimore lawyer who has kept tabs on public officials of both parties for years, wired the governor:

"Your statement is like Marie Antoinette's 'Let Them Eat Cake.' You are fumbling the ball when you should be running with it."

Hurts Us Abroad

Pedro Sanjuan, assistant chief of protocol for the State Department, said it would be poor policy to tell Africans that "the United States, which is a free country, limits their rights and privileges."

Sanjuan has been leading a campaign endorsed by the White House to convince Maryland restaurant owners, particularly on U. S. 40, that refusal to serve traveling Negroes is hurting the United States in cold war propaganda.

Prior to the individual reaction to the statement by Gov. Tawes, the Catholic Review of the Baltimore Archdiocese, the Maryland-District of Columbia AFL-CIO, and Rep. Daniel B. Brewster, D-Md., had issued statements urging an end to the restaurant discrimination.

Brewster's district encompasses the section of U.S. 40 between Baltimore and Delaware which the State Department says is prone to produce incidents of embarrassment for Negroes from abroad traveling between New York and Washington.

Oral Polio Vaccine Centers Announced

Locations of 16 dispensing stations for the second Sabin oral polio vaccine program were announced last night by the Allegany-Garrett County Medical Society.

The second dose of free vaccine will be given at the 16 stations next Friday and Saturday. Public and parochial school children will receive the vaccine at their schools on Thursday morning.

Dispensing centers are:

Cumberland — Algonquin Hotel, LaSalle High School, Penn Avenue School, John Humbird School, Fort Hill High School, Gephart School, West Side School.

LaVale — Parkside School, LaVale Fire Hall.

Frostburg — Beall Elementary School.

Westernport — Westernport Elementary School.

Lonaconing — Central Elementary School.

Cresaptown — Cresaptown School.

Oldtown—Oldtown School.

Flintstone — Flintstone School.

Mount Savage—Mount Savage School.

All the centers except those at Flintstone and Oldtown will be open from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Those two centers will operate only on Saturday from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Some Changes Made

Another major change since the first-dose program in June involves the central downtown station in Cumberland. Remodeling of the City Hall basement has ruled out its use as a dispensing center, and the management of the Algonquin Hotel volunteered the use of the office recently vacated by the Conlon Travel Agency on the first floor of the hotel.

The medical society, which is sponsoring the program, re-emphasized yesterday that the vaccine is available free to anyone who wants it, regardless of his age or place of residence.

The doctors especially hope to reach all pre-school-age children, and for that matter, all persons 45 or under. Even those who have had all their Salk shots are encouraged to take the Sabin vaccine because of the different type of immunity it confers.

Can Start Series Now

Whether or not a person took the first dose of Sabin vaccine last June, he may still begin the doses next week. A third dose will be given this winter, and a makeup dose will be given in the spring for those who missed the first dose but want to start the series now.

The vaccine is being furnished free by Wyeth Laboratories of Philadelphia, which provided vaccine for the 38,000 persons who took the first dose last June.

Health Clinics Canceled For Polio Program

Dr. W. Ross Cameron, deputy state health officer for Allegany County Health Department, announced yesterday that county public health nurses will participate in the Sabin oral polio vaccine program next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Because of the nurses' participation in this program, it will be necessary to cancel all county clinics with the exception of seizure and mental health clinics Thursday and Friday.

Seizure and mental health clinics will be held Friday as scheduled.

Canceled are child health conferences in Cumberland, Frostburg and Lonaconing, Thursday; chest clinic, 111 Union Street, and child health conferences at Mt. Savage and Midland, Friday.

Travel Council Of State Holds Session Here

For the first time since its establishment about six years ago, the board of directors of the Maryland Travel Council met yesterday afternoon in the Cumberland area at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Most of the board members expressed pleasure at the improvements now under way on U. S. Route 40 from Cumberland easterly to the Washington County line. Four projects involving a total of about 12 miles of new highway are being constructed on U.S. Route 40 east of Cumberland without detours and with virtually no delays in traffic.

Richard Hartman of Baltimore is president of the Travel Council.

As good travelers do, the Travel Council plans ahead. As a result plans were announced yesterday for the group's next meeting which will be held December 12 at the Emerson Hotel in Baltimore. On that occasion, Voit Gilmore, new director of the U. S. Tourist Division of the Department of Commerce, will deliver the principal address.

For one of the directors of the Travel Council yesterday's meeting constituted a kind of homecoming. He was Leonard Kolmer, retired general manager of the American Automobile Association's club of Maryland. Mr. Kolmer is a native of Lonaconing. He pointed to the development of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal through this area as a boon to tourist travel.

J. L. Towler of Cumberland, a vice president of the Travel Council, acted as toastmaster at the dinner last night. Members of the board of the U. S. Route 40 Association met with the Travel Council.

Earle Wood Jr., managing director of the Travel Council, pointed out last night that the council is designed to serve as the coordinating agency for all of the tourist promotion conducted on a local level throughout Maryland.

Man Struck By Car Dies In Hospital

Richard Garlitz, 49, Of Near Frostburg, Hit On Route 40

A 49-year-old Frostburg area man was fatally injured last night when he was struck by an automobile on U. S. Route 40 two miles east of Grantsville.

Victim of the accident was Richard Clifton Garlitz, of Star Route, Frostburg, who died shortly after being admitted to Meyersdale (Pa.) Community Hospital.

It was reported Mr. Garlitz received a fractured skull, shock and facial injuries.

Tfc. G. D. Folk identified the driver of the car which struck Garlitz as Opal Pearl Gump, 45, of Fairmont, W. Va.

Tfc. Folk said the woman was traveling west on Route 40 when Mr. Garlitz stepped from behind a parked car. The trooper said the cause of the accident was the apparent inattention of the pedestrian.

The accident occurred at approximately 7 p. m. and the victim died at 8 p. m.

Labor Council Represented On UPIDC Board

The appointment of three labor representatives to the board of directors of the Upper Potomac Industrial Development Company was announced yesterday by John E. Geare, UPIDC president.

They are F. Patrick Allender, business representative of Carpenters Local 1024; John G. Thomas, vice president of the Western Maryland Central Labor Council and a former president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union, and Andrew Lewis, president of United Glass and Ceramic Workers Local 180.

Notification of the appointments was made by Josiah E. Mullenax, president of the Western Maryland AFL-CIO labor council.

They will serve as labor's representatives for the current term.

Representation for organized labor on the board of the UPIDC follows a number of changes in the charter and by-laws of the company formed here several years ago to encourage the industrial growth of this area.

One was to change the name of the organization from the Cumberland Industrial Development Company to the Upper Potomac Industrial Development Company, since the interests of the organization has always included the entire Upper Potomac area.

The amended by-laws provided that the board of directors be composed of 15 directors at large and for organizational directors, including three to represent labor organizations and one each to represent Allegany County and the City of Cumberland and a director to represent incorporated municipalities in the region served by the UPIDC.

A special weight-lifting course is being offered on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at 7 p. m. for boys and young men between the ages of 14 and 19, under the direction of Tom Hamilton. Haines urges all interested adults to call the "Y" for further information.

Frostburg To Get 'Y' Bus Service

There will be a bus transportation program similar to the one offered to the LaVale schools for the three Frostburg elementary schools starting Thursday, October 19, announces Ben Haines, "Y" program director.

The Pullen, Beall, and Hill Street schools children will be extended the 10-week bus transportation program due to the large interest that has come to the attention of the "Y" officials. Mr. Haines urges parents to call the "Y" at once to place their child on the transportation listing. The program offers transportation to the "Y" for the children, and then returns the children to the schools or homes after the "physical fitness" program each Thursday.

Girl Dies, 6 Hurt As Car Hits Pole

Barbara Kidwell Succumbs After Lonaconing Crash

One girl was fatally injured and six others were hurt last night when the car they were passengers in went out of control and struck a utility pole near Lonaconing.

Barbara Kidwell, 17, Westernport, was taken to Miners Hospital in Frostburg, but died at midnight.

Taken to the hospital were Marilyn Miller, 17, of Barton, who was identified as the driver of the car; Dolores Upperman, 17, and Brenda Upperman, 18, both of Bloomington; Christa D. Green, 11, Barton; Jeanette Miller, 12, Barton, and Jean Stowell, 16, of Franklin.

It was reported the girls were headed toward Westernport from Lonaconing, when the Miller girl attempted to pass a car one mile south of Lonaconing. The vehicle apparently went out of control and struck a pole.

After the auto struck the pole, a high tension wire fell across the vehicle and the Potomac Edison Company was called to the scene to remove the damaged wire.

Tfc. Robert Dishong investigated the accident, assisted by Trooper T. E. McConnell.

Fire Company Sets Activities For Next Week

Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Company will conduct several activities next week in conjunction with Fire Prevention Week which will be observed October 15-21.

Tomorrow the fire company members will attend church in a body and on Monday, open house will be held starting at 7 p.m. Refreshments will be served and children will be given rides on the fire truck.

On Tuesday, members of the company will distribute stickers to those families who have someone ill or an invalid in their homes. Persons interested on obtaining a sticker for their homes should contact the fire hall.

Several members of the fire company will visit Northeast School Wednesday at 10 a.m. and address the student body on fire prevention. The company also will announce the winner of the essay contest, "What Fire Prevention Means To Me," which is being conducted among the students.

At 10 a.m. Thursday, members of the company will conduct a demonstration on the methods of fighting the various types of fire. That afternoon a class of students from Northeast School will be taken on a guided tour of Central Fire Station in Cumberland.

A movie on fire prevention will be shown at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the fire hall. It will be open to the public, company officials said. The week's activities will conclude with a dance Saturday night at the fire hall, and a dry powder fire extinguisher will be given as a door prize.

Officials of the company said anyone desiring to have his home inspected for fire hazards should contact the fire hall and a fireman will inspect the residence at the convenience of the property owner.

State Police Would Add 40

BALTIMORE (AP)—A $6.8 million budget submitted Friday by state Police includes a request for 40 additional troopers and 19 new civilian employes.

Col. Carey B. Jarman, superintendent of State Police, said the 40 new troopers will "just barely keep us abreast of the problem" of expanding duties as Maryland's population and highway network continue to increase.

"We think, in fact, that 40 new troopers is on the conservative side," Jarman said.

The department has added about 40 troopers to its uniformed force each of the past three years. Jarman said the request for fiscal 1963 takes into account the opening of the 31-mile Baltimore Beltway and anticipates the opening of the Northeast Expressway.

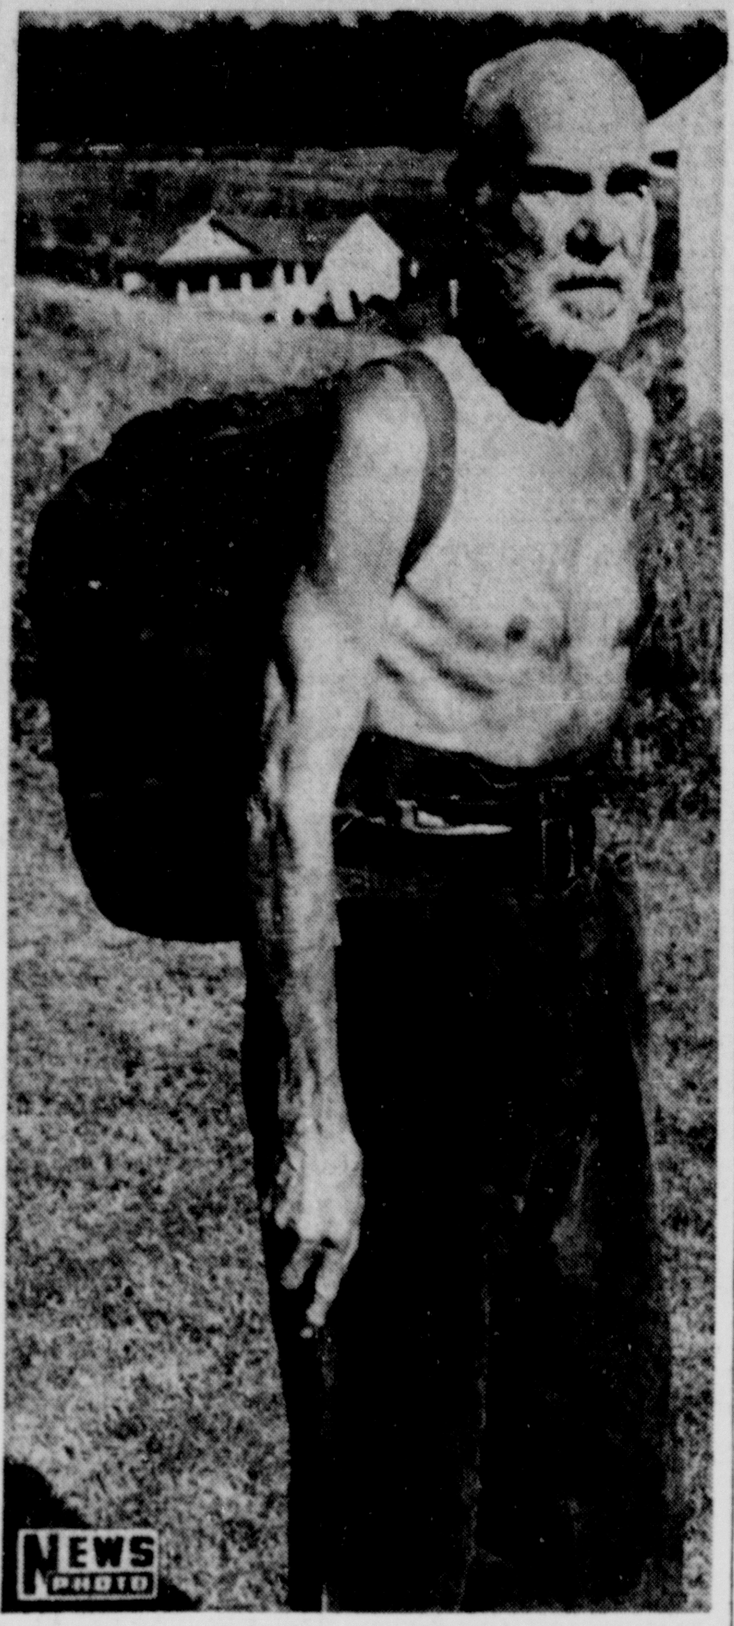
County Man, 69, Trudges Length Of C&O Canal, Calls It 'Wonderful Trip'



Hiker Frank G. Berry

Frank G. Berry May Be Oldest To Make Hike

By C. WESLEY BLACKBURN
News Staff Writer

A 69-year-old Flintstone area man this week completed a hike along the historic Chesapeake and Ohio Canal. He said yesterday it was a "wonderful" trip and that he "wouldn't have missed it for anything."

He is Frank G. Berry, a retired papermaker, and he believes he is the oldest man ever to hike over the towpath of the waterway with a heavy pack on his back.

Mr. Berry plans early next week to shave off the heavy beard which he started 10 days before hitting the trail.

The beard, he said, was needed, since "mosquitos can't bite through a quarter of an inch of hair."

Mr. Berry began the 165-mile trek of the canal on Baltimore Street on September 13, and ended his leisurely hike in Washington Monday.

Carried 40-Pound Pack

Twelve days on the trail, he walked six hours a day carrying a 40-pound pack which included a rain sheet, a sleeping bag, a stove and a small supply of concentrated food and coffee.

He said the only unpleasant time on the trail was during a severe storm in the Paw Paw section on the second night, and the final day, when he walked into the night through the rain to complete the trip.

Once a day, he stopped on the towpath to prepare a full meal, washed down with black coffee, both prepared on the tiny GI stove he carries in his pack.

He said his favorite refreshment on the trail, enjoyed each time he came to a town, consisted of a "strengthening" mixture of two parts of fresh milk and one of root beer.

Sleeping under the stars, he said, was no problem, as he has been camping and hiking most of the summer.

Potomac "Most Beautiful"

Mr. Berry said the Potomac River, along which the canal runs, is the most beautiful stream he has ever seen and that he did not think "even the Missouri is as pretty."

He said he enjoyed his stops in each community along the way, and that high spots of the tour were the sight of Great Falls, Antietam battlefield and the excursion boat which travels a reconstructed stretch of the canal at Washington.

He acknowledged the assistance of Edwin M. Dale, superintendent of the C & O Canal National Historical Park project, who issued a permit, provided maps and information and arranged for park rangers to keep a check on his progress.

Trained Six Weeks

Mr. Berry said he trained for six weeks for the canal hike, starting with four miles a day and ended up trudging 10 miles a day with full pack as the time neared for the long-planned trip.

He said residents along the way reported he was the oldest man ever to make the complete trip on foot with a loaded pack.

He is a native of Flintstone and retired in Akron in 1957 after 50 years of work in the papermaking trade.

Mr. Berry learned the trade at the Luke mill of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, where he worked from 1907 to 1920. Most of the rest of his working career was spent, he said, helping set up new paper mills throughout the country.

He makes his home in Gilpintown during summers and spends most winters in Akron. He said he couldn't leave this area in the summer, as it is "like heaven."

Man Given Jail Term In Pay Fraud

Ralph E. Woolard Gets Six Months

Ralph E. Woolard, 309 Bond Street, yesterday was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction for failing to make restitution in an unemployment fraud case.

Woolard was found guilty on June 20, 1960 of making false statements to obtain $340 in unemployment benefits and was ordered to make resitution to the state.

At that hearing Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt suspended Woolard's six-month sentence on condition he make restitution of $5 a week until the full amount had been paid.

At yesterday's hearing before Magistrate Weatherholt, Deputy State's Attorney Donald W. Mason said Woolard had made restitution of only $50. From the period of his conviction until December 1960, Woolard repaid only $5, according to Mr. Mason.

Mr. Mason said Woolard was returned to court in December 1960 and his probation was continued on condition he start making restitution. However, Woolard paid only an additional $45 from that time until last June.

Md. Education Group Elects R. D. Weigle

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Maryland Association of Boards of Education Friday elected Dr. Richard D. Weigle, president of the Anne Arundel Board of Education, to serve as its president for the next year.

Dr. Weigle, who is also president of St. John's College here, has served the organization as first vice president for the past year.

Mrs. Frances E. Dodson of Charles County was elected first vice president; Peter A. Wimbrow, Worcester County, second vice president; Mrs. Jason T. Pate, Harford County, secretary, and Mrs. Marie Farring, Baltimore, treasurer.

Paul D. Cooper, superintendent of the Worcester County schools, addressed the closing session of the association. He spoke for Edward G. Stapleton, former superintendent of schools for Baltimore County, who was unable to attend because of an illness in the family.

Cooper told board members they should confine their role to "policy-making" and leave administration of the school system to the superintendents.

He urged them to "look more thoroughly into proposals" and make certain they are for the betterment of the school program. He said board members have "one role as a citizen critic and a completely different role as a board member."

"Act in the interests of all the children," Cooper said.

He said the school board should devote itself to giving considerable attention to the curriculum and the quality of instruction in the schools.

Gov. Tawes earlier told the meeting that despite a growing trend toward more federal and state support for public schools' primary authority over school operations should remain in local communities.

"Most Marylanders, in my opinion, believe that public education fares best when the authority for operating the schools is left in the hands of local officials like yourselves," he said.

"We are skeptical, we are fearful, of too much centralization."

Bread Cost Is Increased

The cost of bread has been increased on an average of two cents a loaf by most markets in this section.

Bakery officials said the prices of bread, rolls and sweet goods have been increased a cent and a half to the grocer and the increase has been passed on to the customer.

The major supermarkets that stock their own brands of bread said no increase is anticipated in their prices, but the situation can be changed with almost no notice.

The bakers said the increase in prices is caused by a number of things, the principal one being the increased cost of flour. Higher labor cost is reported to be another factor in the increase.

Church School Will Install

Church school officers and teachers will be installed at Centre Street Methodist Church tomorrow at the 11 a.m. service.

Officers to be installed are Mrs. Ernest Lindsay, general superintendent and acting junior department superintendent; Raymond Boor, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Donnell Mahew, literature secretary; Lester Heinrich, adult superintendent; Mrs. John Nicklin, senior superintendent; Mrs. Charles Nuzum, junior high superintendent; Mrs. Robert Spriggs, primary superintendent; Mrs. Russell H. Hilleary Jr., kindergarten; Mrs. Doyle Andrews, nursery division superintendent; Miss Patricia Beal, superintendent of three-year-olds; Mrs. Earl Price, two-year-olds, Mrs. Harry R. Beckman, baby and toddler nursery, and Mrs. S. A. McCullough, nursery home visitor.

Approximately 65 other workers and teachers also will be installed Sunday.

Tawes Attacked For Statement On Negro Policy

Restaurant Issue Brings Criticism

BALTIMORE (AP) — A former Republican governor, a State Department spokesman, a Democratic state legislator and a self-appointed watchdog of politicians all took exception Friday to the latest word from Gov. Tawes on discrimination against Negroes in Maryland restaurants.

The Democratic governor said Thursday "it would be much better if they (Negroes) would stop at places with an open door policy."

He was commenting on refusal of a restaurant on U.S. 40 to serve an envoy from Nigeria last Tuesday.

"These incidents will continue to happen from time to time," Gov. Tawes said.

"If I were in the governor's position, I would not make such a statement," declared Theodore R. McKeldin, the Republican predecessor of Tawes and a highly probable GOP candidate next year.

"Terrible Reflection"

"It is a terrible reflection on this state. I believe the governor should use every ounce of his power to correct this situation by moral suasion, and if that is not successful then we ought to have prompt legislative action."

McKeldin said if he were governor, he would "lead a fight for such legislation, as I have in the past."

A bill to require all restaurants and hotels in Maryland to serve everyone failed at the 1961 session of the Legislature early this year.

Del. Alexander Stark, D-Balto 6th, who had been prominent in seeking passage of the bill, had this to say about the Tawes statement:

"I would not expect that the governor would furnish a box lunch to each diplomat when he reaches the Maryland border."

And Hyman A. Pressman, a Baltimore lawyer who has kept tabs on public officials of both parties for years, wired the governor:

"Your statement is like Marie Antoinette's 'Let Them Eat Cake.' You are fumbling the ball when you should be running with it."

Hurts Us Abroad

Pedro Sanjuan, assistant chief of protocol for the State Department, said it would be poor policy to tell Africans that "the United States, which is a free country, limits their rights and privileges."

Sanjuan has been leading a campaign endorsed by the White House to convince Maryland restaurant owners, particularly on U. S. 40, that refusal to serve traveling Negroes is hurting the United States in cold war propaganda.

Prior to the individual reaction to the statement by Gov. Tawes, the Catholic Review of the Baltimore Archdiocese, the Maryland-District of Columbia AFL-CIO, and Rep. Daniel B. Brewster, D-Md., had issued statements urging an end to the restaurant discrimination.

Brewster's district encompasses the section of U.S. 40 between Baltimore and Delaware which the State Department says is prone to produce incidents of embarrassment for Negroes from abroad traveling between New York and Washington.

Oral Polio Vaccine Centers Announced

Locations of 16 dispensing stations for the second Sabin oral polio vaccine program were announced last night by the Allegany-Garrett County Medical Society.

The second dose of free vaccine will be given at the 16 stations next Friday and Saturday. Public and parochial school children will receive the vaccine at their schools on Thursday morning.

Dispensing centers are:

Cumberland — Algonquin Hotel, LaSalle High School, Penn Avenue School, John Humbird School, Fort Hill High School, Gephart School, West Side School.

LaVale — Parkside School, LaVale Fire Hall.

Frostburg — Beall Elementary School.

Westernport — Westernport Elementary School.

Lonaconing — Central Elementary School.

Cresaptown — Cresaptown School.

Oldtown—Oldtown School.

Flintstone — Flintstone School.

Mount Savage—Mount Savage School.

All the centers except those at Flintstone and Oldtown will be open from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Those two centers will operate only on Saturday from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Some Changes Made

Another major change since the first-dose program in June involves the central downtown station in Cumberland. Remodeling of the City Hall basement has ruled out its use as a dispensing center, and the management of the Algonquin Hotel volunteered the use of the office recently vacated by the Conlon Travel Agency on the first floor of the hotel.

The medical society, which is sponsoring the program, re-emphasized yesterday that the vaccine is available free to anyone who wants it, regardless of his age or place of residence.

The doctors especially hope to reach all pre-school-age children, and for that matter, all persons 45 or under. Even those who have had all their Salk shots are encouraged to take the Sabin vaccine because of the different type of immunity it confers.

Can Start Series Now

Whether or not a person took the first dose of Sabin vaccine last June, he may still begin the doses next week. A third dose will be given this winter, and a makeup dose will be given in the spring for those who missed the first dose but want to start the series now.

The vaccine is being furnished free by Wyeth Laboratories of Philadelphia, which provided vaccine for the 38,000 persons who took the first dose last June.

Health Clinics Canceled For Polio Program

Dr. W. Ross Cameron, deputy state health officer for Allegany County Health Department, announced yesterday that county public health nurses will participate in the Sabin oral polio vaccine program next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Because of the nurses' participation in this program, it will be necessary to cancel all county clinics with the exception of seizure and mental health clinics Thursday and Friday.

Seizure and mental health clinics will be held Friday as scheduled.

Canceled are child health conferences in Cumberland, Frostburg and Lonaconing, Thursday; chest clinic, 111 Union Street, and child health conferences at Mt. Savage and Midland, Friday.

Travel Council Of State Holds Session Here

For the first time since its establishment about six years ago, the board of directors of the Maryland Travel Council met yesterday afternoon in the Cumberland area at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Most of the board members expressed pleasure at the improvements now under way on U. S. Route 40 from Cumberland easterly to the Washington County line. Four projects involving a total of about 12 miles of new highway are being constructed on U.S. Route 40 east of Cumberland without detours and with virtually no delays in traffic.

Richard Hartman of Baltimore is president of the Travel Council.

As good travelers do, the Travel Council plans ahead. As a result plans were announced yesterday for the group's next meeting which will be held December 12 at the Emerson Hotel in Baltimore. On that occasion, Voit Gilmore, new director of the U. S. Tourist Division of the Department of Commerce, will deliver the principal address.

For one of the directors of the Travel Council yesterday's meeting constituted a kind of homecoming. He was Leonard Kolmer, retired general manager of the American Automobile Association's club of Maryland. Mr. Kolmer is a native of Lonaconing. He pointed to the development of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal through this area as a boon to tourist travel.

J. L. Towler of Cumberland, a vice president of the Travel Council, acted as toastmaster at the dinner last night. Members of the board of the U. S. Route 40 Association met with the Travel Council.

Earle Wood Jr., managing director of the Travel Council, pointed out last night that the council is designed to serve as the coordinating agency for all of the tourist promotion conducted on a local level throughout Maryland.

Richard Garlitz, 49, Of Near Frostburg, Hit On Route 40

A 49-year-old Frostburg area man was fatally injured last night when he was struck by an automobile on U. S. Route 40 two miles east of Grantsville.

Victim of the accident was Richard Clifton Garlitz, of Star Route, Frostburg, who died shortly after being admitted to Meyersdale (Pa.) Community Hospital.

It was reported Mr. Garlitz received a fractured skull, shock and facial injuries.

Tfc. G. D. Folk identified the driver of the car which struck Garlitz as Opal Pearl Gump, 45, of Fairmont, W. Va.

Tfc. Folk said the woman was traveling west on Route 40 when Mr. Garlitz stepped from behind a parked car. The trooper said the cause of the accident was the apparent inattention of the pedestrian.

The accident occurred at approximately 7 p. m. and the victim died at 8 p. m.

Labor Council Represented On UPIDC Board

The appointment of three labor representatives to the board of directors of the Upper Potomac Industrial Development Company was announced yesterday by John E. Geare, UPIDC president.

They are F. Patrick Allender, business representative of Carpenters Local 1024; John G. Thomas, vice president of the Western Maryland Central Labor Council and a former president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union, and Andrew Lewis, president of United Glass and Ceramic Workers Local 180.

Notification of the appointments was made by Josiah E. Mullenax, president of the Western Maryland AFL-CIO labor council.

They will serve as labor's representatives for the current term.

Representation for organized labor on the board of the UPIDC follows a number of changes in the charter and by-laws of the company formed here several years ago to encourage the industrial growth of this area.

One was to change the name of the organization from the Cumberland Industrial Development Company to the Upper Potomac Industrial Development Company, since the interests of the organization has always included the entire Upper Potomac area.

The amended by-laws provided that the board of directors be composed of 15 directors at large and for organizational directors, including three to represent labor organizations and one each to represent Allegany County and the City of Cumberland and a director to represent incorporated municipalities in the region served by the UPIDC.

Barry Sullivan in "Tall Man" Scene

Barry Sullivan Discovers TV Westerns Liked In Other Lands

Barry Sullivan, star of NBC-TV's "Tall Man," now in its second year, was very much against doing a Western series only a few years ago.

"I figured Westerns were waning," he said. "I'm not embarrassed to admit I was wrong. On a tour of 30 cities with Bette Davis I discovered that in every area where there was only one or two TV stations, they aired nothing but Westerns in the evening hours. I asked the men who owned the stations why they pre-empted other shows in favor of the oat-burners, and their answer was simple. Their viewers had made it clear that they wanted to see them more than any other type of show."

Recently in Rome while filming the movie, "Light In the Piazza" with Yvette Mimieux and Olivia de Havilland, he was further convinced of the continued world-wide appeal of Westerns.

"A group of tourists had been watching us shoot the movie and, during a break, they came over to talk to me. There were some Americans in the group but most of them were English, Japanese and some were residents of Africa."

Unlike Americans, who recognize Barry from his movie work in addition to video, the Europeans know him from his television exposure only. His TV series, "Mr. X," is now playing in England.

Sullivan feels that the enthusiasm shown by the Europeans indicates the impact of Westerns around the world.

"I think the reason is pretty clear. We may tend to downgrade the Western on TV, but the Western still remains a great story-telling form.

'Cain's Hundred' Star Is Former Pro Grid Player

For actor Mark Richman, chasing criminals and fighting hoodlums should be a snap when compared with his former occupation —professional football.

Richman, who stars as Nicholas Cain in "Cain's Hundred," NBC-TV's new action series, captained one of Philadelphia's entries in the Eastern Professional Football League for two years before his knee was seriously injured in the last game of the 1946 season.

"It was a pretty tough way to make a living," Richman remarked. "But I loved it and would do it over again."

His prowess as a fullback was recognized when he was named all-city fullback after captaining his school's championship team.

After his professional football career was ended with the "knee injury" he entered the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and graduated four years later with a B. S. in pharmacy.

"I'm probably the only actor licensed to practice pharmacy in two states—New York and Pennsylvania," he commented.

Degree in hand, he went to work as a pharmacist.

Barry Sullivan in "Tall Man" Scene

Barry Sullivan Discovers TV Westerns Liked In Other Lands

Barry Sullivan, star of NBC-TV's "Tall Man," now in its second year, was very much against doing a Western series only a few years ago.

"I figured Westerns were waning," he said. "I'm not embarrassed to admit I was wrong. On a tour of 30 cities with Bette Davis I discovered that in every area where there was only one or two TV stations, they aired nothing but Westerns in the evening hours. I asked the men who owned the stations why they pre-empted other shows in favor of the oatburners, and their answer was simple. Their viewers had made it clear that they wanted to see them more than any other type of show."

Recently in Rome while filming the movie, "Light In the Piazza" with Yvette Mimieux and Olivia de Havilland, he was further convinced of the continued worldwide appeal of Westerns.

"A group of tourists had been watching us shoot the movie and, during a break, they came over to talk to me. There were some Americans in the group but most of them were English, Japanese and some were residents of Africa."

Unlike Americans, who recognize Barry from his movie work in addition to video, the Europeans know him from his television exposure only. His TV series, "Mr. X," is now playing in England.

Sullivan feels that the enthusiasm shown by the Europeans indicates the impact of Westerns around the world.

"I think the reason is pretty clear. We may tend to downgrade the Western on TV, but the Western still remains a great storytelling form.

'Cain's Hundred' Star Is Former Pro Grid Player

For actor Mark Richman, chasing criminals and fighting hoodlums should be a snap when compared with his former occupation—professional football.

Richman, who stars as Nicholas Cain in "Cain's Hundred," NBC-TV's new action series, captained one of Philadelphia's entries in the Eastern Professional Football League for two years before his knee was seriously injured in the last game of the 1946 season.

"It was a pretty tough way to make a living," Richman remarked. "But I loved it and would do it over again."

His prowess as a fullback was recognized when he was named all-city fullback after captaining his school's championship team.

After his professional football career was ended with the "knee injury" he entered the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and graduated four years later with a B. S. in pharmacy.

"I'm probably the only actor licensed to practice pharmacy in two states—New York and Pennsylvania," he commented.

Degree in hand, he went to work as a pharmacist.

Ethel Waters Great Jazz Singer

Ethel Waters did a Route 66 show directed by veteran director and ex-jazz musician Jack Smight.

Smight says Miss Waters, who has been in semi-retirement for years, didn't want to do the show. That's because she lately has turned to religion, so she objected to some of the jazz flavoring in the script.

"But gradually," Smight says, "she came out of her shell. Jo Jones and Roy Eldridge, jazz musicians and old friends of hers, helped. By the time the filming was finished, she was swinging and having a ball."

Simian Silence

Fred De Cordova says of his two-segment directing stint on ABC-TV's new "The Hathaways" series, that working with the Marquis Chimps trio is a pleasure because they never talk back and pay as much attention to his suggestions as anyone else in Hollywood.

Ethel Waters Great Jazz Singer

Ethel Waters did a Route 66 show directed by veteran director and ex-jazz musician Jack Smight.

Smight says Miss Waters, who has been in semi-retirement for years, didn't want to do the show. That's because she lately has turned to religion, so she objected to some of the jazz flavoring in the script.

"But gradually," Smight says, "she came out of her shell. Jo Jones and Roy Eldridge, jazz musicians and old friends of hers, helped. By the time the filming was finished, she was swinging and having a ball."

Bickford, Hagen Tapped For Top Roles In Show

Charles Bickford and Jean Hagen starred in "The Golden Years" on "The General Electric Theatre" Sunday, Sept. 10 (9-9:30 p. m., EDT) on the CBS Television Network.

"The Golden Years" is the dramatic story of a detective chief who make a sinister business deal with a sworn enemy in order to provide comforts for his wife after retirement. Bickford plays the chief and Miss Hagen plays his young wife, Paula.

Vincent Edwards, star of "Ben Casey," the new medico-dramatic series, distinguished himself as a swimmer at Ohio State University. He was a member of the 1947-48 national swimming team (backstroke), and at one time was New York State champion.
